National Extravagance.

That homely but truthful old maxim, "A penny saved is a penny earned," was never more applicable than at the present hour, yet apparently never more disregarded. It would seem as if the great American people were fast losing their senses, and bent only on frittering away their time and money in one continual round of riotous revelry.

Let us look at the matter. We have a great rebellion upon our hands, one of the most formidable that ever threatened the downfall of any nation; three years of protrated war, with fair prospects of a like number to come, have drawn heavily upon the resources of the North; a large proportion of our able-bodied men have been called from their customary avocations to join our armies in the field, consequently not only depriving us of their industry, but rendering them a severe and rapidly increasing tax upon the county; the expansion of currency has created an enormous advance in price of all the necessaries of life,—and at times the whole financial fabric appears shaken to its foundation and threatening to go by the board. With these disagreable fact staring us in the face, it becomes us to act wisely in the premises. Such, we are sorry to say, is not the case. Instead of seeking the best methods of economizing and diligently practicing them, there is a constant strife as to who can dispose of the greatest amount of cash in the least time. The inventive genius of man is taxed to its utmost in devising ways and means for spending ill-gotten gains. Thousands are freely lavished to-day by men who yesterday had scarcely withal to buy a dinner.

There is an end approaching, and at no far distant day the crash will come, for come it must. Then woe to him whom the storm overtakes with all sails standing. "And the rain descended and the floods came and the winds blew and beat upon that house, and it fell; and great was the fall thereof."

A Slander Refuted.

The Louisville Journal—a paper that cannot be suspected of any favoritism to the administration—says in its issue of the 13th inst:

"It takes us about half the time to correct the misrepresentations and bogus news that are so freely circulated. The story in a Georgia paper concerning the passage of Mrs. J. Todd White, sister of Mrs. Lincoln, through our lines, with some articles of great value in rebeldom, was read by that lady prior to her leaving Washington. Major Mulford, at Fortress Monroe, says the statement does not contain one word of truth; in fact its falsehoods was proved by the absurdity of its own statements."

The North-Western has fallen back upon the old plan of doing its own printing? We would advise it to have both sides struck off in St. Paul. It then would have the advantage of being plainly printed and afford its readers better selections of reading matter. There is one consolation, however. If its contents are damnable, it is so poorly worked that no one can read it.

We have enough of rules to manage wives. Rather give us ones telling how to get them. These would be vastly more appreciated. Of course, after marriage, the little dears (?) could manage themselves—and us to very likely.

R. C. Eden, formerly captain of one of the St. Croix steamers, and latterly local and joint proprietor of the Oskosh North-Western, has been appointed captain in the 37th Wis. Regiment, and is in camp at Madison.

The Baltimore American does "not hesitate to say the greater part of the vote which in Missouri, Maryland, and Kentucky, will be cast for McClellan, is a vote that would be more graciously cast for Jeff. Davis, and only takes up the other as the next best man."

A Religious Newspaper.

Every candid person who has read the Independent for the month past will acknowledge the justice of the following strictures from the Round Table:

In its issue of March 17, the Independent published a note from a subscriber, inquiring as to what constitutes a religious paper. In the face of thirty-two flaring columns of advertisements, sixteen columns of articles and items on everything from politics to sewing machines, with only here and their an intimation of any religious professions, the conductors of that journal were conscience hardened enough to answer the inquiry by referring to the Independent as an example. A religious paper, and whole columns of filthy advertisements. A religious paper overflowing with puffs and politics. war news and business. Surely it is a new type of Christianity wheeh admits such a calendar within the pale of religion! A religious paper? Anything remarkably profitable in rela ting a eulogy of a sewing machine by the wife of the editor, almost side by side with the Cherokee Remedy? Does it suggest the highest happi ness to mankind to read of Constitution Water and a clergyman's puff of Bronchial Troches with the same glance? It is an element of religion to aid in curing vile diseases? Is it a pulpit power to be able to write handsome notices of sewing machines and medicines? Is it absolutely necessary to a man's highest developement that he should interlard his Sabbath reading with everything secular? Is it right, is it mathematical, to call a paper made up so largely of irreligion, a religious journal? These questions are asked with propriety by all who are interested in the Christian welfare of their fellow men, and they are answered by every man's good sense.

There are many very estimable people who think that if commissioners were sent to Richmond they could negotiate a peace. How such persons would be received is thus stated by the Richmond Enquirer:

If they (the northern democracy) repudiate the debt they have contracted and abandon the government they have established and recant vows and break pledges and eat dirt, it is well—we shall be charmed; the movement will suit us perfectly; and although we shall not exactly respect the actors in that affair. yet we shall not be unwilling to trade with them—holding our noses a little—nor to show them all suitable civilities—but at a proper distance.

To Correspondents.

Several favors have been received which we are unable to make room for. The pressure upon our columns has been very great, compelling us to leave out paying advertisements, and then hardly room for editorial matter and news. We trust it will be otherwise in a few weeks. Don't be discouraged, but write again.

The gallant old First Regiment has been virtually disbanded, by a recent order from the war department. The re-enlisted men are to be consolidated into companies, and the remainder, together with all the officers, are to be mustered out. We had hoped to see this organization kept up to the end of the war, and still think it might be should they go on with the draft.

The Albany Journal gives a table showing the result of the town elections that have taken place in that state this spring so far as received complete, including 938 towns, which stand 598 union and 240 democratic, with a union gain over last year of ninety-three. This is auspicious for the important fall elections.

One of the best remedies for the high prices of provisions is bean broth, beef-shin soup, codfish and potatoes, and plenty of bread, the material for making which is not unreasonably high. These things are healthy substitutes for roast beef, sirloin and mutton chops

The Richland County Observer says that at a recent examination of teachers in that county, being required to give an example of a tripthong, every lady teacher present, with one exception, wrote beau.

The sword contest is to be re-enacted in St. Louis at the approaching fair. A splendid sword, valued at $1,500, is to be presented to the general receiving the highest number of votes, at $1 each.

The farewell order of Col. Adams to the veterans of the First Regiment is a most creditable production, and worthy of the men to whom it was addressed. We regret our inability to give it a place in our columns.

Got any "tin?" will be the correct inquiry. The new cent will be composed of ninety-five per cent copper and five per cent tin.

All mail matter for the Seventh Regiment Minn. Vols., should be directed "Paducah, Ky., via Cairo."

With what different feelings different persons will look upon the coming of the bright spring! To some it will speak only hope, and joy, and blessedness To others the tender blade of grass, upon which the eye falls—the budding trees, the serene blue skies, the fragrant, many-hued flowers—will all be so many elements of pain and distress; for that soft breeze stirs the grass over a new-made grave, and all that brightness and beauty seem but a wretched mockery. "Why? why? why?" the impatient soul constantly reiterates, as it vainly seeks to reconcile itself to the change between the hope of the last spring-time and the sadness of this. There are moments when one is satisfied submissively to leave this question unsolved; but Nature, strong and self-asserting, soon moans again in her pain; and so, all over the land, are they who will turn away, sick at heart, from the brightness and beauty of this coming spring. —Fanny Fern.

It is said that Mayor Tiemann, at his paint factory in Manhattanville, has accidentally made a discovery which threatens to revolutionize floriculture One of the factory hands having thrown some liquid green paint of a particular kind on a flower bed occupied by white anemones, the flowers have since made their appearance with petals as green as grass. The paint had in it a peculiar and very penetrating chemical mixture, which Mr. Tiemann has since applied with other colors, to other plants, annual, biennial, and of the shrub kind—the result being invariable that the flowers so watered took the hue of the liquid deposited at their roots. By continuing experiments early next year, during seed time, and applying different colors, we shall no doubt be enabled to "paint the lily," which was Solomon's ambition.—N. Y. Tribune.

The last phase of the "confidence game" was developed Friday, by a Cincinati female. The woman having an earthen vessel in her apron, entered a grocery store and bought a pound of coffee. Removing the lid, she dropped the coffee in said vessel, replaced the lid, and was about to pay for it, when she discovered she had forgotten to bring her money. Not to have her honesty doubted she would leave her purchase till she went home and got her money, and accordingly set her crockery on the counter, where it remained until the grocer thought some-thing must be wrong, and on removing the lid, he found there was no bottom to the vessel, and of course the woman had gone off with the coffee in her apron.

The following figures will aid speculators in presidential candidates to cast up accounts: In 1860 the white male population of the states now represented in Congress was 22,736,926, not including West Virginia. In 1856 the vote for President in these states was, for Fremont, 1,342,164; Buchanan, 1,370,472; Fillmore, 564,347; total, 3,276,983. In 1860, for Lincoln 1,269,452; Douglas, 1,214,173. Breckenridge, 413,260; Bell, 244,712; total 3,728,597. The elections held in seueral states in 1863 indicate a reduction of about 300,000 from the vote of 1860. The acts passed in these states enabling soldiers to vote will make the reduction much less.

The habit of generalizing from a single statement sometimes causes ludicrous misrepresentations. Thus it was stated in the newspapers, some time ago, as a good joke that an old lady refused to touch a newspaper containing the President's message because she had heard that he had the small-pox. This story went to France, whereupon Galignani's (Paris) Messenger solemnly announces that "so stupid are the lower orders of the United States that they hesitated to take the journals containing the President's message from the post-office, fearing that they might catch the small-pox, under which the writer of the message was reported to be suffering."

THE EARTH'S POPULATION.—A professor of the University of Berlin, as the result of his researches, makes the population of Europe 272 millions, Asia 720 millions, Africa 89 millions, America 200 millions, Polynesia 2 millions; making a total of 1,283 millions of inhabitants. According to the most accurate register of deaths, the number of deaths must be about 32,000,000 every year, which gives 87,761 every day, 3,653 every hour, and 61 every minute. Another calculation estimates the number of persons who have lived on the earth since the creation to be 36,627,843,275,075,855.

Old Ben Butler is a jack-at-all trades, and there is nothing from solving a constitutional question, or directing an army, down to regulating the toilet of a secesh woman, that he can not do and do well. He has recently been overhauling the fire department of Norfolk, and is about to procure a small steam fire engine and ample hose for the city.

The Michigan Central Railroad Company are about to erect a new and splendid depot at Ypsilanti, Mich. It will be eighty-five feet in length, twenty-two in breadth, with a tower running up to a height of seventy-six feet from the base to the spire. It will cost $20,000.

EDUCATIONAL.

BY PROF. T. F. THICKSTUN.

Legislative Progress.

The Legislature did not adjourn without giving us two very marked elements of educational progress. The first of these was the revival of normal school at Winona; the other was the engrafting of the county superintendency on our general school system.

We write from memory, but we believe the amending law appropriates three thousand dollars to the Winona school for 1864, four thousand dollars for 1865, and five thousand annually thereafter.

This is certainly a good beginning under all the circumstances, and the friends of the school will doubtless push the car of improvement as far as possible by the aid of the appropriation thus put into their hands.

The law creating the county superintendency dees not differ materially from those in operation in other educational states. Its provisions, however, are not general, only extending to those counties whose commissioners choose to appoint a man to the office. Two counties have already chosen their superintendents, and others will soon do so. This is an important measure. An enthusiastic and practical man will find an abundance of work. Under his care the schools can hardly fail to manifest immediate improvement.

State Teachers' Association.

We take occasion thus early to call the attention of teachers to the time and place of the next anniversary of the state teachers' association. It meets on Wednesday, the 24th of August, at Red Wing, and continues its session during two days. A call will be issued in due time by the executive committee.

Papers on the following subjects are to be read and discussed at the Red Wing meeting:

Paper on School Gymnastics,—J. W. Stearns, of Winona.

Educational men should be appointed to educational offices of every description,—Prof. A. D. Williams, of Wasioja.

At what age should scholars begin the study of Mathematics,—Prof. Thorp, of Red Wing.

Object Teaching,—Prof. Brooks, of Red Wing.

School room practice,—B. F. Miller, of Monticello.

The Wisconsin State Teacher's Association meets this year at La Crosse. An effort is being made to secure the meetings of this and our own association on consecutive weeks, so that the teachers of the two states can extend mutual aid to one another.

We call attention to the last annual report of Hon. S. Blakely in reference to schools. It is an official expose of the deficiencies of our present school system. Read, ponder, and be prepared to act.

There is a beautiful fidelity brought out in the dying words of the old village school-master. His limbs were growing rigid and the films of death were creeping over his eyes: "Samuel, do you know me?" asked his weeping wife. He heard not her words—his last thought was upon his life work; "it's getting dark," said he, "school's dismissed".—Iowa Instructor.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
ST PAUL, Minn., April 7, 1864.

[GENERAL ORDERS NO 12]

I. The following extract from the department of the provost marshal general is published for the information of all concerned:

* * * * * * *

When a person has been drafted, in pursuance of the enrollment act of March 3. 1863. notice of such draft must be served within ten days thereafter, by a written or printed notice, to be served on him personally, or by leaving a copy at his last place of residence, requiring him to appear at a designated place of rendezvous for duty Any person failing to report for duty after notice left at his last place of residence, or served on him personally, without furnishing a substitute or paying $300, is pronounced by law to be a deserter; he may be arrested and held for trial by court-martial, and sentenced to death.

If a person, after being drafted, and before receiving notice, deserts, the notice may still be served by leaving it at his last place of residence, and if he does not appear in accordance with the notice, or furnish the substitute, or $300, he will be in law a deserter and must be treated accordingly. There is no way or manner in which a person, once enrolled, can escape his public duties, and when drafted, whether present or absent, whether he changes his residence or absconds, the right of the United States against him are secured, and it is only by performance of his duty to his country, that he will escape the liability to be treated as a criminal.

JAMES B. FRY, Provost Marshal General.

II. Parties leaving Minnesota for Idaho or elsewhere, and requesting letters or certificates of citizenship from the state authorities, will hereafter be required to furnish undoubted evidence (such as the certificate of the provost marshal of the proper district) that the respective towns in which they reside have furnished their full quota of men to the army, upon the calls of the president, or that such applicants are exempt from military duty.

III. Such parties should distinctly understand, that, while such letter from these headquarters will probably be respected by Iowa and neighboring states, no certificate can relieve them from their obligation to the national government.

By order of the commander-in-chief.
OSCAR MALMROS, Adjutant General.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THANKS.—We are indebted to LEW W. ELDRED, the gentlemanly clerk of the Canada, for late papers.

U L A.—The county council will meet at Union Hall, in this city, on Saturday, 7th inst, at 2 P. M. All members are requested to be present.

MITE SOCIETY.—The Baptist Ladies' Mite Society will meet at the residence of Mrs BAILEY HOWES next Friday afternoon and evening. All are invited.

LOCAL NOTICES may be inserted in the CONSERVER at the rate of 33⅓ cents per line, or $1 for three, a la Independent. Terms cash: half down, and the balance before leaving the office!

COOL.—Instead of stepping up to the office and settling for a paper like a man, to throw it back into the post-office marked "Refused." This we call downright meanness, especially when there is from one to three dollars due on subscription. Such a man would skin a louse for hide and tallow, provided he could borrow a knife and get some one to hold candle.

TO ALL CONCERNED.—The stockholders of the Dakota County Agricultural Fair Ground Society will meet at JAMES ARCHER'S, Hampton next Saturday, 7th inst, at 10 o'clock A M. for the purpose of electing a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, and seven directors. Each share is entitled to a vote. All are invited to be present at that time.

OMITTED.—The Independent of last week devotes two thirds of a column to a notice of the late tableaux gotten up by the ladies of Hastings, for the benefit of the sanitary fair, but entirely neglects to speak of the last scene in which the late secretary of the Dakota County Agricultural Society figured so conspicuously. A most unpardonable oversight on the part of the editor of the aforsaid paper!

	Quota,	Credit.	Det.	Ex.
Burnsville,	30	13	17
Castle Rock,	53	56		3

BANKABLE FUNDS.—People generally will do well to bear in mind that the following classification of bankable and uncurrent funds have been made by the banks of this city:

BANKABLE FUNDS.

Minnesota.
Wisconsin.
U. S. Legal Tender Notes.
National Banks,
New England.
New York.
Illinois.
State Bank Iowa.
State Bank Ohio.
Bank of State of Indiana.

UNCURRENT.

New Jersey.
Pennsylvania.
Philadelphia.
Ohio Free Banks.
Indiana "
Michigan.

We believe that bills of the latter named banks are taken here at 5 per cent discount.

DAKOTA COUNTY S S. REPORT.—We are indebted to M. D. MERRILL, corresponding secretary for Dakota County, for the following report of sunday schools. To obtain this he traveled 314 miles, 103 on foot and rode 211. Twenty four schools have failed to make any returns:

OLD FOLKS' SUPPER.—This entertainment by the ladies for the benefit of the sanitary fair, come off with great eclat last Friday evening. The attendance was good, and every thing passed off pleasantly. Total receipts $110. $65 worth of articles for the St. Louis fair were on exhibition, some of which were quite valuable. The box will not be sent for a week hence, and there is still opportunity for those wishing to make donations. They may be left at Mrs. BAKER'S, Seventh Street.

COURT.—Judge MCMILLAN held an extra session of court last Tuesday and Wednesday in this city. It being what is called a law term, no jury was impanneled.

ROSWELL JUDSON and J. B. SEARLES were admitted to the bar.

The following list of cases were under consideration.

W. A. Bliss vs. John M. McKay. supplementary proceedings. Argued and submitted. Judson & Van Slyck for plaintiff, S. Smith for defense.

Victoria Tripp vs. Amanzelle D. Trip. Divorce. Referred to R. Judson to take the testimony and report to the court. Eli Robinson for plaintiff.

Jane S. Rittenhouse vs. S. S. and. Susan Eaton. Notice to confirm sheriff's report of sale. Report confirmed, and exceptions overruled. W. K. Gaston for plaintiff, A M. Hayes and S. Smith for defense.

John Kearney vs. Mary Kearney. Divorce. Continued. S.Smith plaintiff's attorney.

A. J. Patch vs. Sarah Patch Divorce. Proof of facts taken and decree made. S. Smith plaintiff's attorney.

Stanley P. Barlow vs. John N. Walden. Refered to R. Judson to take testimony and report a judgment. S. Smith for plaintiff.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS of this city commenced their spring session last Monday, with an unusually large attendance for a summer school. The teachers seem alive to their duties and responsibilities, and the prospects are favorable. Prof. HOMER HATCH is principal of the district and in his department, lower floor of the Fifth Street school, is assisted by Mrs. A. C. RACE. Their roll numbers some seventy pupils.

Up stairs are two departments: The intermediate, Miss. ABBIE SPRAGUE teacher, with eighty or more pupils, and the primary, Mrs. R. E. C. BOOTH, teacher with about the same attendance. These rooms are very much crowded, and leave little opportunity for the teachers to attend to individual members of the school.

The Vermillion school is under the care of Miss SUSIE LYON, and numbers about thirty-five. This promises to be a well kept school.

The school in Barker's Addition is in charge of Miss MARGARET MC HUGH, numbering some thirty. We have not visited it as yet, but hear it well spoken of.

The great drawback is the want of suitable buildings, and these we must have before our schools are made what they should be. We may secure the highest talent and greatest experience in teachers, provide the treasury with ample funds, and still, with present accommodations, our schools will be little better than prison houses for both instructor and children. Any person can see this for themselves in an hour's time. We recommend parents to call in and become acquainted with the actual condition of affairs. Another school is needed badly to relieve the others, and since no suitable room can be obtained in the third ward as desired, would it not be well to engage one in the second, wherever it could be found, temporarily until a building could be secured according to the first arrangement? These are matters which we commend to the attention of parents. They are, or should be, the most interested parties, and it becomes them to see that their children are receiving such wholesome discipline and instruction as will fit them for the future men and women of the age.

LOCAL NOTICES.

The Oldham (England) Chronicle reports the commencement of an extensive emigration of English female factory hands to the United States. The girls look to better their condition by working in American factories. Two hundred young woman left Oldham and its suburbs in one day. They were recruited, so to speak, by an American agent, and took their departure amid the cheers of a multitude, most of whom regreted being left behind, in consequence of their not being up to the physical standards required.

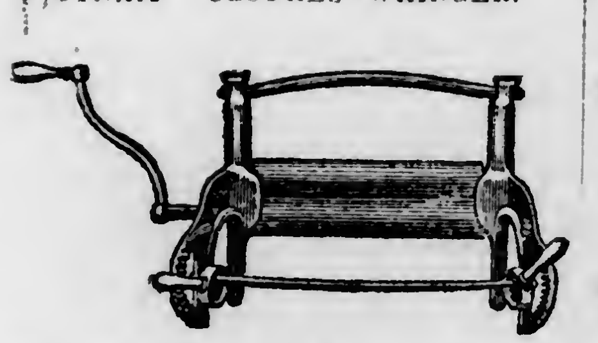
PUTNAM CLOTHES-WRINGER.



The Only Reliable Self-Adjusting Wringer.

The frame being of iron, thoroughly galvanized, all danger from rust is removed, and the liability to shrink, swell, split, etc., so unavoidable in wooden machines, is prevented. No thumbscrews or complicated fastenings to wear out or get out of repair; it can be fastened firmly to the tub in a single second. Warranted with or without cog wheels.

Instead of believing the statements of parties interested in the sale of other Wringers, try it and judge for yourself. Test it thoroughly with any and all others, and, if not entirely successful, return it. It will wring anything from a thread to a bed quilt without alteration.

Patented in the United States, England, Canada, and Australia. Agents wanted in every town. Energetic men can make from $3 to $10 per day.

Putnam Manufacturing Co, Gentleman:

I know from practical experience that iron well galvanized with zinc will not oxidize or rust one particle. I can safely say, after three years' experience in the manufacture of chain for chain pumps and water drawers, in which I have tested the affinity of iron and zinc, that if the process be conducted properly it is a perfect weld of the two.

Nearly one year ago my family commenced using one of your wringers. It now performs all of its functions as well as it did the first time it was used, and has become an indispensable article with us. I have closely observed several other kinds of clothes-wringers, the modus operandi being different, trying to produce the same results as the Putnam Wringer, but in my judgment they have failed. The Putnam Wringer is as near perfect as possible, and I can cheerfully recommend it to be the best in use. Respectfully yours,
Jno. W. Wheeler,
Cleveland, O.

Many years' experience in the galvanizing business enable me to indorse the above statement in all particulars

SEWING MACHINES.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINES.—Our Letter A Family Sewing Machine is fast gaining a world-wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the best and cheapest and most beautiful of all family sewing machines yet offered to the public. No other family sewing machine has so many useful appliances for hemming, binding, felling, tucking, gathering, guaging, braiding, embroidering, cording, etc. No other family sewing machine has so much capacity for so great a variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our family sewing machine most reliable and most durable and, most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see, at a glance, how to use the Letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our family sewing machines are finished in chaste and exquisite style.

The folding case of the family machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work. While some of the cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the more costly and superior manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the family machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty. It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The branch offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, etc., of the very best quality

FINKLE & LYON'S

Sewing Machines.

These Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread or loop-stitch machines do will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, etc., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather, without changing the feed, needle, or tension, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood, and if any part is broken by accident it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

Please call and examine, or send for circular.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DR. SWAIN'S

Bourbon Bitters,

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant, and unequalled evening appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon. Free from grain oil, with flowers, buds, and barks of the highest medical virtue. Has received the endorsement of more than two hundred eminent physicians, who have prescribed its use by weak and delicate females, aged persons, and young children, in all cases of dispepsia, loss of appetite, jaundice, diarrhea, sour stomach, fetid breath, fever and ague, weak lungs, debility from whatever cause, and in all their incipient stages requiring a generous diet, and an invigorating stimulant.

Being now almost used to the exclusion of all other bitters in more than fifty and millions of private families; and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the United States government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

These bitters are delicious to the sense of smell and taste, ministering to health through the medium of a well pleased palate, giving bloom to the cheek of the invalid and restoring broken health and declining years to the vigor and elasticity of youth.

For sale by all first class druggists, grocers, hotels, and saloons.

The state of Minnesota to the above named defendent, Irene Cook:

You are hereby summoned and required to answer the complaint in the above entitled action a copy of which is herewith served upon you and which complaint is filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of Dakota Count, at the city of Hastings, county and state of Minnesota, and serve a copy of your answer upon the subscriber at his office in the city of Hastings, county and state aforesaid, within thirty days after the service thereof upon you, exclusive of the day of such service, and if you fail to answer the complaint within the time aforesaid, the plaintiff in this action will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated Hastings, Nov. 20, 1863. 1-6w

Eli Robinson, Atty. for Pltf.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF Dakota—ss. Probate court.

At a special session of the probate court held at the probate office in the city of Hastings in and for said county of Dakota, this 11th day of April, 1864. Present Seagrave Smith, judge.

In the matter of the petition of William D. Van Duzee, the husband of Mary E. Van Duzee, late of said county deceased intestate, praying to be appointed administrator of her said estate.

On reading and filing said petition it is ordered that the same be heard on the 11th day of May, 1864, at ten o'clock A M. of said day at the probate office in the said city of Hastings.

It is further ordered that notice of the time and place of said hearing be given by publishing a copy of this order in the Hastings Conserver, a newspaper printed and published in the city of Hastings in said county, once in each week for three successive weeks immediately prior to said 11th day of May, 1864.

SEAGRAVE SMITH,

The Draft.

This great bugbear of faint-hearted, though able-bodied, men and sympathetic grandams is once more on the tapis, and the too familiar scenes of ordering and revoking probably will be indefinitly re-enacted. For one we are heartily sick of the farce, and insist that there should be no more trifling with the best interests of the county. Last week the Press triumphantly announced that the state of Minnesota was three ahead on all calls, and the very next day appears a proclamation by the governor that we were deficient to the sum of eleven hundred, and earnestly calling for volunteers. Thus it goes. Doubt and uncertainty rule the hour, and a feverish and excited condition of the public mind is unnecessarily protracted. Where the blame lies is hard to tell. One thing, however, is morally certain. It is absolutely essential for the welfare of the nation either to draft or let it alone, and one or the other course should be settled upon immediately. The people will not rest satisfied until it is so.

It is calculated that the copperhead disturbances at the Pennsylvania coal mines last summer will take not less than three millions of dollars this year out of the pockets of the consumers of coal owing to the enhanced price in consequence. Of course this falls most severely upon the poor. And yet the poor have it dinged into their ears daily that the men who incite just such lawless acts as were committed in Pennsylvania, and repeated recently in Illinois, are their friends, while those who sustain the administration are their enemies and would-be oppressors!

The Atlantic Monthly for May is excellent as usual. A Cruise on Lake Lagoda. New England Revolution of the 17th Century, and The Presidential Election, will all be read with interest. Miss Prescott's new serial, The Rim, is commenced and Mrs. H. B. Stowe's House and Home Papers, continued in this number. Bayard Taylor, Robert Brownson, D. G. Mitchell, J. G. Palfrey, T. W. Parsons, Arthur Gilman, Mrs. Stowe, Harriet Prescott, D. A. Gasson, and John Weiss, are among the contributors for the present month.

The Ball in Motion.

Our latest advices from the seat of war indicate that the long period of seeming inactivity is about at a close, and our forces are represented to be on the move. Gen. Grant and the Army of the Potomac are pushing rapidly forward towards Richmond, and an engagement is hourly looked for.

In the North-West matters are not so encouraging. Several of our gunboats have been blown up to save them from the rebels, and affairs on Red River are quite favorable for the enemy. Gen. Bank's star is sadly below the horizon.

The sixth annual editorial convention of the state of Wisconsin will be held in Madison, on Wednesday, the 15th day of June, 1864. Hon. Wm. C. Webb will deliver the annual address, and Marie Mignonette, of La Crosse, will furnish the annual poem. Ample provision will be made to give the members of the craft a fitting welcome to the City of Lakes.

In the New York sanitary fair contest one vote of fifty for Grant was received by letter with the following verse:

"Guns, not grumbling;
Deeds, not dispatches;
Charges, not change of base;
Captures, not complaints,
Swords, not spades;
GRANT, not McCLELLAN."

It is suggested that the reason of some copperhead newspapers reducing the size of their sheets is that they are so violently opposed to paper expansion.

Taxing Luxuries.

The N. Y. Independent points out some of the defects in our present tariff. Speaking of the enormous price that has been charged for butter, it says:

The cause of this exhorbitant advance in such a commodity has been attributed by some of our cotemporaries to speculation; but we think the sole cause has been a legitimate one, and may be directly traced to the neglect of Congress in not amending our tariff of duties on imported merchandise. The product of dairies has been sent off to Europe to pay for articles of pure luxury, whose importation has been stimulated by the low rate of duties imposed upon them. What is an article of luxury? is a question that opens a wide door for debate. But there are certain things which no one will deny are luxuries, pure and simple; and these are, strangely enough, among the most lightly taxed articles in the whole catalogue of foreign importations. All kinds of jewelry, and all the trumpery which comes under the head of mock jewelry, for example, pays but twenty-five per cent, while mechanics' tools pay thirty-five. Silks costing under a dollar a yard, and silk velvets under three dollars a yard, pay but thirty per cent, while cheap calicoes pay about fifty, and sometimes as high as eighty per cent. The finest of merinos pay but thirty-five per cent, while low-priced mousseline de laines pay about fifty. Champaigne and Burgundy wines, which ought to be taxed at least a hundred per cent, medicinal preparations, which are necessary for the preservation of health. Little toy figures for mantel ornaments pay but ten per cent duty, diamonds but five per cent, pearls and coral but thirty, while steel files pay thirty-five per cent and two cents a pound. The tariff is full of such violations of the cardinal principles of taxation, whereby the highest rates of duty are laid upon articles of prime necessity and materials needed by the laboring people, while the lowest rates are put upon articles of pure luxury, which none but the very wealthy ought ever to indulge in. Is it any wonder that thoughtful men complain of the pernicious carelessness of Congressmen to their highest duty while such things exist?

The supreme court of the United States, sitting at Washington, made the following order before adjourning:

Ordered, In suits of equity for the foreclosure of mortgages in the circuit courts of the United States, or in any of the courts of the territories having jurisdiction of the same, a decree may be rendered for any balance that may be found due to the complainant over and above the proceeds of the sale or sales; and execution may issue for the collection of the same as is provided in the eighth rule of this court regulating the equity practice, where the decree is solely for the payment of money.

It has been remarked, and day by day observed, that Mrs. Geo. B. McClellan invariably wears, during her attendance at the fair, the standard secession colors in her bonnet, of cherry and white. There has been no variation of colors thus far, and there probably will not be till the sword subscription is at an end. Mayor Gunther was the first to discern the weight of the secession vote in this city. McClellan was the recipient during the riots of its first unorganized ebullition. Possibly there is no special significance, just now, in wearing the secession colors of cherry and white—probably there is. —Wilkes' Spirit.

The State Atlas says that a somewhat celebrated medical firm of New York city have just concluded a purchase of the Winslow House, St Anthony, for the purpose of occupying it as a water-cure establishment. The price paid for the property is stated to be $15,000. The original cost was $60,000. The Bridgeport Bank, Conn., was the owner, from a mortgage foreclosure on a debt of $28,000.

The Tax List.

The publication of the delinquent tax list, which has monopolized our columns for the month past, is completed with the present issue, not more to the relief of our readers than ourselves. Hereafter we shall endeavor to present our usual variety of news and miscellaneous matter.

The Second Cavalry.

A portion of this regiment, including F company, have been ordered to join Gen. Sulley, and will report at Camp Pope on the 20th inst. We have several interesting letters from them which we are unable to make room for this week We expect to be able to keep our readers informed as to their future movements.

Butter leagues are forming in Philadelphia on a very extensive scale. Each member pledges his "life, liberty, and sacred honor" to eat no more fifty cent a pound butter. The dairymen complain of very small sales in consequence.

Matrimony resembles a kitchen window, and the people are like unto the silly flies that flutter incessantly against the transparency; those outside wishing to get in, and those in earnestly desirous of getting out.

Drouth in California.

The correspondent of the New York Times in a recent letter from San Francisco says:

"Speaking of floods, reminds me that we are literally drying up. Our winter has passed, and scarcely a drop of rain has fallen. The farmers are in des air. Cattle are dying by thousands for want of food. At this season the grass is generally a foot high, and the cattle up to their knees in clover and wild oats. Now the hills are yellow and dry, and no vegetation appears. It is a most unusual thing to see in this country, which has always been a bed of flowers at this season. Day after day the sun has risen and set in a cloudless sky; the air, so balmy and soft, brings no humidity to keep vegetation alive; and now it is so late that it can hardly be resuscitated even if rain should come. The prosperity of California depends almost entirely upon water—without t no crops can be raised, and for want of it the miner can not wash his pile of 'pay dirt,' upon which he depends for his support and to pay his debts. It is water, water, everywhere; and the vitality of the country is at stake. To-day it looks threatening, but as all signs have failed thus far, we have but little faith in clouds. Hay and grain have gone up in price within the week past, the former from $20 per ton to $60. Oats from 2c to 3½ @4c per pound. We don't recognize bushels."

Skeezics.

The Boston Transcript is reminded, by the fuss made over Long's traitorous speech in Congress, of the following illustration of the word skeezics in Bartlett's dictionary of Americanisms, and inquires if the Congressional Long is the same one that appears in the anecdote:

At a republican meeting in Indiana the other day, a speaker named Long responded to a loud call and took the stand. But a big strapping fellow persisted in crying out in a stentorian voice, "Long, Long!" This caused a little confusion; but after some difficulty in making himself heard, the president succeeded in stating that Mr. Long, the gentleman honored by the call, was now addressing them. "Oh, he be—," replied the fellow; "he's the little skeezics that told me to call for Long!" This brought down the house.

A friend called on Michael Angelo, who was finishing a statue. Some time afterwards he called again; the sculptor was still at his work. His friend looking at the figure exclaimed: "You have been idle since I saw you last!" "By no means," replied the sculptor; "I have retouched this part, and polished that; I have softened this feature, and brought out this muscle; I have given more expression to this lip, and more energy to this limb" "Well, well," said his friend, "but all these are trifles." "It may be so," replied Angelo; "but recollect that trifles make perfection, and that perfection is no trifle."

The Newcastle Chronicle was established in 1764, and on the centenary day, which occurred March 24, the proprietors reprinted the first number for presentation to their subscribers. On the first page was an advertisment calling for a man and wife to take charge of a bachelor's establishment, and the reprint had not long been issued before a number of people applied for the place. They were slightly astonished to hear that they had come a hundred years to late.

The new two-cent piece which has been recommended for the sanction of Congress resembles, as much as anything can, a gold coin, and is really beautiful. On one side there is a wreath of wheat, in the centre of which is stamped, "2 cents," and around which are the words, "United States of America." On the other side there is the shield of liberty, bearing the words, "God is our Trust."

We were in the N. Y. Times office, a few weeks since, and in the course of a conversation with one of the proprietors, inquired their terms for advertising twenty lines one year. "If put in as a common advertisment, it would be $740," was the reply. What would some of our country advertisers say to such terms?—Exchange.

In a late letter John M. Botts said: "From the portico of my house I and my family have seen nine battles fought on my own fields, just before my own door, between hostile troops, who but yesterday, as it were, boasted of a common history, a common nationality, and a common destiny."

As the secretary of state must soon vacate the executive building which he now occupies, which is to be demolished to make way for the completion of the treasury, it is proposed to erect a new residence in the suburbs for the President, and to use the White House as a department of state, and for official receipts.

It is stated in the New York Times that there is not a single requisition for a single dollar now due from the Government and unpaid. The balance in the Treasury is not less than $20,000,000.

One year of copperhead government in Chicago has raised the taxes from $479,336,83 to nearly $853,000.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

MRS. LANCASTER has opened a branch millinery shop in Prescott

PUB. DOCS—We are indebted to Senator RAMSEY for a number of favors.

GOOD THING.—The cleaning up and carting away of the rubbish on Second Street, by order of the city council Let us have more of it.

REMOVAL.—ELI ROBINSON and L. VAN SLYCK have removed their law office to Exchange Block, next to CONSERVER office.

LOST.—On Monday, 2d inst., in this city, a small memorandum book containing two Douglass town orders and one county. The finder is requested to leave it at this office.

COUNTY CONVENTION.—A democratic county convention has been called to meet in Hastings on Saturday, 21st inst., for the purpose of choosing seven delegates to attend the state convention.

FREE LECTURE.—Prof. A. J. SHAW, who has been visiting several towns in this state, will give a free lecture this—Tuesday—evening at the school house preparatory to forming a writing class. The public are invited to attend.

CIRCUS.—DAN CASTELLO'S Great Show will be in town next Thursday afternoon and evening. Look out for fun. Their programme is a good one, and they may expect a full house. Admittance 50cts; children 25 cts.

U. L. A.—The county council of U. L. A. will meet in Union Hall, Hastings, on Saturday, May 21st, at 1 P. M., for the transaction of important business. It is desirable that every council in the county be represented.

LITERARY.—It is reliably understood that a young author of this city is engaged upon a new novel, soon to make its appearance, with the thrilling title of The Revolving Cart Wheel; or the Bloody Toothpick. It will undoubtedly create a profound sensation.

REV. F. G. ENSIGN, local agent of the Christian Commision, lectured at Teutonia Hall last Sunday evening to a large audience. We have not learned the amount of money collected, but presume it was considerable. Some $40 was raised in Prescott in the afternoon.

BARGES SUNK.—Two barges laden with Hastings wheat were sunk in transitu last week, furnishing plenty of bait for the piscatorial tribe.

Barge Winona, snagged in Beef Slough contained 5,300 bushels shipped by ENNIS BROS. Insured for $1 per bushel. Barge Fort Snelling, sunk in Lake Pepin, with 4,000 bushels belonging to SAMUEL ROGERS. Insured for $1 01½ per bushel A large portion of the cargo of the former has been recovered uninjured. That of the latter is reported a total loss.

PERSONAL.—M D MERRILL, an old resident, left for below last Tuesday evening to take his place as clerk on one of the lower boats. As will be seen by a notice in another column, he did not go alone, but has his assistant already secured. Joy be with them

Col. ADAMS, Capt SEARLES, Sergt. MARS, and others of the old First Regiment, having been musterd out of service, are in town. It seems quite natural to have them home again.

Lieut. BINGHAM, of the 2d Cavaly, is spending a few day with us. Henry won a host of friends while in the Tremont House, and is receiving a warm reception.

SHADE TREES—We were much pleased during a recent visit to the neighboring town of Prescott to see the attention they are paying to this subject. Hundreds of trees have been planted this spring, and in three or four years they will present a most beautiful appearance. We are sorry that no more interest in this important matter is taken in this city. No cheaper or more profitable investment can be made by the owner of a lot than in setting out shade trees, and we would like to see our bare and neglected streets adorned in this manner. Who will take the lead?

LOST, STRAYED, OR STOLEN, one MARK WILSON, clerk in a dry goods store of this city, chiefly noted for his petit stature and being a general favorite with the ladies. He started East a number of weeks ago to purchase goods, and has failed to make his appearance as expected. Mr. LOUCKS took great pains to post him up for his journey, and gave him lots of advice. It is feared he has become the victim of some designing scoundrel. Any information of his whereabouts will be thankfully received.

LATER.—The gentleman referred to in the above has since turned up, and says he can satisfactorially account for his absence. Such being the case, he will not lose his situation, and may be found at the old place, where a tremendous stock of dry goods, ladies' dress goods, etc., may be found. Call in.

COUNCIL MEETING—The council elect met at office of the clerk on Monday evening, 2d inst. Present Alds WHITE, WILSON, SIMON, and LOVELL. The Mayor being absent, Ald WHITE was chosen as acting mayor.

Marshal,—E. S. FITCH.
Treasurer,—R. J MARVIN.
Assessor,—J. A. VANDUZEE.
Attorney,—L VANSLYCK.

Salaries for the various officers were fixed as follows: Marshal, half of the license fees; Treasurer, $40; Attorney, $50.

Alds. Lovell and Wilson were appointed a committee on printing.

Adjourned till Monday, 9th inst, at 7½ P. M.

LOCAL NOTICES.

Call and examine these beautiful ladies' spring and summer cloaks of all colors and qualities at E. B. ALLEN'S.

NEWMAN has been making large additions to his stock of dry goods, and now has one of the best assortments in town. The latest styles and fancies constantly on hand New goods daily received. In Union Block.

STANLEY, on Ramsey Street, has the largest stock of wall and window paper in town. A new lot just received. Books, stationery, etc., constantly on hand.

PRATT has gone East to replenish his stock of goods, and bring on a large invoice of cloths and trimmings. The place to have garments made is at PRATTS, next to post-office.

E. B. ALLEN is now receiving an immense stock of goods, constituting a general assortment, which will be sold as low as the lowest.

Pull down the blinds before you take off your wig.

But above all, buy your silver and plated ware at MACOMBER'S, if you want a good article. Repairing done to order.

NEW ADVERTISMENTS.—See notice agents wanted, and address as per advertisement.

E. H. CARLL presents to the favorable notice of our readers his forwarding and commission business, together with the advertisment of the Michigan Central Rail Road, of which he is agent. Mr. CARLL, by a three years, residence among us and a strict attention to his calling, has won the esteem and good will of our business men by his courtesy and systematic way of doing things. Long may he prosper.

A new drug store is opened on the corner of Second and Vermillion Streets, by C. H RAYMOND, lately from the East. His stock is entirely new, and with his long experience in the business we have no doubt that he will secure his share of trade. H. A. MONSER, formerly of City Drug Store, may be found here happy to see and wait upon his old friends and customers.

See new advertisement of the old established house, the Brick Drug Store. Small dealers will find this a good place to stock up.

IDAHO!

IDAHO!

D. D. Merrill, St. Paul, Minn

This work is invaluable to any one who has any intention of going to these mines, or any desire to see the various routes, and advantages of the

MINNESOTA ROUTE,

Over the "Great Salt Lake" ram's horn!

The map shows plainly the topography of the country from Lake Michigan to the Pacific Coast, compiled from the latest government surveys, and is correct in all distances, location, and elevation of the country upon the line of the various routes—is full of general information, and will sell largely in every community.

The fact that these are among the richest mines of the Rocky Mountains, and that they are the easiest of access, will induce many who are to seek their fortunes in the far west to find their way to these fields.

Many things conspire to make a very large demand for this Map and Guide Book. 52-tf

At a special session of the probate court held at the probate office in the city of Hastings in and for said county this 29th day of April, 1864. Present Seagrave Smith, judge.

In the matter of the petition of Martha J. Thurston the widow of Sumner C. Thurston, late of the town of Lakeville, in said Dakota County, deceased intestate, praying for reasons set forth in said petition that administration of said estate be granted to Daniel M. Thurston, of said county.

On reading and filing said petition it is ordered that the same be heard at the probate office in the city of Hastings in said county on the 26th day of May, 1864, at one o'clock P. M., of said day. It is further ordered that the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested by publishing a copy of this order in the Hastings Conserver, a newspaper printed and published in the city of Hastings, once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said 26th day of May, 1864.

Owning Up.

An English reviewer, in a well written article on American affairs says:

"In the greatest silence, the Americans have become a nation, the states a state, the congress a parliament, a petty chief a ruler, and train bands a regular army. Here the war created something great, which will survive the war.

The United States were, up to the present time, only the material for a great power, but now they are one.

When the civil war is terminated, and, if so, by a victory of the North, the Monroe doctrine—America for Americans—will rise in a different form. It will claim respect southward as far as Terra del Fuego, and north to the whaling ground of the Melville Straits. If slavery should be abolished in the south by the force of arms, will it be tolerated any longer in Cuba?

With the evidently increasing liking for wars of conquest, will the Americans be able to endure tol-bars at the north end of St. Lawrence Bridge at at Montreal? And if by that time the French have not evacuated Mexico, will they not be helped on their homeward route?"

The New York Sanitary Fair opened under the most cheering auspices—the first day's receipts footing up $150,000, with an attendance of over 13,000 persons. One of the prominent features of the first night was a parade of pickpockets who were caught by the police. The handsomest of the number was chosen to lead the procession. With a great sign "pickpocket," hanging upon him, he started for the sub-station, a policeman supporting him on each side, and entered the department of "Arms and Trophies," where Col Hawkins was exhibiting the curiosities to several hundred ladies and gentlemen, among whom were General Burnside, his staff officers and the members of their families. The rear of the procession was brought up by a squad of police, the chief calling out "show him up—let all see him!"

The face of the pickpocket was of itself a remarkable show. He was at a loss how to meet the quizzical looks and jeers of the persons on whom he had hopes to operate, but endeavered to gather strength for the occasion. The policeman's club admonished him that physical resistance would not avail him. His sense of shame proved at first, to much for his nerves; he hung his head, and leaned from one side to the other, the expression of his countenance changing with every step. It was a very curious and ludicrous scene. The march through the fair buildings was not impeded; all persons instinctively stood aside, so as to allow the pickpocket procession to pass; it made a tour of the main building of the art gallery, and of the various departments; and then it is understood went to prison.

Dinner as an Educator.—You will find that a great deal of character is imparted and received at the table. Parents too often forget this; and therefore instead of swallowing your food in sullen silence, insted of brooding over your business, instead of severely talking about others, let the conversation at the table be genial, kind, social, and cheering. Don't bring disagreeable things to the table in your conversation any more than you would in your dishes. For this reason, too, the more good company you have at your table the better for your children. Every conversation with company at your table is an educator of the family. Hence the intelligence and the refinement and the appropriate behavior of the family which is given to hospitality. Never fear that intelligent visitors can be anything but a blessing to you and yours. How few have fully gotten hold of the fact that company and conversation at the table are no small part of education.—Dr Todd.

Judging from present indications there will be a large foreign immigration to Minnesota this season. Already nearly every boat that comes up brings a considerable number of new comers, who design making this state their home. The Keokuk landed about one hundred on Saturday, mostly Germans, of both sexes and all ages, from the infant of a month old to the grey-haired grandsire. The state never needed a working and industrious population as much as at the present time, and it is a source of gratification to observe that she is likely to be favored with accessions of the class alluded to.—Winona Republican.

Miss Webb has repeated in Cincinnati her reply to Miss Dickinson, in which she made her debut in New York. The Gazette says of the effort: "We think Talleyrand's criticism on the young author's book will apply most admirably to Miss Webb's lecture: 'It had some new things in it, and some good things; but the new things were not good, and the good things were not new.'" The new things were her own; the good things were the extracts she made from Miss Dickinson's address, and the 'Song of the Spirit' before mentioned." Miss Webb has not been fortunate enough in her new role to secure either the approval of her friends or the serious criticism of her opponents.

Artificial limbs are now made of vulcanized india rubber. As they are hollow, all the machinery is contained within, and is not liable to be deranged or broken. They are, it is said, much more readily made, and better than those made of wood or iron.

A chap down in New Haven had courted a girl, giving her a large number of presents, to keep her admiration all right; but differences arose, and a big squabble was the result. Offended lover calls on his Mary Ann, and requested "that dress pattern," given her last week. She passes over the dry goods. "I'll take that photograph album if you please." She extracted the pictures and returned the volume. "Now give me back that ring!" No sooner said than done. "Now I just want you to take out those teeth I paid thirty dollars for, and give them back to me in about four seconds!" This was too much of a "gum game," and the female beat a hasty retreat.

Mere dandies are but flowers in a bouquet; once faded, they can never reblossom. In the drawing room, as everywhere else, mind in the long run prevails. And, O well booted Achain! for those substantial good things which, year after year, as you advanced in life, you will covet and sigh for, yon sloven thick shoed and with cravat awry whose mind, as he hurries by the bow window at White's sows each fleeting moment with thoughts which grow not blossoms for boquets, but corn sheaves for garners, will, before he is forty, be far more the fashion than you. He is commanding the time out of which you are foling. And time, O my friend, is money! time wasted can never conduce to money well managed.—Bulwer.

A few months since a hundred persons sat down at a festive celebration in the Hartz Mountains, where pork in various forms was the principal food. Of these eighty persons are in their graves and of the remainder, the majority linger with a fearful malady. This strange event has led to the discovery that this food was charged with fresh worms in all stages of development, or trichinal, found in the deascular tissues of the survivers, and traced to the pork. These fleshworms are not killed by ordinary cooking, and multiply rapidly by thousands. A great alarm exists in Germany, and the eating of pork, in many places, is now entirely abandoned.

France.—The Memorial Diploumtique says a treaty between Maximilian and Napoleon will be agreed on immediately on his becoming Emperor of Mexico. The treaty is intended to settle the period of French claims. The French troops are to be withdrawn gradually when the regimental lists are filled. About 6,000 of the volunteers of the foreign Legion will remain in Mexico. The debt due to France is to be paid by fourteen annual instalments of £15,000,000 each. The lederals are said to have violated Mexican territory by seizing cotton belonging to the confederates at Matamoras.

Senator Howard made a palpable hit in a recent speech while defending the government against the charges of military interference with elections. He said that the only authentic case of such interference was McClellan's order to Gen. Banks, at Muddy Creek, Maryland, of Oct 26, 1861, instructing him to detail forces at the different polls to protect Union voters, and to hold in confinement those who were in collusion with the rebels. The "Democrats" are only condemning their favorite when they denounce the act of McClellan; yet they have harped upon this matter for months in order to prejudice the Administration.

A New York paper, after much laborious computation, has discovered that at the present rate of the increase of population in that city, their will not be a vacant lot on the island at the end of about sixteen years, and no structure can be erected without removing some existing building. New York will then be a solid and compact city from the Battery to Westchester County.

When Dr Johnson asked the widow Porter to be his wife, he told her candidly that he was of mean extraction, that he had no money, and that he had an uncle hanged. The widow replied that she cared nothing for his parentage, that she had no money herself, and though she had not had a relation hanged, she had fifty who deserved hanging. So they made a match of it.

A Baltimore dispatch announces that there was great rejoicing in that city among the colored people, and some others we presume, over the result of the election. The majority for the convention and immediate emancipation without compensation will reach 8,000. The union men in the great slaveholding counties came up nobly, completely killing the pro-slavery vote.

Successor to Mr. Lovejoy.—It is stated that Col Thomas J. Henderson, of the 112th Illinois infantry, will be selected by the administration party in the Lovejoy district as their candidate for the seat in Congress made vacant by Mr Lovjoy's death Col Henderson was an independent union candidate against Mr Lovejoy two years ago, and failed of an election only by a few hundred votes

Sam. Medary's Columbus (Ohio) Crisis says that "any attempt to transfer the Democratic party on to a war platform will be resisted with more determination than some men, who would sell the country for an office, suppose. They want neither Lincoln nor any of his major generals. The strength, and the only strength of the democratic party, from first to last, has been opposition to this war, unholy, barbarous and ruinous."

There has been a decline of more than $60,000,000 in four years, in the annual productions of Ireland.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DR. SWAIN'S

Bourbon Bitters,

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant, and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon Free from grain oil, with flowers, buds, and barks of the highest medical virtue. Has received the endorsement of more than two hundred eminent physicians, who have recommended its use by weak and delicate females, aged persons, and young children, in all cases of dispepsia, loss of appetite, jaundice, diarrhea, sour stomach, fetid breath, fever and ague, weak lungs, debility from whatever cause and in all those cases which in their incipient stages require only a generous diet, and an invigorating stimulant.

Being now used to the exclusion of all other bitters in more than fifty and millions of private families; and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the United States government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

Army Hospitals,

These bitters are alike delicious to the sense of smell and taste, ministering to health through the medium of a well pleased palate; giving bloom to the cheek of the invalid and restoring broken health and declining years to the vigor and elasticity of youth.

For sale by all first class druggists, grocers, hotels, and saloons.

The Duty of the Hour.

vement has been inaugurated dies of Washington, among e notice the wives of our Min- delegation, the object of which endeavor to check the pernicious extravagance which curses the land, more especially the inordinate furor existing in regard to imported luxuries. They have organized by adopting a constitution and electing officers, under the style of The Ladies' National Covenant, pledging themselves to purchase no article whatever of foreign manufacture during the continuance of the war. Their published address is a beautiful production, breathing of the self-denying spirit of '76, and should meet with a hearty response from every true and loyal woman in the land. The benefits arising from this undertaking, if successful, are obvious. There being less demand for gold for exchange and impost duties it would consequently depreciate in value, bringing down with it the price of all staple goods, an incalculable advantage to the working classes, and through them of the entire country, for upon their prosperity is based the welfare of all.

It is meet that this reform should emanate from the ladies. Woman's influence has ever been a potent engine for weal or woe, and never more triumphantly exercised than in the present great struggle. It is well known that the most bitter and uncompromising secessionists are the wives and daughters of the rebels, and to their zeal and inspiration may be ascribed, in a great measure, the prolongation of the war. Nor are their sisters of the North behind in this respect. Witness the millions of dollars in money and articles for the sanitary and other commissions raised by their patriotic exertions, and the noble sacrifices they are hourly making for their country. Many a stalwart man has had his courage rekindled and his enthusiasm raised to the highest pitch by a word or look, and many a wounded and dying soldier in the hospital has had abundant cause to bless his gentle and devoted nurses. Let them add to all this a rigid economy, and their mission is complete.

Already other cities are following in the lead, and meetings are being held of the same nature by the ladies of New York, Philadelphia, Boston, and elsewhere, having the same laudable purpose in view. We hope to see the example imitated by every woman in the land, and trust, in a measure, it will be. Economy, retrenchment, is the duty of the hour, and should be diligently practiced by all. Shall we while our brave soldiers are perishing in the field, in our defense, by disease and the sword, wear the garb of festivity and excell in heartlessness the infamous conduct of the fiddling Roman at the burning of his capital city? May it not thus be said. Rather let us endeavor to support their hands in the conflict, and in no manner can it be easier accomplished than in sustaining the public credit. The lessening of expenses, the decrease of imports, the investing of surplus funds in government securities, all tend to this end, and should be suitably encouraged. We, each and all, have a duty to perform, and let us meet it as becomes men and woman of the nineteenth century.

From President Lincoln.

WASHINGTON May 9, 1864.

To the Friends of Union and Liberty:

Enough is known of the army operations within the last five days to claim our especial gratitude to God, while what remains undone demands our most sincere prayers to and reliance upon Him without whom all human efforts are in vain. I recommend that all patriots, at their homes, in their places of public worship, and wherever they may be, unite in common thanksgiving and prayer to Almighty God.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

A lady recently issued cards for a supper party, and had "No Butter" printed on them.

The News.

The news is glorious.

The dreadful suspense is partially over, and we see promise of the approaching dawn Light is breaking.

The ball opened on Tuesday, May 3d. The vast army of the Potomac was quietly set in motion, and all day Wednesday moved steadily southward. It had begun its route to Richmond. the fords of the Rapidan were reached, crossed, but no signs of the enemy. Not until our forces reached the vast expanse of dreary desolation termed Wilderness did Lee make his appearance. His tactics were evident. He hoped here to fall upon and crush our forces. He fell as the angry dashing of the waves upon the rock, and with like result. Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday the tide of battle raged fearfully. Hand to hand they fought in the the tangled swamp. The rebels grew desperate. Column after column of their troops were massed and hurled upon our line, only to be beaten back. Our ranks pressed forward, the enemy slowly and sullenly retiring. On Monday there was little fighting. The troops imperatively demanded rest after their marching and fighting of nearly a week's duration. The time was chiefly devoted to dealing out supplies and caring for the wounded.

Tuesday, May 10th, again saw the army in motion, and this day's work proved one of the most desperate. Our artillery, gaining a good range, poured shot and shell with deadly effect into the enemy's ranks as they madly charged upon our infantry. Wednesday and Thursday the fight continued with favorable results. A dispatch from Gen. Grant says: The eighth day of battle closes, leaving between three thousand and four thousand prisoners in our hands for the day's work, including two general officers and over thirty pieces of artillery. The enemy are obstinate, and seem to have found the last ditch. We have lost no organization, not even a company, whilst we have destroyed and captured one division, Johnson's; one brigade, Dobb's; and one regiment entire, of the enemy's.

The latest rumor is that Lee's army is retreating, and that Lee is in Richmond wounded.

Our loss has been severe, and in killed, wounded, and missing not far from 20,000. That of the enemy much larger. We have a total of 12,000 prisoners. Butler is at Petersburg, hemming in Beauregard. Most of the railroad lines have been broken by our cavalry, and their supplies cut off. Our final success seems almost certain.

Toll for the brave! The gallant Generals Sedgwick, Wadsworth, Webb, Hays, and hundreds of other noble men have yielded up their lives cheerfully in defense of their country. We have proved successful, but at what a terrible cost. The nation mourns her slain, but points in tearful triumph to the undying record they have left behind as a legacy. Like men they lived, like men they died; may they sleep well.

To Delinquent Towns.

Adjutant General Malmros has received the following from Provost Marshal General Fry, in answer to a letter of inquiry:

"The law requires that deficient towns shall be drafted, to make up their deficiency, notwithstanding other towns may be sufficiently in excess to cover the entire quota of the state. I cannot therefore credit temporarily to deficient towns the excess belonging to others. Each sub-district shall be drafted for the number deficient therein."

The Official Paper.

As will be seen by the proceedings of the common council, given elsewhere, the CONSERVER has been designated as the official organ of the city of Hastings. We are gratified at this token of confidence on the part of the honorable gentlemen entrusted with the interests of the city, and shall endeavor faithfully to discharge our duties as corporation printer. All notices, ordinances, etc., relating to municipal affairs will only be found in the CONSERVER, and therefore it offers the best inducements to subscribers. See terms elsewhere.

People who do much of their advertising on the back of bank bills are not perhaps aware that by so doing they become endorsers of the note, and should the bank fail would be responsible for its face. Courts have so decided in similar cases.

Brick Pomeroy, the enterprising publisher of the La Crosse Democrat, issues two editions daily of that sheet in order to accomodate his patrons with the latest news. We hope it will prove a success pecuniarily.

Literary Notices.

The Knickerbocker for May is received. Under the new regime it is steadily improving in ability as well as in size. This is the oldest of the magazines. Terms $3 per annum.

The Old Guard for the present month is at hand. It contains an excellent portrait of Chief Justice Taney, and the usual assortment of reading matter. $1 50 per year.

The Second annual report of the U. S. Christian Commission is before us. Besides statistics, it has a large amount of interesting reading matter pertaining to this association.

Dan Wilcox, of Mankato, has been appointed superintendent of the schools in Blue Earth County. This makes the fifth in the state that has availed herself of the privilege. Shall Dakota be last of all?

HEALTH OF THE POPE.—It is difficult to arrive at the truth with regard to Roman intelligence. Each correspondent gives his own peculiar tinge to the information he conveys. The health of the Holy Father continues to be the great topic, and each little attack of the malady (erysipelas) to which he has been long a victim, is magnified into a death illness. Still, in the natural course of events, the disolution of the Pontiff must afflict the Catholic world at no very remote period, for at seventy-three the risks of a life that is always uncertain attain their highest, and it is well to know that the Sacred College is prepared for every eventuality. Those who expect that the temporary vacation of the Chair of Peter would make easy work of the Revolution reckon far and wide without their host, as there never was a stronger loyal feeling in the Patrimony than at present, or more thorough unanimity of sentiment amongst the Catholic Powers as to the necessity of the strict preservation of integrity of Papal rights.—Boston Pilot.

One of the business men of Cleveland, O., who has been attacked with the prevailing epidemic, whose thoughts are always turning on Lake Superior copper, silver lead and Colorado gold lodes, veins, and nuggets, was at church last Sunday, and wearied out by excitement of the week, had fallen asleep in his seat, awaked just as the minister began to read in a loud voice the lesson of scriptnre which happened to be the twenty-eight chapter of Job: "Surely there is a vein for the silver, and a place for gold where they find it." Jumping to his feet in great excitement, the merchant stretched his arm and shook his book at the astonished minister, exclaiming, "I'll take five hundred shares."

A letter from Jerusalem, in the Paris Monde, says: "The Duke de Luynes is exploring the Dead Sea on board a small steamer called the Segar, ten metres (thirty three feet) in length which he got built on purpose at Toulon. It was then taken to pieces and sent to Jaffa, whence it was conveyed to the Dead Sea on the backs of camels. The Arabs in the neighborhood, struck with amazement at the sight of this tiny vessel moving along the waters in a way inexplicable to them, firmly believe that it is a 'chaitan' (demon) which has risen from the bottom of the accursed Lake of Sodom."

The convention between France and Mexico is published. The French troops are to be reduced as soon as possible to 25,000 men, including the foreign legion; the latter to remain in Mexico six years after the recall of the other troops The French troops will gradually evacuate as the Mexican army becomes organized. The French commander is not to interfere in the Mexican administration. The expense of the French expedition until July of the present year is fixed at 270,000,000 francs. After July Mexico will pay an annual indemnity of 1,000 francs for each French soldier. Mexico is to pay to France 25,000,000 francs annually.

At Fall River, Mass., on April 1st, some practical joker wrote on all the slates where carrriage orders are received—"Two passengers for 3 o'clock train, at 80 South Main Street." As a consequence the street in front of "No 80," was soon blocked up by hacks and vehicles of various descriptions. After a little time, the Jehus discovered that they had been made the victims of an "April fool" joke, and after indulging in a great deal of that language with which hack-drivers are wont to relieve their burdened souls, they drove off.

In a private letter to the editor of the Washington Republican, from the army, the writer tells a story of one of the farmers in the vicinity of Culpepper, whose possessions lay in a district where both armies have foraged. The old chap one day, while surveying ruefully the streaks in the soil where his fences once stood remarked with much feeling:

"I hain't took no sides in this yer rebellion, but I'll be dog gorned if both sides hain't took me."

A PAPER states that the leaves of geraniams are an excellent application for cuts, where the skin is rubbed off, and other wounds of that kind. One or two leaves must be bruised, and applied on linen to the part, and the wound will become cicatrised in a very short time.

EDUCATIONAL.

BY PROF. T. F. THICKSTUN.

We are proud that Minnesota is on the move again educationally. Things are tending in the right direction. Elsewhere we have shown in what respects we are progressing. The legislature of last winter showed a very intelligent understanding of most of the school wants of the state. The friends of schools will rejoice that so much has been accomplished, and yet they will be sorry that at least one more thing was not done. They all want a superintendent of public instruction. It is thought that the time has more than arrived when our schools should have the fostering care of a general executive officer to harmonize, and make efficient our whole school system.

Teachers, buckle on your armor for another campaign. Look ahead, not to the past. Next winter may be as prolific of good as any of its predecessors if we employ the intervening time in earnest, intelligent action.

Public Schools.

In our last issue we failed to make any mention of the examination of public schools, which occurred during the previous week, because being unable to attend during the whole time of the examination, we preferred to wait for the report of the superinterdent. We were present at the examination of two schools, and were much gratified with the exercises of the pupils in each. It was especially gratifying to compare the condition of these schools at the present time with the same schools as they were two years and a half ago. Those who have not made themselves familiar with it can scarcely realize the progress that has been made in our system of schools during that time.

From no schools, we have steadily progressed until our system is so far perfected that we need not blush when our city schools are compared with those of any other city in the state; and we confidently believe that they are not surpassed by the public schools in many cities and towns, of the population of Stillwater, in even the older states.

The schools are now all accommodated in convenient and comfortable rooms. By the opening of the second intermediate school and the arrangement of keeping the primary scholars in school but three hours in the day, the hitherto too crowded rooms have been greatly relieved, and nothing now seems wanting to make our public schools both a blessing and an ornament to our city but the earnest, active cooperation of the parents with the teachers.

We appeal to all to give the cause of public education their active and intelligent support. Let the rich strive to make the public schools worthy of their patronage, and let the foreign population encourage and patronize them too, so that they who in future must occupy our place as neighbors and fellow citizens may be educated in the same schools and grow up with like experiences, like opinions and like prejudices, which is the very next best promoter of mutual good understandings in the future to a common ancestry.

The philosophic observer of events must admit that the American system of public schools, next to the all conquering spirit of our grand old Anglo-Saxon tongue, has done most to break up every species of clanship in our country, and to fuse its heterogeneous elements in the great brotherhood of American citizens.—Stillwater Messenger.

MODEL SCHOOL EXAMINER.—When the delegation from this place to the teachers' institute were on the route, they stopped at the house of the school examiner for one of the districts in this county, as one of their number wished to secure a certificate to teach. After seeing the functionary they made application, in a spirit of fun, for certificates for the entire delegation, some half dozen. He proceeded to examine the real applicant, and taking down a Bible asked her to read. Complying with the request the young lady read several verses, when the examiner closed the book and said that "that would do." The others suggested that he had better ask some questions in geography, grammar, and arithmetic, but he utterly refused declaring that she "knew more than he did," and proceeded to make out certificates for the entire party on the strength of the young lady's superior knowledge. This is a fact, though a not very creditable one. More care should be taken in appointing examiners.—St. Cloud Democrat.

In Foster's Lives of the British statesman occurs the following passage: Cromwell had offered himself as member for Cambridge; his opponent was John Cleveland. The contest was obstinatly fierce, and ended in Cromwell's return, at last, by the majority of a single vote. "That vote," exclaimed Cleveland, "that vote—that single vote—hath ruined both Church and State." Every body the least versed in English history knows to what extent the prophecy was fulfilled. That vote cost Charles I. his head.

The three most difficult things are—to keep a secret, to forget an injury, and to make good use of leisure.

You know mock modesty as you do mock-turtle—from its being the product of a calf's head.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

FOR IDAHO.—Messrs. H. S. JENNINGS and S. W. PAUL, of this place, started last week with their families for the new El Dorado. They seemed quite confident of success.

U. L. A.—The county council of U. L. A. will meet in Union Hall, Hastings, on Saturday, May 21st, at 1 P. M., for the transaction of important business. It is desirable that every council in the county be represented.

SCHOOL MEETING.—There will be a special meeting of school district No 26 at Twichell's school-house on Friday evening, May 20th, at 7½ o'clock, for the purpose of considering the location of a suitable room for a school in the third ward.

PROF SHAW commenced his writing school last week. His class numbers some seventy pupils, and promised well. We wish some of our lawyers would take a course. We should do so our selves, would it not unfit us for our profession.

DRY.—We are experiencing a drought even more severe than that of last season, and the parched earth gives little promise of fruitful harvest. The river is falling, and the large boats will hardly reach St. Paul in ten day's time. Oh for a rain!

Seagrave Smith, Oliver Patch,
Frank J. Mead, Eugene Dean,
T. D. Thompson.

• PROF. KARL KAHR, prestidigitator and conjurer, gave one of his entertainments, asisted by his brother, elocutionist and vocalist, on Saturday evening last. As a juggler, KAHR has few equals, and his feats were received with great applause. We hope they will visit us again, and we will try and secure them a larger house.

CHRISTIAN COMMISSION.—The following contributions in money were made to this worthy institution, and delivered to Rev. F. G. ENSIGN, their local agent:

Hastings,	$73 95
Prescott,	56 00
Spring Lake,	15 00
	$144 95

THE CIRCUS.—DAN CASTELLO exhibited his great Moral Show in this city, last Thursday evening, to a full house, many of them from Prescott and Hudson. Some parts of the performance could not be excelled, while others indicated a want of practice. The Russian horse, the acting on the slack wire, and the feats on stilts, elicited the most applause. The corps of actors is not so complete as that of last year, neither was the entertainment as good.

FIRE.—About 10 A. M. of Wednesday last fire was discovered in the rear of the parsonage of the Romish Church of this city, and it burned down to the ground in a few moments. There was a very high wind raging at the time, and, had it not been for the strenuous exertion of the fire company and citizens, one half of the town would have been in ruins. The burning brands were thrown to a great distance, setting several buildings on fire, but they were speedily extinguished. Loss about $1,000. No insurance. Supposed to have originated from a defective chimney.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.—Regular meeting, May 9th, 1864. Present Acting Mayor WHITE, Alds WILSON, SIMON and LOVELL.

Bond of E. S. FITCH, city marshal. was approved.

Petition of A. W. GARDNER and others in relation to construction of sidewalk on Eighth Street, between Ramsey and Tyler, was granted, and the clerk instructed to give due notice to lot owners.

Road overseers were appointed as follows:

Second Ward.—Wm. AINSWORTH.
Third Ward.—P. CASSERLY.

Balloting for city printer resulted as follows:

Irving Todd,	3
C. Stebbins,	1

IRVING TODD, having received a majority of the votes cast, was declared elected printer for the city of Hastings.

Ald. WHITE was elected a committee to attend to repairs of side walks until standing committees were appointed.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS, From Here, There, and Elsewhere.

Echo-Men.

There is no greater bore than a human echo that repeats, assentingly, whatever one suggests or asserts. It is a nuisance to be always coincided with. A man of sense likes to argue his points and prove his positions. The whetstone of opposition sharpens his wits; but if met with a continual affirmative iteration of his own words, his game is blocked, and he is, so to speak, dumb-founded. On the contrary a sententious "No, I don't think so," puts a man on his mettle. If wrong, he has a chance of being set right; if right, of enjoying an honest triumph. To be in company with one who has no opinion but your opinion is as bad as being caged with a macaw. If you ask an individual in the habit of agreeing with everybody the reason of his complaisance, he may tell you, perhaps, that he hates controversy. Hates controversy? He might as well say he hates truth, for disputation is the crucible in which the gold of truth is separated from the alloy of error. How many things were taken for granted in former ages that modern argument has shown to be mere fallacies! The grand object of a man of mind is to acquire knowledge; but he can learn nothing from those who are always ready to pin their faith on his sleeve without taking the trouble to think for themselves. We detest the suavity that is too polite to doubt, and the indifference that is too phlegmatic to argue.

Influential Dwarf.

The Rochester Democrat, mentioning a visit of Joseph Leffel, of Springfield, O., to the former city, says: "He is the smallest business man in the world, and indeed, quite an atom as compared with Gen. Tom Thumb, Mr. Leffel being only forty-four inches in height, and weighing but fifty-five pounds! Mr. Leffel is now thirty-two years of age. He is intelligent, able-bodied, handsome-featured man, and sports a moustache that would really do credit to the Scotch giant. He has filled the office of supervisor in Springfield, and is regarded as one of the most public-spirited citizens of that place." He is about to marry Miss Sarah B. Balton, who is smaller than Mrs. Thumb, and was formerly Dolly Dutton's maid of honor.

Freemasonry.

Freemasonry is older than letters. Brand's Encyclopædia of Science, Literature, and Art says: "That from Egypt were derived the principal mysteries, and that it was in the darkness of subterranean apartments that those institutions had birth in which secresy was the first law. According to Plutarch, the Sphynxes, with which the entrances to their temples were decorated, signified that Egyptian mythology was mysterious and emblematic. In these temples the line and square were never abandoned, they had no circular monuments, and their temples were covered with symbolic characters. Thus has masonry seen the introduction of letters, the discovery of the arts and sciences, and the spread of the Christian religion; it has witnessed the rise and fall of all the old nations of earth; survived the darkness and turmoil of the middleages, and now stands a wonder of the world."

"Two things are indispensable for the orator," says a recent English writer; "a good subject, and a strong conviction. If a man is deficient in either of these, he fails; he may have the graces of Chesterfield, or the silver voice of Bolingbroke—he will not keep hold of his audience. But where these two things are united, a man has the foundation of success; then every advantage, natural and acquired, tells; and when on a good foundation good materials are laid, when the speaker adds voice, manners, though words, to a subject of which his heart is full, the effect is incalculable. It is then we learn the power of eloquence. The same requisites, a good subject and a strong conviction, or faith in the truth, power, and beauty of what we read, makes the eloquent reader. Goodness and faith are the master keys of the young soul; these should be touched gently by the mother's hand, and kept in harmony with the advance of intellect, so that her son may feel warmly as well as reason justly, if she would train him to the highest vocation of humanity—that of turning many to righteousness."

A Newburyport sugar merchant heard, a few days since, that sugar had gone up two cents, and telling no one what he was going to do, immediately rushed off and bought the whole stock of another merchant at 21 cents. He was so delighted with the operation that he treated the clerks all around on his return, and then learned that a man as clever as himself had bought all his stock at 20 cents while he was away.

From the School Friend.

District Superintendent.

Among the many differences between the Atlantic States and those of the extreme west, there is none more important or more painful than the difference between their institutions of learning. We have the same names as in the older states; we talk of our acadamies, colleges, and universities; and it is possible that we have the germs of such establishments.

We speak not of this as a reproach, for the sea board states were once young, and the noblest institutions were once noble only in promise. But we need to hold in mind what mature and well formed institutions are, lest we become satisfied with our rudimentary system and cease to cry 'excelsior.'

Institutions for liberal culture are important; much more important are common schools. The former educate the few, the latter the many; those form the cap-stone, these the foundation; the higher institutions will follow in due time, and of necessity, if the common schools are founded and nourished wisely and well; but without good schools universities can exist only in name. We may safely allow projects for founding colleges to rest for a twelve-month, and give undivided attention to the education of the children.

To build up a good system of public schools requires labor, both wise and patient. Eastern capital cannot come in and do the work as it builds up our railroads. Public schools cannot be founded as a temple is built, and left with little care to stand through the ages. A good system of education comes to maturity, like the human body, by natural growth through constant nourishment according to the normal laws of health.

The first thing necessary is good laws. Public schools; it is the statute which gives them existence, shape, and permanence. The law must make provision for school houses, for teachers, and for necessary expenses. If the laws are greatly faulty we may expect the schools to be equally so. Without schools some young men will educate themselves and rise to eminence, but it is rare. Thus also without good school laws there will be some good schools; made such by teachers of surpassing worth, in communities whose good sense and enterprise overleap the bounds of feeble legislation.

The second requisite for good schools is good teachers. These cannot be directly legislated into existence; a vote, albeit of a state legislature cannot raise up at once a band of well trained, conscientious, and enthusiastic instructors for the public school rooms. There must be public sentiment calling for something beside rude strength in the 'master;' there must be sufficient pecuniary inducement for teachers to devote themselves to their calling, and to seek for skill and high attainments; available means of professional discipline must be set before them; that is provisions must be made for normal instruction. We can never have good schools till we have teachers of high culture, and these have been obtained, in the older states, only through the insrumentality of normal schools. It is the teacher's self that most strongly impresses the pupil. A man of a gentlemanly culture sitting silent in a school room is better than all the rude instruction of a clown.

The third requisite for a system of schools which will do good service is suitable and efficient executive and superintending officers. To this we call especial attention. Laws, however good, do not execute themselves. So important is the work of enforcing the laws that the chief executive is held as the highest officer in state and nation. But what could the president or our governor do without subordinates? In the executive department there must be a head, and there must also be subordinates with minor responsibilities till the eye of an officer rests on the whole land. Only in this way can laws be enforced and property and life be protected. Just so also it is in the school system. Any considerations which show the necessity of having a governor for the state, show with hardly less clearness the necessity of making some man responsible for the execution of the school law; and if county magistrates and courts are required, county school officers are needed. Can the eye of a state superintendent look into every school, mark its wants and see that they are provided for? Can the state superintendent see that only qualified teachers are permitted to rule among the children? Can he hear the complaints of aggrieved parties, whether teachers, parents or pupils, and as a disinterested judge administer justice? This a is local work and requires local officers. It is also absolutely essential in order that good schools may be obtained. Each local district should be so small that one man can visit all the schools, examine all the teachers, and reach by his personal influence its every part; and so large that the office will not be contemptible nor the remuneration absolutely inadequate; so large that some good man may always be found in it. It is better to have one man giving his whole time to two counties than to have four men giving one fourth of their time to one half of a county. Wisconsin gives a superintendent to each county, and leaves each county to fix the salary of its superintendent. This arrangement is working exceedingly well. New York gives two superintendents to a county and fixes their salary at $600 each. Minnesota is not yet sufficiently developed to need a system like that. But whatever system be adopted, there should be such a system of oversight as will secure the accomplishment of the beneficent purposes of the law, see that money and energy be not wasted, and that the children be not defrauded by false and unworthy institutions, and spoiled.

We cannot overrate the importance of this matter. One generation comes to this state with education already complete. That generation gives to the state its original character and name. The next generation must be educated here. If good schools are not immediately provided the new generation must suffer, the people in the state will retrograde in intelligence and culture, and that step backward cannot soon be recovered. The children must be prepared to bear up their parents' good name. Let us then have good laws; they will lay a good foundation and help to guide and develop an intelligent and vigorous public sentiment. Let us have superintendents, but good ones or none, we say. In no state will the people respond more readily to noble and generous legislation than in this. We choose wise and independent legislators that they may lead us, not that they may follow a crude and ill formed public opinion. If our rulers will show themselves able leaders, the people will recognize them as such and quickly fall into line and follow.

VINDEX.

Our Schools.

WASIOJA, Dec., 11, 1863.

Prof. Thickstun:

My experience as a school examiniar is probably somewhat peculiar, owing to the fact that most of the teachers in this district have been students in our institution. While they have manifested a comparative efficiency of which we need not be ashamed, very few of them have such attainments as they ought to possess before assuming the office and work of teachers.

Of the other teachers who have been before me for examination, most of them have been teachers in the East, and for the most part appear to have once been fairly qualified. But, through devotion to their pursuits, and neglect of institutes, teachers' periodicals, etc., they are rusty and behind the times.

My observation elsewhere is to the effect that our teachers generally are still more incompetent—for the most part teaching as a sort of by-work to eke out a livelihood mostly secured from some other pursuit. There is no Espit du corps, no general interchange of thought or emulation of method. Professional feeling is almost entirely lacking; and, in spirit and attainments, our schools remind one of those of New York and Pennsylvania twenty years ago, before anything worthy of the name of a school system had been inaugurated in those statse.

And that our schools are not worse still than they are, seems to me to be owing to no merit in our present lack-of-system school law, but solely to the good sense and energy of the people. All that I can perceive of effectiveness in the law is the name of a school law, keeping the idea of schools somewhat in mind, and the giving a majority—if it happans to be in favor of exercising it—the right to tax the district for school purposes. Beyond these, it is King Log, most emphatically,

The fundamental principles of an efficient school system are not hard to be understood, and have been fully developed by the great educators of the land, and it would seem that they need not be overlooked nor neglected, even in these troublous times.

1. The state is under obligation to educate the children of the state, or see that they are educated. Not a few, but all.

2. The property of the state is to pay for educating the children of the state.

3. The state, having assumed the office of educator, and having appropriated the money of the state therefor, is bound—not simply to permit the people to have schools, but—itself to provide them, and to furnish them with such agencies and supervision, as shall not only guarantee schools, but, especially schools of the highest possible character.

The first and last of these, our present law overlooks and neglects; and neglecting these it were well nigh as well to neglect the other also. Truly yours,

ALVIN D. WILLIAMS.

THE BEST SCHOLAR.—In every school there is one who is called the best scholar. Teachers and pupils have no difficulty in deciding who is entitled to this honorable distinction, and when we once heard the pupils of a school exclaim, as a bright-eyed boy entered the room, "Here comes Frank; he is the best boy in school," we thought, "What a good introduction to a new teacher." After becoming acquainted with the scholars we found that they had told the truth. Frank was the best boy in school, and will no doubt become one of the best men in the city. Think of it, boys. "The best boy in school." Who would not be proud of such a title? It is worth more than millions of dollars. But perhaps some scholars will say, "We can't all be the best." This is true, but you have a right to try, and the one who will try the hardest will succeed, for there is power in that little word try. Frank could not be the best boy in his school if he did not try. If you cannot be the best, be careful and not be the worst. Every school has one boy who is worse than any other scholar. We pity him; we pity his parents, his brothers and sisters. What a disgraceful title, "The worst boy in school" He will no doubt become one of the worst men in the community. Let every boy who reads this, resolve to be "the best boy in school."

A letter writer from Saratoga says that waltzing has been a failure among the fashionables there during the past season. It ought to be always and every where. How a lady of purity could ever permit herself to engage in it, passes our comprehension. It is indelicate, indecent, and unfit to be tolerated any where out of the licentious cities of Europe whence it sprung.

Writing Compositions

We are in receipt of batches of compositions, marked "Written for Clark's School Visitor." It is a tax and a task to read all that find their way to our table. We notice a common and fatal mistake among young writers. They try to walk into the School Visitor columns on stilts, and always tumble down before they reach our printers' cases. Words from some [extraordinary conversational vocabulary] are sought, and set in sentences for word's sake rather than for sense,—like the ones bracketed above!

2. Young folks, would you become good writers? Hearken! First improve your spoken compositions—then your written ones will the more easily and gracefully follow. First teach your tongue the art of sentence-making,—afterward your fingers. Strive to be correct talkers. Use the commonest words, but be sure that you express your exact meaning, even if you should occasionally venture to write a word you may seldom have spoken.

3. Here are a few words, pretty and expressive when properly used, but so flirted with by scholars in their teens—the misses and misters of the boarding-schools—that we would try to write around them: Zephyr, ethereal, celestial, seraph, region, angelic, clime, regal, elysian, gentle, throne, glorious, messenger, morpheus, flowery, triumphant, moonlight, grove, roseate, gossamer, heavenly, splendid, pinion, magnificent. These are only a few that have been courted to death. The list may serve to show our meaning. The most acceptable composition a teacher receives from a pupil is the one that best shows the writer's personality. The highest commendation a teacher can give a composition by Mary or Thomas is to say of it, "That is just like Mary, or Thomas." It is better to have your peculiar self recognized all through your writings, than to be known merely by your name at the begining or at the end of your paper.

4. There is a neatly written contribution before us, just now, from a young student of seventeen, sent "for the School Visitor." It soars off among the balancings of the universe in a style far beyond the brain wings of any mortal of shrewdest seventeen! In the first twenty lines of the manuscript there are three times as many adjectives as nouns and verbs together! Thin out the qualifiers. Build in solid predicates. Arrange sentences for the press as you would for the telegraph. Grasp after new thought, and express your gains and joys in a way as new and as living as the wisdom that blesses your study.—Clark's School Visitor.

EDUCATION IN THE UNITED STATES.—According to Appleton's American Annual Cyclopedia for 1862, the whole number of children attending the common schools was 5,211,000, or one in every 5 1-2 of the free white population. Of these, 4,560,000 were in the loyal states, or one in every four of the populations; 651,000 were in the other states, or nearly one in every 14. The expenditure was $23,461,000, or about 87 cents for every white inhabitant. The largest expenditure for schools purposes in any state, in proportion to the population, is in Illinois, wher it is at the rate of $1 58 per head. Massachusetts is the next largest, being $1 34 per head. The expenditures of the private schools, high schools, academies, and boarding-schools, in which there were not less than 600,000 pupils, was $20,000,000. The expenditure of the 240 colleges, with their 20,000 under-graduates, was not less than $5,000,000; of the 92 theological seminaries, with 4,120 students, $1,000,000; of the 55 medical schools and 7,000 students, $1,400,000; of the 18 law school and 1,300 students, $261,000; of the normal schools and 2,740 students, $500,000; of the 15 scientific schools, polytechnic, and agricultural colleges, with 1,500 students, $400,000; of the 53 institutions for the instruction of the deaf, blind, and idiots, with 7,850 pupils, $1,187,500: making the total annual cost for these various institutions of learning, containing over 5,855,000 pupils, not less than $53,198,500. The number of school-books of all kinds consumed annually, both in the week day schools and the Sabbath-schools, is estimated at between seven and ten millions of volumes.

INCONCEIVABLE SUMS.—A writer in a New York paper has made the following wonderful calculations. The simple interest of one cent at 6 per cent per annum, from the commencement of the Christian era to the close of 1863, would be but 11 dollars, 17 cents, and 8 mills. If it had been computed at compound interest, it would require 848,40 billions of globes of solid gold, each equal to the earth in magnitude, to pay the interest; and if the sum were equally divided among the inhabitants of the earth, estimated to be 1,000,000,000, every man, woman, and child would receive 84,840 golden worlds for an inheritance. Were all these globes side by side in a direct line, it would take lightning 73,000 years to travel from end to end; and if a Parrot gun were discharged at one extremity, light travelling 192,000 miles a second, the cannon ball continuing its initial velocity about 1,500 feet per second, and sound moving through the air 1,120 feet in a second a man at the other end would see the flash after waiting 110,000 years; the ball would reach him in 74 billions of years, but he would not hear the report till the end of one thousand millions of centuries.

All things may be divided into two classes. First, things that you can help, second, things that you can't help. To fret about the first would be unmanly; about the second would be utter folly; therefore, fret not at all.

AGRICULTURAL.

Preparing Seeds for Sowing.

We can afford to borrow agricultural ideas from the Chinese, for they are the oldest farmers in the world. No nation upon the earth can produce as much food per acre as these people, and none can approach them in scientific culture. They understand the process of dwarfing trees to perfection. Oaks three feet high filled with acorns are seen growing in tubs in their private gardens, and travelers tell of beautiful results in flower grafting, such as are seen in no other quarter of the globe. These people never plant grain or seed of any kind, without first soaking them in dilnted manure till they sprout. They argue that this not only gives the plant an early and vigorous start, but preserves the seeds from worms or birds. We should do well to make a trial of like character, soaking the seeds in water liberally medicated with night soil or hen manure, and there is little doubt we shall find they had absorbed stimulating food enough to make a far more rapid growth that if planted without the soaking. The various steeps used in this country for corn, squashes, melons, etc., do but little good, if any at all. They have been tried effectually, and being almost unusually weak acids and alkalis, the results have been trifling and unimportant. The suggestion of the Chinese method has something tangible in it, and it is very easy to understand why the liquid manure, if absorbed by the seed, as it must be, if soaked in it, should stimulate it into an early and healthy start, and give increased vigor to the plant through the entire growth up to harvest time. We do not appreciate the powerful properties of night soil as a stimulant and feeder. The Chinese do, and prefer it to any other fertilizer. The more we borrow of agricultural knowledge from the Chinese, the wiser and richer we shall become as a nation.

At a late meeting of the French Academy of Sciences, M. Serres gave an account of the Valata, a shrub which abounds in Guinia, and affords a juice which he asserts is superior, for many purposes, to gutta-percha, but especially as an isulating material for enveloping telegraphic wires. The milk or juice is drinkable, and used by the natives with coffee. It coagulates quickly when exposed to the air, and almost immediately when precipitated by alcohol, which also dissolves the resin of the Valata juice, All the articles made with gutta-percha can be made with the sap of the Valata, and has no disagreable smell. When worked up, it becomes as supple as cloth, and more flexible than gutta-percha. M. Serres exhibited a number of articles manufactured of Valata milk. Up to the present time it seems from Serras account, not to have become an article of commercial export.

WHY DON'T HE DO IT?—When a farmer knows that the winter season is the time to prepare bar-posts and repair all kinds of farming tools, Why does he not do it?

When a farmer knows that wagons and sleighs, and other carriages, will last a great deal longer when properly housed, Why don't he do it?

When a farmer knows that cows will do better on a less quantity of food if properly stabled through the winter, Why don't he do it?

When a farmer sees the boards dropping from his barns and out-buildings, and knows that it would take only a few minutes to nail them on again, Why don't he do it?

When a farmer knows that a good part of his farm would be improved by plowing it in narrow lands—thus giving water a chance to drain off, Why don't he do it?

When a farmer knows that most of his plowland would be greatly improved by sowing clover, Why don't he do it.

EARLY TOMATOES.—Mrs. E. D. Kendall, of Maryland, thus writes to the Southern Field and Fireside: "A good large turnip is far better than any hot-bed for propagating early tomatoes. Cut off the top, and scoop out to a shell three quarters of an inch thick. Fill the cavity with rich mould, plant half a dozen seeds, and place the turnip in a box of loam. Keep warm, sprinkle with tepid water every day, until there is no longer any danger from frost, then return the turnip to the outdoor bed, and thin out all but one plant. Should the turnip send out roots, pinch rhem off, and the shell will soon rot, affording a fertilizer to the tomato plant that will send it ahead wonderfully. A dozen turnips tomatoized will afford an abundant supply of early tomatoes for an ordinary family."

The cheapest and most nutritous vegetable used for food is beans. Professor Liebig says that pork and beans form a compound of substances peculiarly adapted to furnish all that is necessary to support life. A quart of beans costs, in Cambridge, eight cents; half a pound of pork, six cents. This, as every housekeeper knows, will feed a small family for a day with food, strengthening food. Four quarts of beans and two pounds of corned beef, boiled to rags in fifty quarts of water, will furnish a good meal to forty men at a cost of fifty cents—one cent and a quarter a meal.

CORN FODDER.—The enormous expense of hay feed at this time, and the expectation that the winter of 1864-'65 will be still more severe in the matter of dollars and cents, it behoves small farmers to plant that which will yield the greatest per centage of nutrition for their cattle. A correspondent states that the past winter, on the produce of only two acres, he fed a horse, a yoke of oxen, three cows, and three young cattle. The crop was corn stalks, seed sown broadcast two a half bushels to the acre; yield per acre, seven tons cured fodder.

Finish Thy Work.

Finish thy work, the time is short;
The sun is in the West;
The night is coming down—till then
Think not of rest.

Yes, finish all thy work, then rest;
Till then, rest never;
The rest prepared for thee by God
Is rest forever.

Finish thy work, then wipe thy brow;
Ungird thee from thy toil,
Take breath, and from each weary limb
Shake off the soil.

Finish thy work, then sit thee down
On some celestial hill,
And from its strength-reviving air,
Take thou thy fill.

Finish thy work, then go in peace;
Life's battle fought and won,
Hear from the throne the Master's voice
"Well done! well done!"

Finish thy work, then take thy harp,
Give praise to God above;
Sing a new song of mighty joy:
And endless love.

Give thanks to him who held thee up
In all thy path below;
Who made thee faithful unto death,

A Moment of Horror.

For twenty-three years, says a correspondent of the Mobile Register, old Jake Willard has cultivated the soil of Baldwin County, and drawn therefrom a support for self and wife. He is childless. Not long ago, Jake left the house in search of a missing cow. His route led through an old worn out patch of clay land, of about sixteen acres, in extent, in the centre of which is a well 25 or 30 feet deep, that at some time had probably furnished the inmates of a dilapidated house near by with water. In passing by this spot, an ill wind lifted Jake's "tile" from his head, and maliciously wafted it to the edge of the well, and in it tumbled.

Now Jake had always practiced the virtue of economy, and he immediately set about recovering the lost hat. He ran to the well, and finding it was dry at the bottom, he uncoiled the rope which he had brought for the purpose of capturing the cow, and after several attempts to catch the hat with a noose, he concluded to save time by going down into the well himself. To accomplish this, he made fast one end of the rope close hard by, and was quickly on his way down the well.

It is a fact of which Jake was no less oblivious than the reader hereof, that Ned Wells was in the dilapidated building aforesaid, and that an old blind horse, with a bell on his neck, who had been turned out to die, was lazily grazing within a short distance of the well.

The old boy or some other wicked spirit put it into his cranium to have a little fun—so he quickly slipped up to the horse, and unbuckling the bell strap, approached with a slow, measured "ting-a-ling" to the edge of the well.

"Blast that old blind horse!" said Jake, "he's coming this way sure, and ain't got no more sense than to fall in here. Whoa, Ball!"

But the continued approach of the "ting-a-ling" said as plainly as words that Ball wouldn't whoa. Besides Jake was at the bottom resting, before trying to shin it up the rope.

"Great Jerusalem!" said he, "the old cuss will be atop of me before I can say Jack Robinson—Whoa, blast you, Whoa!"

Just then Ned drew up to the edge of the well and with his foot kicked a little dirt into it.

"Oh! Lord!" exclaimed Jake, falling upon his knees at the bottom, "I'm gone, now, Whoa!—Now I lay me down to sleep—Whoa, Ball! I pray the Lord my soul to—Whoa, now. Oh Lord, have mercy on me!"

Ned could hold in no longer, and fearing Jake might suffer from his fright, he revealed himself.

Probably Ned didn't make tracks from that well in short order after Jake got up.

Gentleman—"My good woman how much is that goose?"

Market woman—"Well, you may have two for a greenback and a half."

Gentleman—But I only want one."

Market woman—"Can't help it; ain't a goi'n to sell one without t'other. Them ere geese, to my certain knowledge hev been together for more'n thirteen years and I ain't a-goin to be so unfeelin' as to separate 'em now."

—A hardshell Baptist preacher, in discoursing about Daniel in the lions' den, said: "And there he sot all night long, looking at the show for nothing; and it did not cost him a cent."

MISCELLANEOUS.

U. S. INTERNAL REVENUE.

Annual Taxes for 1864.

The attention of tax-payers is hereby called to the provisions of the United States Excise Law relative to the assessment of annual taxes.

By the sixth section of the act of July 1, 1862, it is made the duty of all persons, partnerships, firms, associations, or corporations, made liable to any annual duty, license, or tax, on or before the 1st Monday of May in each year, to make a list or return to the assistant assessor of the district where so located of the amount of annual income, the articles or objects charged with a special tax, and the business or occupation liable to pay any license.

Every person who shall fail to make such return by the day specified will be liable to be assessed by the assessor according to the best information which he can obtain; and in such case the assessor is required to add fifty per centum to the amount of the items of said list.

Every person who shall deliver to an assessor any false or fraudulent list or statement, with intent to evade the valuation or enumeration required by law, is subject to a fine of five hundred dollars: and in such case the list will be made out by the assessor or assistant assessor, and from the valuation and enumeration so made there can be no appeal.

Payment of the annual taxes, except those for licenses, will not be demanded until the 30th day of June,

The appropriate blanks on which to make return and all necessary information will be furnished by ELI ROBINSON, assistant assessor for the 3d Division, to whom the returns should be delivered on or before the first Monday of May, at his office in Hastings.

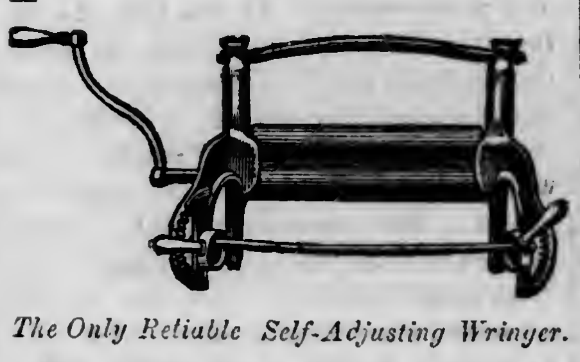
PUTNAM CLOTHES-WRINGER.



The Only Reliable Self-Adjusting Wringer.

The frame being of iron, thoroughly galvanized, all danger from rust is removed, and the liability to shrink, swell, split, etc., so unavoidable in wooden machines, is prevented. No thumbscrews or complicated fastenings to wear out or get out of repair; it can be fastened firmly to the tub in a single second. Warranted with or without cog wheels.

Instead of believing the statements of parties interested in the sale of other Wringers, try it and judge for yourself. Test it thoroughly with any and all others, and, if not entirely successful, return it. It will wring anything from a thread to a bed quilt without alteration.

Patented in the United States, England, Canada, and Australia. Agents wanted in every town. Energetic men can make from $3 to $10 per day.

Putnam Manufacturing Co., Gentleman:

I know from practical experience that iron well galvanized with zinc will not oxidize or rust one particle. I can safely say, after three years' experience in the manufacture of chain for chain pumps and water drawers, in which I have tested the affinity of iron and zinc, that if the process be conducted properly it is a perfect weld of the two.

Nearly one year ago my family commenced using one of your wringers. It now performs all of its functions as well as it did the first time it was used, and has become an indispensable article with us. I have closely observed several other kinds of clothes-wringers, the modus operandi being different, trying to produce the same results as the Putnam Wringer, but in my judgment they have failed. The Putnam Wringer is as near perfect as possible, and I can cheerfully recommend it to be the best in use. Respectfully yours, JNO. W. WHEELER,
Cleveland, O.

Many years' experience in the galvanizing business enable me to indorse the above statement in all particulars. JNO. C. LEFFERTS,
No. 100 Beekman Street.

UNIVERSAL CLOTHES WRINGER.

"A child can readily wring out a tub full of clothes in a few minutes. It is in reality a clothes saver, a time saver, and a strength saver. The saving of garments alone will pay a large percentage on its cost. We think the machine much more than pays for itself every year in the saving of garments. There are several kinds nearly alike in general construction, but we consider it important that the Wringer be fitted with Cogs, otherwise a mass of garments may clog the rollers, and the rollers upon the crank shaft slip and tear the clothes, or the rubber break loose from the shaft. Our own is one of the first make, and it is as good as new after nearly four years' constant use."

Every Wringer with Cog Wheels is Warranted in Every Particular.

SEWING MACHINES.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINES.—Our Letter A Family Sewing Machine is fast gaining a world-wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the best and cheapest and most beautiful of all family sewing machines yet offered to the public. No other family sewing machine has so many useful appliances for hemming, binding, felling, tucking, gathering, guaging, braiding, embroidering, cording, etc. No other family sewing machine has so much capacity for so great a variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our family sewing machine most reliable and most durable and, most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see, at a glance, how to use the Letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our family sewing machines are finished in chaste and exquisite sty.

The folding case of the family machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substantial table to sustain the work. While some of the cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the more costly and superior manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the family machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty. It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The branch offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, etc., of the very best quality

Sewing Machines.

These Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread or loop-stitch machines do will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather, without changing the feed, needle, or tension, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood, and if any part is broken by accident it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

THE CONSERVER.

Tobacco.

When we consider the fact that this plant produces no nutritive substance—is an unsightly object while growing, having no beauty of flowers or foliage, no pleasant odors—but,on the contrary, has a disagreeable taste and smell, when eaten produces vomiting and giddiness and when taken in large quantities causes death, we are surprised that it should play the part it does in the world—that it should become an important agricultural product—that it should be produced in such quantities as to require one-eighth of the tonnage of the civilized world to freight it—that its commercial importance should compare favorably with any other single article—that it should be made the pet of enterprise and the object of special legislation—that thousands should be busied in its production and manufacture—that vast amounts of capital should be employed in its purchase and sale—and that nearly half the male population of the civilized world should be engaged in chewing, smoking, and snuffing tobacco.

But it has happened with this poisonous, fated plant as with men who sometimes rise without merit to posts of honor and dignity.

It is not strange perhaps that sometimes not a word of encouragement or congratulation is spoken to an editor who may devote many hours of hard labor to please the patrons of his paper, while he is sure upon every corner of the street to be reminded of every omission or oversight. If, amid the multiplicity of duties devolving upon a country editor as publisher, business man, foreman, pressman, book keeper, and collecting agent, he overlooks the slightest matter which should appear in his paper, he is reminded of it in a manner that is oftentimes insulting and always inconsiderate. If, upon the other hand, he was promptly paid when he deserved it, he would be relieved of much labor and have more time to devote to his matters complained of. Remember this.—Erie Dispatch.

Inconceivable Minuteness.—Science has not only revealed and magnified the teeming forms of animal life that are so small that they cannot be seen by the unaided vision, but has been able to execute works of skill so minutely as almost to defy belief. At the last London International Exhibition, a machine for microscopic writing was exhibited, by which the Lord's prayer could be written in the 356,000th of a square inch, a space like a minute dot. The English Bible contains 3,566,480 letters, or is about 16,000 times longer than the prayer, so that it could be written in less than the twenty-second part of a square inch. In other words, the whole Bible could by this machine be written twenty-two times in one square inch. This wonderfully minute writing is clearly legible when placed under a good microscope.

A farmer in Canada recently lost his wife, and on the day appointed for the funeral, when the guests were assembled, he persisted in postponing the funeral. Several sympathetic friends, who endeavored to reconcile him to a final leave of the loved remains, elicited from the distracted man the fact that he had been disappointed in the attendance of a professional gentleman to extract several teeth containing gold filling, which had cost him $12, some years previous.

In the warrant for town meeting in a neighboring town a few weeks since, one of the articles was to see if the town would authorize the erection of a flagstaff. One old Copperhead patriarch, on the day of the meeting, was heard to ask his friend what kind of a flag it was proposed to display upon the staff. "The Stars and Stripes, of course," replied the friend. "I thought so," said the old shell-back, "I knew it was some d—n black republican project."—Portland Advertiser.

A traveler stopping at a hotel exclaimed one morning to a waiter, "What are you about, you black rascal? you have aroused me twice from my sleep by telling me that breakfast is ready, and now you are attempting to strip off the bed clothes. What do you mean?" "Why" replied Pompey, "if you isn't going to get up, I must have the sheet anyhow, cause dey'r waiting for de table cloff."

A Brown's Society exists in Glasgow. It was established nearly one hundred years ago. Only persons or relatives of persons bearing the name of Brown are admitted. Each member contributes a certain sum for the purpose of raising a fund to be applied to the relief of indigent persons of the name of Brown and others connected with persons of that name.

At the N. N. Fair:—Scene: Very pretty girl pinning a boquet on young swell's coat. Young swell—"Twenty-five cents for the boquet I think you said: here's a two dollar greenback." Young lady—"Yes, twenty five cents for the boquet; a dollar for pinning it on your coat; and seventy-five cents for the pin. That's just right; thank you. Can't I show you something else?"

The farmers of Mormon Coolie are luxuriating on a new article of domestic economy. It is composed of a quart of molasses, a gill of vinegar, and a half a dozen eggs. The eggs are well beaten, and then boiled with the mixture a few minutes. It is cheap, palatable, and named by old ladies, "Lincoln Butter."

We met a young man, who bore a red face, had a rowdyish air, and whose breath indicated frequent libations: "He will not live long," said a friend who was with me—he is traveling altogether to fast for a long journey."

Work For Institutes.

In adverting to the countless subject adapted to oral instruction in the school room, we should not forget, that a teacher's experience, judiciously exhibited, may be of more value than the discussion of many and various topics embraced in scholastic learning. I am therefore impressed with the belief, that if our district institutes were, occasionally, converted into experience meetings, many advantages would result, not only to those just entering the profession, but even to those of established reputations.

The increasing importance attached to primary teaching has greatly enlarged our sphere of observation; for it has now become an admitted fact, among many intelligent school directors, that the most skillful teachers should be placed in the most backward schools. And when we reflect how much influence correct elementary instructions is adapted to exert,—not only on the future progress of the pupil, but in forming habits of observation, cultivating the moral sense and infusing a literary taste into his mind,—when each and all of these important aims are considered, the primary—nay even the infant schools,—appears a most important institution. But, as I have alluded to teacher's experiences, let me illustrate by an example.

In——county the superintendent had occasion to visit a small school. It was small in several senses of the term,—in the number of pupils, their size, and their attainments. Taking a suitable opportunity pretty early in the visit, he asked in general terms respecting the progress of the pupils, and was answered encouragingly in regard to all present, except one case, which the lady confessed had baffled her skill and perseverance. It was that of a little girl who had been trying to learn the alphabet and had been about three months attending school, without being able to recognize a single letter when taken indiscriminately over the lesson. The superintendent, having expressed some surprise, declared that "this would not do;" and he further expressed the opinion, that "the case had not been well managed." Also, to show his skil in teaching Abecedarians, he offered to take the business in hand, instanter,—expressing confidence that he could succeed in teaching the child at least two letters, before leaving the house.

To work he went, in good earnest and the pupil appeared quite willing to learn. He selected two letters the most dissimilar in the alphabet (as I and O) and commenced, first,by requiring distinct articulation and reiteration of the respective sound; and afterwards by using familiar objects for illustration, such as a straight stick, the boundaries of a widow-pane, etc., for the former—the watch crystal, (taken from his pocket) a cart wheel, the crown of a hat, etc., for the latter. All these illustrations were presented with great patience, and in a pleasant manner. The pupil, on her part, really seemed to have her mind awakened, and to look, with a desire to learn; but, after a large portion of an hour employed, when the test came to be applied, it was discovered that no perceptible progress had been made.

It was my fortune to hear of the result of this singular case about a month afterward. Its singularity had attracted some attention, for several miles around. The lady, when at a party, was asked "how her smart pupil was progressing?" "Very well," said she; "she is now reading intelligently in Sanders' First Reader,—she is the brightest scholar in the class. Oh! I wish Mr. —— would pay me another visit. I think I could show him something now, worth a ride to my school." It is not every young teacher that can produce specimens of their art like this. But,fellow teachers of experience, could you not recount many singular ones that have fallen under your observation and which serve abundantly to illustrate the fact, that the mysterious thing which we call mind, has qualities eminently adapted to your sphere of investigation? And that its divine energy is in nothing more remarkable than in those wonderful powers of association by which it is frequently enabled to conceive and combine ideas, often originating from the examination of objects the most unlike in their essential qualities.

"Lull-d in the countless chambers of the brain,
Our thoughts are linked by many a hidden chain;
Awake but one, and lo! what myriads rise,
Each stamps its image as another flies."

It is to the powers of association that we owe so much success in presenting appropriate stimulants to the mind. I have not exhibited the one that manifested so much energy in the case referred to, but every observing teacher will have many such stored in his mind, and, perhaps few institute exercises, employed occasionally, will prove more profitable.—Penn. School Journal.

Monticello Teachers' Institute.

The institute organized by appointing B. F. Miller director, and S. H. Norrish secretary.

The following resolutions were passed.

1. That a state and county superintendency are necessary to a successful school system.

2. That a system of teachers' institutes, under the patronage of the state, as a means of awakeing interest among the people on the subject of education, is desirable.

PUBLICATIONS.

1864. PROSPECTUS. 1864.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

No Submission to Traitors. "The Union Must and Shall be Preserved."

This well known and popular journal is noted for avowing its sentiments with candor, fearlessness, and independence. It aims to be right rather than popular, and takes the responsibility of telling the truth regardless of the offense that may be given to prejudice and ignorance.

The principles and objects which the Chicago Tribune espouses are: The Cause of Freedom. Justice and Humanity. Perpetuity of the Union. Obedience to the Constitution and Supremacy of the Laws. A Denial of the Right o a Rebels to hold any Loyal Person in Slavery, and an Affirmance that Rebels have no Rights under the Constitution until they first obey it. And the prosecution of the war against treason until the authority of the government is established over the whole union. There must be no faltering—no steps backwards. Failure will now entail dishonor and misery, rendering life and property insecure, and leaving the country a prey to anarchy, rapine, and murder. Too much priceless blood and treasure have been sacrificed to stop now. The cheapest and straightest road to enduring peace is straight forward. If it cost our forefathers seven years of fearful struggle to found the republic,it is surely worth as great an effort on the part of this generation to preserve it.

We have no abiding faith that the ensuing year will witness the complete overthrow of the rebel confedecracy. During the past year great victories have been won, and a territory larger than France or Germany has been wrested from the rebels and restored to the union. One more campaign by sea and land "will close forever the fountains of sedition and civil war"

A First Class Newspaper.

But the Chicago Tribune, while fearless in the expression of its opinions and patriotic in its endevors, aims at being a first class newspaper. It brings the news to the people of the Northwest several days sooner than the papers of the seaboard.

The contents of the Weekly Tribune embrace:

1st.—A complete current history of the progress of the war, with the general news of the day.

2d.—Copious telegraphic dispatches and special correspondence, containing the latest news, from all parts, down to the hour of going to press.

3d.—Reports of meetings, wheer political, religious, agricultural, educational, or miscellaneous.

5th.—Market reports, embracing every article the farmer or dealer can expect to find quoted in a newspaper. The Tribune has achieved the highest reputation as a commercial paper.

6th.—Carefully prepared agricultural and horticultural articles by "Rural" and other able writers on the farm and garden.

TERMS—PAYABLE IN ADVANCE.

In consequence of the high price of white paper and the great increase of the wages of printers, and the enhanced cost of everything connected with printing, the following are the lowest terms at which the Tribune can be afforded. There will be no deviation from these rates:

Weekly, single subscribers,	$ 2 00
" to clubs of 4 copies,	7 00
" to clubs of 6 copies,	10 00
" to clubs of 12 copies,	18 00
" to clubs of 21 copies,	30 00
Tri-Weekly, single subscribers,	5 00
" six months,	3 00
" to clubs of 4 copies	18 00
" to clubs of 8 copies	34 00

Daily Tribune one year nine dollars
Daily Tribune six months five dollars.
Daily Tribune three months two dollars.

Remittances for clubs must be made at one time, but additions may be made at any time at club rates, after a club has been raised.

PREMIUMS FOR CLUBS.

For a club of 12 copies to one address, with $18, a free copy of the weekly.

For a club of 22 copies to one address, with $33, a free copy of tri-weekly for six months.

For a club of 40 copies to one address, with $80, a free copy of the tri-weekly one year or daily six months.

SEWING MACHINES.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINES.—Our Letter A Family Sewing Machine is fast gaining a world-wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the best and cheapest and most beautiful of all family sewing machines yet offered to the public. No other family sewing machine has so many useful appliances for hemming, binding, felling, tucking, gathering, guaging, braiding, embroidering, cording, etc. No other family sewing machine has so much capacity for so great a variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our family sewing machine most reliable and most durable and, most certain in action at allrates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see, at a glance, how to use the Letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our family sewing machines are finished in chaste and exquisite sty

The folding case of the family machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substanstial table to sustain the work. While some of the cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the more costly and superior manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the family machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty. It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The branch offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, etc., of the very best quality

Sewing Machines.

These Machines make the lock-stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread or loop-stitch machines do will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, tc., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather, without changing the feed, needle, or tension, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood, and if any part is broken by accident it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

The News.

Official reports from Gen. Sherman's command, dated Kingston, Georgia, 2 P. M. 19th inst., announce that Sherman reached Kingston and encamped last night and this wing is to be advanced upon the enemy who again retreated. The dispatch states that while it was being written, Hooker and Howard's guns were hammering at Kingston, and the armies were in plain sight of each other two miles east of Kingston.

Gen. Davidson of the 14th corps was in possession of Rome. Gen. Sherman reports the weather and roads good, and the country more open and less mountainous.

Grant is reported to have turned Lee's entire right, and the position of both armies is materially changed. The engagement of Wednesday last was very satisfactory, so far as our forces are concerned.

The Herald correspondent, from Key West, May 12, announced the capture of Tampa Bay, Florida, on the 6th. On entering the town our troops charged on the double-quick, surprising the inhabitants and found that the rebel forces had left the day before to reinforce Lee's army. Forty prisoners and a blockade runner were captured and the fortifications destroyed.

The Star says the reinforcements had been assigned to the various divisions, and all the troops seemed anxious for the coming struggle. Nothing was known of the reported junction of Breckenridge's forces with Lee, neither was the report believed.

The volunteer surgeons who were summoned to Fredericksburg to attend to our wounded are returning to that city, and report that the sick are all well cared for and rapidly recovering.

A Pitiable Lie.

The Democrat, of last week, in refering to our council says: "At a recent meeting, through the influence of a tricky lawyer, three or four bonds of a hundred dollars each were issued to men who had not a shadow of right to them." This is an ill-natured slur upon the honorable members of the city council, and is as false in statement as it is base in motive. The bonds referred to were issued to volunteers accredited to this town, in accordance with a resolution of the old council bearing date of Feb. 29th, 1864, and to which these men were justly entitled. The sheet aforesaid must be hard up for local items if it can not find more suitable matter wherewith to fill its columns.

Preserve this.

The following table, showing the value of paper in gold, with the latter at various points of premium, may be of interest to many.

Gold at	Treasury Notes worth.
10 per ct.	about 93 cts.
20 do	do 83 do
30 do	do 76 do
40 do	do 71 do
50 do	do 66 do
60 do	do 62 do
70 do	do 58 do
80 do	do 55 do
90 do	do 52 do
100 do	exactly 50 do

To find out the value of a dollar in paper money, divide it by the price of gold, and the quotient will be the price in gold of the dollar in paper money.

We understand from Mr. Carll that hereafter trains on the New York Central Railroad will run through to New York from Suspension Bridge, via Troy, without change of cars or baggage.

The St. Cloud Times appears in a new dress and enlarged to a seven-column sheet. It presents a favorable contrast to the old Union, both in manner and matter.

There is to be an election in the territory of Nebraska for delegates to a convention to form a state constitution, on the first Monday of June next.

1st Minnesota Infantry Battalion.

On the 17th inst. the 1st Minnesota Infantry Battalion passed this place on its way to Washington. From thence it is expected it will be forwarded at once to Grant, and again join the old Second Corps and "be in" at the execution of that grand coup de main which shall result in the destruction of the army of Northern Virginia and capture of Richmond!

Heretofore during this great movement our state has only been represented in that army by one company (2d) of sharp-shooters, under command of Capt. Black. This company was formerly known as company L of the 1st, but, on the regiments departure from the army it was detatched and is still held as provost guard of 2d Division 2d Corps,—Gen. John Gibsons' Division.

The strength of this battalion is about 195 men, an aggregate of about 200; eighty-five of whom are old veterans, the remainder new recruits.

This will give the state of Minnesota as aggregate strength of 140 men fighting men in the army of the Potomac, a force not equal to the accomplishment of decisive results in so vast a field of operation, but amply sufficient the establishment of an undying renown.

With such a proportion of veterans we may look forward to the records of its achievements with confidence, confident that troops coming in so great proportion from such a distinguished corps as the First Regiment cannot but possess that "esprit de corps," which is charcteristic of that gallant army it is to join, and which permeates the entire military establishment,—from the private to the general officer.

Democratic Doctrine.

The following extract from a democratic address to the people of Ohio, published in the papers of that state, seems so faithfully to reflect the real principles of that party that we give it a place. Read and ponder:

"That we regard the existing fratricidal war in the North and Northwest upon the South to be wholly unconstitutional, as well as faithless, wasteful, cruel, and ruinous to both sections of the United States. That the democracy of the state of Ohio have heard with dismay the doctrines of its advocates, and shrink with horror from the sanguinary scenes which deluged the land, by the hands of brethren, in brothers' blood. That many democrats were themselves surprised into its qualified support at the beginning; but that long since, seeing their constitutional mistake, realizing the utter hopeless of coercion, they have now concluded to make what amends they could, by organizing themselves into one compact, rugged, unflinching peace party, for stopping the war at any terms whatever, that would be fair between man and man. They are distinctly for peace and peaceable separation; and they will positively unanimously resist, by all suitable means, and further destruction of property and of life in such a case."

The Currency Movement.

A meeting of the bankers of Minnesota was held at the International Hotel, St. Paul, on Saturday, May 14th, in which most of the banks of the state were represented. Judge S G. Renick, of Hastings was elected chairman, and Thos E. Bennet, of Winona, secretary.

After a lengthy discussion of the currency question, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the banks of the state of Minnesota, represented in this convention, regarding it for the interest alike of the public and the banks, that all money in circulation shall be made equivalent in value with the lawful money of the United States, agree that on and after July 1, 1864, they will receive and pay out as bankable funds only treasury notes, national currency, and the issues of Minnesota banks which are redeemable in lawful money of the United States within the state.

This is a good move, and we are glad to see our banks taking the lead. We have been overrun by a superabundence of Eastern trash, composed of the fag ends of all creation, and this action will have a tendency to put a quietus upon the business. Give us a good currency, based upon government securities, and much loss and anxiety will be prevented. The people generally have to work hard enough for their money without having it spoil upon their hands.

Godey for June is received. It contains the usual complement of fashion plates, stories, household receipts, etc., and a fine engraving entitled A Helping Hand to the Aged. We commend the magazine to the attention of the ladies.

The Normal School Board.

At a meeting of the normal school board at the capital on Thursday last the following business was transacted: The treasurer's report was received with his resignation; the secretary was empowered to invest the available funds of the school in interest bearing securities; John G. McMynn, of Racine, Wis., was elected principal of the school at Winona, at a salary of $1.800 per annum, and requested to employ his time until the opening of the school in September in the awakening the attention of citizens of the state on the subject of popular education and to the reopening of the school at Winona.

Prudential Committee,—J. D. Ford, Wm. S. Dunn, E. S. Youmans.

Treasurer.—Matthew G. Norton.

Resolved by the board of normal directors. That the asserts of the normal school, amounting in the aggregate to $10,000, be and the same are hereby appropriated towards the building of a normal school at Winona, in accordance with the plans already adopted by the board; Provided, That the citizens of Winona will devote the sum of $5,000 in addition thereto, towards furthering the said object. Work to be commenced immediately upon the adoption of the proposition.

Resolved further, That in the event of the non-adoption of the above proposition, the board will immediately erect a building for the use of the normal school at a cost of $12,500; Provided, That the notes already given by citizens of Winona for the purpose of erecting a normal school, be paid and appropriated towards the object contemplated therein.

On motion of Mr. Frost,

Resolved, That the president and secretary of the board are hereby authorized to carry into effect the foregoing resolutions of the board of directors, and make the contracts therein contemplated.

An Important Invention.

The Prescott Journal, alluding to a recent invention of Mr. E. Phillips, of that city, says: "Since that time, we have seen the binder in operation, and it seems to us a perfect success. It is simple in operation, can be manufactured at limited cost, worked with a small amount of power, and we do not see how it can fail to do its work with unerring certainty. The bands are placed in position by a man—the binder does the rest. The model will be sent to Washington in a few days, and it is hoped the patent will be issued in season to get a large number of binders at work during the next harvest. If this invention is as successful as we confidently anticipate, its worth to the great grain producing West is estimable, as it will save the labor of five hands in every harvest field."

LOGS are coming into the St, Croix boom at a moderate rate, although the water is very low and falling. By great exertions, and a vast amount of dam[n]ing it is thought about ten million feet will be got into this boom. The water, however, is so low that the large logs get aground oven in the boom, and there is at present a large crew of men engaged assorting and brailing the logs for the various owners. —Stillwater Messenger.

A correspondent of the Emporis (Kansas) News says: "Lawrence is improving rapidly. A large number of substantial buildings will be put up this season. One hundred and fifty or one hundred and seventy-five have been built since the raid. The citizens here are certainly proof against discouragement.

A letter from North Carolina states that the enemy are sending all their available forces from that state to Virginia, and that rebel troops from the South are continually passing over the North Carolina railroads to the relief of Gen. Lee.

The Stillwater Messenger says that the election of mayor in that city was probably one of the most exciting on record. The total number of votes polled was twenty-three. Zenolon H. Foss, received nine, was declared duly elected.

A rebel dispatch, dated Dalton, May 10th, announces the capture of the Yankee Colonel, La Grange, (1st Wis. cav.) and 90 other prisoners, including ten commissioned officers.

The Pope has sent a check for $500 to the General Aid Society of Buffalo, to be applied to the comfort of our wounded soldiers. The check was sent through Bishop Timon, of that city.

At a special session of the probate court held at the probate office in the city of Hastings in and for said county of Dakota, this 16th day of May, 1864. Present Seagrave Smith, judge.

In the matter of the petition of William D. Van Duzee, as the guardian of William J., Arthur H., Eliza L., and Charles E. Van Duzee, minors, residing in said county, praying for reasons set forth in said petition for a license to sell the interest of said minors in and to the following described real estate lying and being situated in the city of Hastings, in the county of Dakota and state of Minnesota, to-wit: lot three (3) in block forty-four (44), according to the recorded plat of the town of Hastings as the same is recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for said county of Dakota.

On reading and filing said petition it is ordered that the next of kin to said wards and all persons interested in their said estate be and they are hereby directed to appear before this court at the probate office in the city of Hastings, in said county, on the 15th day of June, 1864, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, to chow cause, if any they have, why a license should not be granted to the said William D. Van Duze to sell the aforesaid described real estate of said wards.

It is further ordered that notice of the time and place of said hearing be given by publishing a copy of this order in the Hastings Conserver, a newspaper printed and published in the city of Hastings in said county, once in each week for three successive weeks immediately prior to said 15th day of June, 1864.

NOTICE.—We feel it our duty to return our sincere thanks to the people of Hastings for the assistance rendered us at the sinister event which happened us on the 11th inst.

REV. F. HEARTH.

KEEP COOL.—Buy one of PRATT'S incomparable summer suits; do not exert yourself immoderately; imbibe plenteously of hiberual beverages,—and you will come out of the hot weather like a cucumber of a summer's morning.

TO HORSEMEN.—We commend the attention of those interested in horseflesh to the beautiful stallion Rob Roy, at FOSTER'S stables, near Herndon House. This horse comes highly recomended from Wisconsin, and appears deserving of all that has been said of him. As a roadster he can not be excelled.

OFFICIAL PAPER.—The Democrat feels quite chagrined over our election as city printer. It says "The printing was let without taking bids, as usual." Of course it was. Just as last year, when it received a majority of the votes cast. It would have been re-elected this year [illegible]e had been any one to vote for it.

THE DRAFT.—The draft has been advertised to take place in St. Paul yesterday for the delinquent towns in this district. The following number of men are to be taken from this county:

Burnsville	11
Eagan	25
Eureka	15
Greenvale	12
Lebanon	18
Marshan	2
Ravenna	3
Rosemont	6
Vermillion	10
Waterford	1
West St. Paul	15

PERSONAL.—BENJ. F. DAY returned from California a few days since, fully convinced that there is no place like Minnesota.

O. BROWN, of the Central Republican, was in town last week looking after the interests of that paper.

H. G. O. MORRISON, assessor of this district, gave us a call on Saturday. Glad to see him.

Col. ADAMS has been quite ill for a week past from his old wounds, but, we are pleased to state, is improving.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.—Special meeting, May 16, 1864. Present Mayor THORNE. Alds. WHITE, SIMON, and LOVELL.

Streets and Sewers.—Alds. WHITE and SIMON.

On motion, the city marshal was instructed to notify P. Hartshorn, esq., justice, to report to this council at next meeting the amount of fines collected by him as police justice since he has held said office, stating the amount paid into city treasury and amount still unpaid.

On motion the mayor and clerk were ordered to issue $100 war bonds to each of the following volunteers. Isaac Colburn and James Hays, Company F, 2d Regiment, and Geo. W. Bradbury, Company H. 1st Regiment; in accordance with a resolution of the city council dated Feb. 29th, 1864.

Alds. Lovell and Simon were appointed a committee to settle with the late city marshal and report at next meeting.

Adjourned till Monday, May 23d, at 7½ P. M.

LOCAL NOTICES.

AT SKELTON'S may be found a new and complete assortment of boots and shoes, just received. Among them the well-known Oxford Tie. Call in.

Call at STANLEY'S for books, stationery, yankee notions, wall paper, etc., etc. He has the best assortment in town. At sign of the big book, Ramsey Street.

NOTICE.—Persons indebted to this office, whether for ten cents or ten dollars, are requested to call at their earliest convenience and settle the same.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS, From Here, There, and Elsewhere.

Woman as an Adviser.

Bulwer says, in his recent volume of essays:

"It is a wondrous advantage to a man, in every pursuit or vocation, to secure an adviser in a sensible woman. In woman there is at once a subtle delicacy of tact and a plain soundness of judgment which are rarely combined to an equal degree in man. A woman, if she be really your friend, will have a sensitive regard for your character, honor, repute. She will seldom counsel you to do a shabby thing, for a woman friend always desires to be proud of you. At the same time, her constitutional timidity makes her more cautions than yonr male friend. She therefore seldom counsels you to do an imprudent thing. By female friendships I mean pure friendships—those in which there is no admixture of the passion of love except in the married state. A man's best female friend is a wife of good sense and good heart, whom he loves, and who loves him. If he have that he need not seek elsewhere. But, supposing the man to be without such helpmeet, female friendships he must still have, or his intellect will be without a garden, and there will be many an unheeded gap even in its strongest fence. Better and safer, of course, such friendships where disparities of years or circumstances put the idea of love out of the question. Middle life has rarely this advantage; youth and old age have. We may have female friendships with those much older and those much younger than ourselves. Moliere's old housekeeper was a great help to his genius; and Montaigne's philosophy takes both a gentler and a loftier character of wisdom from the date in which he finds, in Marie de Gournay, an adopted daughter, 'certainly beloved by me,' says the Horace of essays, 'with more than paternal love, and involved in my solitude and retirement as one of the best parts of my being.' Female friendship, indeed, is to a man 'præsidium et dulce decus'—the bulwark and sweet ornament of his existence. To his mental culture it is invaluable; without it, all his knowledge of books will never give him knowledge of the world."

Careless Business Men.

We find the following pertinent remarks in an exchange, and commend them to the thoughtful attention of our readers:

"On another side of this subject it may be stated that it is not possible for a man to be careless in business affairs, or unmindful of his business obligations, without being weak or rotten in his personal character. Show me a man who never pays his notes when due, and who shuns the payment of his bills when it is possible, and does both these things as a habit, and I shall see a man whose moral character is, beyond all question, bad. We have had illustrious examples of this lack of business exactness. We have had great men who were in the habit of borrowing money without repaying it. We have had great men whose business habits were simply scandalous—who never paid a bill unless when urged and worried, and who expended for their personal gratification every cent of money they could lay their hands upon. These delinquencies have been apologized for as among the excentricities of genius, or as that unmindfulness of small affairs which naturally attends all greatness of intellect and intellectual effort; but the world has been too easy with them, altogether. I could name men—and the names of some of them arise before the readers of this letter—who were atrociously dishonest. I do not care how great these men were, I do not care how many amiable and admirable traits they possessed, they were dishonest and untrustworthy men in their business relations, and that simple fact condemns them. I am ready to believe anything bad of a man who habitually neglects to fulfil his business obligations. Such a man is certainly rotten at heart. He is not to be trusted with a public responsibility, a rum bottle, or a woman."

The New York Herald says that arrangements are being made in that city and in the West to reduce the price of paper. There is an abundance of rags in this country, much of which is stored away on speculation; but when paper begins to come in from Europe rags will fall, and the manufactured article go down to a reasonable price.

Every fact is impure, but every fact contains the juices of life. Every fact is a clod, from which may grow an amaranth or a palm.

My Wife and the Doctor's Wife.

The ringing of the door-bell has a pleasant sound for me, especially in my idle moods. Like an unopened letter, there is a mystery about it, and one waits with a pleasurable excitement to see who or what is coming.

Returning home one day, earlier than usual, I found my wife had gone out; and while lounging idly over the paper the bell rang. I waited expectant till Bridget appeared with a note, containing a request from my old friend, Dr. Stearns, to ride out to his residence in the country the next day. I was pleased; first, because I wanted the business completed; and, secondly, because I thought I needed a day's recreation.

But the next morning everything seemed to go wrong. Alice could not accompany me, and I could not get off as early as I wished; and, consequently, I was peevish and fretful; and Alice reflected my humor, I suppose—as it appeared to me she had never been so unamiable.

At length, however, I drove away, though not in a pleasant mood. It was a lovely October day; and, as I rode along noting the tints of the landscape, memory went back to the golden autumn when I wooed and won my bride.

How lovely Alice was then! I thought. And how happy we were! But that was long ago. Yet nature is the same, though we are changed. Let me see; we have been married three years; is it possible it is no longer?

And I felt a pang as I contrasted the past with the present, to think that we could settle down into the commonplace life we led.

We had no serious trouble; we did n't quarrel; though when I felt cross, or other things did n't go to suit me, I took no pains to conceal it, and often spoke harshly to Alice, who sometimes replied with tears. Yet we were generally good friends. But the charm, the tenderness of our early love, had imperceptibly vanished.

I had become careless about my appearance at home, and Alice was equally neglgent. Her beautiful brown hair, which she used to wear in the most becoming curls, was now usually brushed plainly behind her ears, unless she was going out or expected company. I dismissed the subject with a sigh, at the doctor's gate, with the reflection that it was the same with all married people—must be so, in fact—for how could romance and sentiment find place among so many prosy realities? I suppose we were as happy as anybody; and yet, it was not the kind of life I had looked forward to with so many bright anticipations.

The doctor came out and greeted me cordially. In the hall we met Mrs. Stearns, looking fresh and lovely in her pink muslin wrapper, with her jetty hair in tasteful braids. She scolded me playfully for not bringing my wife, chatted a few minutes, and then flitted his motto was business first and pleasure afterwards, led the way to the library. As we entered the room, I noticed a vase of bright autumn flowers on the talbe, imparting an air of cheerfulness to the apartment. I made some remarks about it, to which the doctor responded:

"Yes, I am very fond of flowers, and love to see them in the house; and, as I spend much time here, my wife always keeps a vase of them on the table as long as they last."

Our business was finished before dinner, and we walked out in the grounds, which are quite extensively and tastefully arranged. There was a variety of flowers in bloom, and I noticed that the doctor selected here and there the finest, until he had a handsome boquet.

When we reached the house, Mrs. Stearns was on the steps. The doctor, still continuing our conversation, gave her the flowers, with a slight bow and smile; and holding up a spray of crimson berries, which he had broken off, she bent her head while he fastened it among the dark braids of her hair.

It was a trifling incident, yet their manner arrested my attention. Had I been a stranger, I should have pronounced them lovers instead of sober married people. All through the day I noticed the same delicate attention and deference in their deportment to each other.

There was nothing of which the most fastidious guest could complain; yet, while showing me the most cordial attention, they did not seem to ignore each other's existence, as married people so often do.

I had never visited the doctor before, and was very much pleased with his tasteful home. I said so, after dinner, when we strolled out into the woods.

"Yes," he said, "I think it is pleasant," and he added, "I believe I am a contented man; so far as I am not disappointed in life."

"How long have you been married, doctor?" I asked.

"Ten years."

"Well," I pursued, "can you tell me whence the bright atmosphere that surrounds your home? Tell me how you and Mrs. Stearns manage to retain the depth and freshness of your early love, as you seem to do? I should think the wear and tear of life would dim it somewhat. I never saw a home where my ideal of domestic happiness was realized before. It is what I have dreamed of."

The doctor smiled, and, pointing to a thrifty grape climbing over a neat lattice, and loaded with purple fruit, he said:

"That vine needs careful attention, and if pruned and properly cared for it is what you see it; but if neglected, how soon would it become a worthless thing! So love which is to all, at some period, the most precious thing in life, and which needs so much care to keep it unimpaired, is generally neglected. Ah! my friend, it is little acts—trifles—that so often estrange loving hearts. I have always made it a point to treat my wife with the same courtesy that characterized my deportment in the days of courtship; and while I am careful not to offend her tastes and little prejudices, I am sure mine will be equally respected."

That night I rode homeward pondering the doctor's words, and reviewing the years of our married life. I was surprised at my own blindness, and determined to recall the early dream, if possible.

The next morning at breakfast I astonished Alice by a careful toilet, chatted over the dinner, and after tea, invited her to ride. When she came down in my favorite blue organdie, with her hair in shining curls, I thought she never looked lovelier.

I exerted myself as of old, to entertain her, and was surprised to find how quickly and pleasantly the evening passed.

I resolved to test the doctor's theory perfectly, and the result exceeded my most sanguine expectations.

For all the little nameless attentions so gratifying to a woman's heart, and so universally accorded by the lover and neglected by the husband, I find myself repaid a thousand fold; and I would advise all who are sighing over the non-fulfillment of early dreams, to go and do likewise, remembering that that which is worth winning is worth keeping.—Mother's Journal.

Correspondence.

Editor of School Friend:

I believe there is no subject among the many which the people have the privilege of deciding for themselves upon which there is such necessity of ample and well devised means of enlightenment as there is upon the subject of common schools. This is true because first, there are few if any subjects upon which the people naturally have so erroneous impressions, let three examples suffice for what is the every day experience of the progressive teacher, not only such but what manifests itself to be a widely prevalent sentiment. Mr. A grows impatient with the effeminate and fussy practice of classification, uniformity of books, elementary sounds, object lessons, ornamented school rooms etc., etc. It bears such a contrast to the matter of fact and less degenerate times of his own school days, when he could face about from the long desk pegged to the wall and stand before majister sitting by the central stove to read "all alone the whole lesson six times a day." With him eddication is reading, writing, and ciphering, and "reading, writing, and ciphering" is getting over the pages of the books. He bears with ill grace, too, the decision of custom which exacts of the teacher only six hours labor and of him ten. B's idea of the qualification of teachers is a representative one. "You see, Mr. M. this is our first school, our accomodations are very limited, and our treasury low. We could not expect one to come from town and put up with our conveniences for two dollars per week, which is all we can afford. Neighbor G's daughter is used to our kind of fare and will teach for that price." "What have been the advantages of Miss. G—has she ever taught?" "Oh! no, she is only fifteen years old, and never been to school much, but she is naturally smart and hearing her teach her little brother day satisfied me she understands herself. Our school is very backward, you know I hope you won't refuse her a certificate." The greater difficulties require the less skill according to Mr. B. It will be observed that these two gentle men place a great estimate upon the value of common schools irrespective of the means employed to insure their successful operation. Mr. C has been reared under different influences and has been accustomed to judge of their efficiency by application of severe tests, the result of which is, in point of moral education, they are a failure, and fall little short of it in intellectual education. This is not an exceptional case, he represents a class small numerically to be sure, but in point of character worthy of regard. Esteeming that kind of education which developes the whole being, the moral, intellectual, and physical, and looking at the short comings of the mixed schools in all these particulars, as they are now conducted, he has even come to entertain a doubt whether, in the present state of society, they can be so managed as to induce him to change them for his children for one in which their companions and teacher are selected. What are the means that must be used to diffuse a wide liberal and comprehensive conception of the wants, sphere, and feasibility of the common schools. Educated teachers? Undoubtedly this is a great means. I cannot express too emphatically my high estimation of professional skill in the delicate work of instruct- the young minds but I must be allowing to express with equal earnestness my entire conviction that such instrumentalities must be accompanied and rather preceded by those which will bring themselves to bear immediately upon the people. Experience has proved that no efforts can better succeed in accomplishing this great end than a well devised and ably conducted system of institutes. B. F. MILLER.

OUT DOOR ETIQUETTE.—A gentleman meeting a lady should always take the right of the walk.

A lady, as a general rule, should not take a gentleman's arm in the street in the day time.

However, it is not improper when the walk is thronged with passengers.

A gentleman should never fail to salute a lady of his acquaintance when within a proper distance; unless she wears a vail, in which case it would be highly uncivil to recognize her.

Influence of Food upon the Intellect.

Very few well informed persons dispute the fact that the nature of food taken by man has an influence upon his brain or mental powers. It is unquestionable that certain kinds of food are injurious to beasts, and produce or tend to induce disease; and this peculiarity has a proportionate evil effect on the animal part of man. Other matter taken into the system for refreshment or luxury, such as drinks or narcotics, has some influence upon the character of those who partake of it. National traits and characteristics are thus developed, and we see Germans and Hollanders, heavy, slow thinkers, solid rather than brilliant, and given to sluggishness rather than bodily activity. Can not the cause of this be found in the quantities of beer, tobacco, and highly seasoned cookery, which is consumed by the people; and may we not trace some of the prominent traits of the French character to the quality of the diet and drink they subsist on? Whatever conclusion we may arrive at (for the question is an open one and susceptible of much discussion), we may not venture to dispute the results of actual experiments on this subject, made by learned physicians; some accounts of their researches we append herewith:

In the excellent work of Prof. Meleschott, of Zurich, Lehre der Mahrungsmittel fur das Volk, the influence of diet upon the intellect is dwelt upon at great length. "It is a well known fact," says this philosopher, "that changes of food have transformed the wild cat into the domestic fireside companion; from a carniverous animal with short intestines he has gradually become accustomed to other food, become transformed into another being, enabled by a long intestinal canal to digest vegetable food, which in its natural state it never touches. Food, therefore, makes the most rapacious and perfidious animal in the world an inmate with man, agreeing with children, and rarely, except to a close observer, revealing its former guiltful character. Are we then to wonder that tribes of men become ardent, phlegmatic, strong or feeble, courageous or cowardly, thoughtful or unintelligent according to the different kinds of aliments they take? If food is transformed into blood, blood into nerve and muscle, bone and brain, must not the ardor of the heart, the strength of the muscles, the firmness of the brain, the activity of the brain, be dependent upon the constituents of food?" Again, in treating upon the diet of the artist and literary man, the author states that well baked bread and lean meat, combined with young vegetables, and such roots as are easy of digestion and contain a proper proportion of sugar, form a wholesome diet for poets and thinkers; a large quantity of leguminous seeds, heavy bread, rich gravy, and greasy meat, create those irritable, morose, and almost always slender statesmen, who have permitted gloomy thoughts and more gloomy imaginations to eclipse all happier views of life in them, or that they have come to consider rods and fetters as the most important promoters and protectors of civilization.—Scientific American.

The Good Neighbor.

She is one of your quiet women—not the restless be-crinolined butterfly that finds pleasure only in the glaring sunshine of excitement and revelry. A calm is about her, as soothing as the benedictions that falls from starry skies. Unobtrusive, unasking, yet with what profound trust the heart unfolds itself into her gentle hands. No "summer friends" circle around her. Her friends are perrennial. You will not hear her name passed from tongue to tongue in loud plaudits; neither will a breath of reproach arise to sully her pure life She may not come to you on your heart holidays, but when the shadow of sickness or sorrow falls upon you, she comes—a spirit of sympathy and consolation. It is not the happy lot of every one to be "near neighbors," to such a woman. Rarely, here and there, like pearls among pebbles, you find their lives shining forth. Your pathways chance to meet and then divide again; yet in your heart of hearts the memory of a cheerful, earnest, and faithful friend—a woman who was a christian and an angel without knowihg it. —Marie Mignonette.

Raspberry Culture.

Raspberries will grow on almost any good soil, but flourish best on a moist soil containing considerable vegetable mold. For garden culture, after spading in a good coat of manure and ashes, mark of your rows four feet apart, and if you have plenty of room, five is better, setting the plants two or three feet apart in the rows, in either case they will, if well mulched, which I consider indispensable, soon fill all the intermediate space. A plantation of raspberries will need but little care for five or six years, except thinning out so that the plants shall stand about a foot apart, tying up and heading in about one-third the length of the canes in the spring, lying down and covering the stocks in the fall with evergreens, leaves, or anything that will shield them from the effects of the sun, when they are not covered with snow. If kept well mulched they will produce much better fruit and require but little weeding, and that can and ought to be done with the hand, on account of the roots running near the surface of the ground.

Song.

When all the world is young, lad,
And all the trees are green;
And every goose a swan, lad,
And every lass a queen:
Then hey for boot and horse, lad,
And around the world away:
Young blood must have its course, lad,
And every dog his day.

And all the trees are brown;
And all the sport is stale, lad,
And all the wheels run down;
Creep home and take your place there,
The spent and maimed among:
God grant you find one face there
You loved when all was young.
—From Kingsley's "Water-babies."

A Losing Game.

Some years since, before the secession war, a Southern gentleman visited the North for the purpose of seeing the lion and fighting the tiger.

He tried the tiger, and didn't like it, and thought he'd take a shy at a game familiar to him by name only, called roulette. One turn of roulette, you know makes the whole world win! He started out in quest of the game, only knowing that roulette had something to do with roll, but entirely ignorant whether that roll was a French or a Dutch one. On the first corner he met a barrel-organ man grinding away for dear life.

He was turning as though he had only a few moments to turn in, and didn't want to die before his work was completed. The tune was "The Bold Privateer."

Our Georgian friend thought he'd found his game. Stepping briskly up he laid a dollar bill down on the box. The organ man's eyes opened—he bagged the bill, and ground away with renewed vigor. Our Georgian thought he had lost, and "doubled up," laying down a two dollar bill. That was bagged and the barrel of the organ went whirling around as though there were seven imps inside it.

To make a long story short, the thing went on, and the Georgian "doubled up"—the organ-grinder pocketing the money all the time—until he had "nary" another dollar left.

But he didn't complain. As he saw the last of his currency bagged by the delighted organ-grinder, he simply remarked:

"Well, of all the games I ever backed against, that is the dogdarnedest! I guess I'll jump it;" and he left.

A lady recently called upon a professional gentleman to have a corn removed from a toe. Being somewhat modest and refined, she had drawn a silk stocking over her foot to conceal it, having first cut a hole in the garment large enough for the protrusion of the offending excresence. The professor contemplated the delicate arrangement for a moment, and then deliberately drew from his pocket and put on his hands a pair of white kid gloves, before proceeding with his surgical labors!

A colored preacher within our lines recently felt constrained to preach against the extortions of the sutlers, from which his flock had suffered. After much deliberation he announced his text as follows:—"Now de serpent was more sutler dan any beast of the field which de lord God has made."

A witty gentleman, speaking of a friend who was prostrated by illness, remarked that he could hardly recover, since his constitution was all gone. "If his constitution is all gone," said a bystander, "I do not see how he lives at all." "Oh," responded the wag, "he lives on the by-laws."

"Faith Jamie! an' what have ye got your stockings on wrong side out for, ye spalpeen?" said one Irishman to another. "Och! be jabers, Pat, an' don't ye see it is to hide the holes in them," replied Jamie.

At a printer's festival the following setiment was offered:

A gentleman eating some mutton that was very tough, said it put him in mind of an old English poet. Being asked who it was, "Chau-cer," replied he.

IDAHO!

IDAHO!

D. D. Merrill, St. Paul, Minn

This work is invaluable to any one who has any intention of going to these mines, or any desire to see the various routes, and advantages of the

MINNESOTA ROUTE,

Over the "Great Salt Lake" ram's horn!

The map shows plainly the topography of the country from Lake Michigan to the Pacific Coast, compiled from the latest government surveys, and is correct in all distances, location, and elevation of the country upon the line of the various routes—is full of general information, and will sell largely in every community.

The fact that these are among the richest mines of the Rocky Mountains, and that they are the easiest of access, will induce many who are to seek their fortunes in the far west to find their way to these fields.

Many things conspire to make a very large demand for this Map and Guide Book. 52-tf

Annual Taxes for 1864.

The attention of tax-payers is hereby called to the provisions of the United States Excise Law relative to the assessment of annual taxes.

By the sixth section of the act of July 1, 1862, it is made the duty of all persons, partnerships, firms, associations, or corporations, made liable to any annual duty, license, or tax, on or before the 1st Monday of May in each year, to make a list or return to the assistant assessor of the district where so located of the amount of annual income, the articles or objects charged with a special tax, and the business or occupation liable to pay any license.

Every person who shall fail to make such return by the day specified will be liable to be assessed by the assessor according to the best information which he can obtain; and in such case the assessor is required to add fifty per centum to the amount of the items of said list.

Every person who shall deliver to an assessor any false or fraudulent list or statement, with intent to evade the valuation or enumeration required by law, is subject to a fine of five hundred dollars: and in such case the list will be made out by the assessor or assistant assessor, and from the valuation and enumeration so made there can be no appeal.

Payment of the annual taxes, except those for licenses, will not be demanded until the 30th day of June.

The appropriate blanks on which to make return and all necessary information will be furnished by ELI ROBINSON, assistant assessor for the 3d Division, to whom the returns should be delivered on or before the first Monday of May, at his office in Hastings.

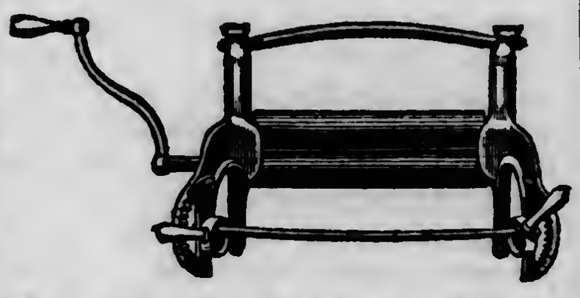
PUTNAM CLOTHES-WRINGER.



The Only Reliable Self-Adjusting Wringer.

The frame being of iron, thoroughl galvanized, all danger from rust is removed, and the liability to shrink, swell, split, etc., so unavoidable in wooden machines, is prevented. No thumbscrews or complicated fastenings to wear out or get out of repair; it can be fastened firmly to the tub in a single second. Warranted with or without cog wheels.

Instead of believing the statements of parties interested in the sale of other Wringers, try it and judge for yourself. Test it thoroughly with any and all others, and, if not entirely successful, return it. It will wring anything from a thread to a bed quilt without alteration.

Patented in the United States, England, Canada, and Australia. Agents wanted in every town Energetic men can make from $3 to $10 per day.

Putnam Manufacturing Co, Gentleman:

I know from practical experience that iron well galvanized with zinc will not oxidize or rust one particle. I can safely say, after three years' experience in the manufacture of chain for chain pumps and water drawers, in which I have tested the affinity of iron and zinc, that if the process be conducted properly it is a perfect weld of the two.

Nearly one year ago my family commenced using one of your wringers. It now performs all of its functions as well as it did the first time it was used, and has become an indispensable article with us. I have closely observed several other kinds of clothes-wringers, the modus operandi being different, trying to produce the same results as the Putnam Wringer, but in my judgment they have failed. The Putnam Wringer is as near perfect as possible, and I can cheerfully recommend it to be the best in use. Respectfully yours, JNO. W. WHEELER, Cleveland, O.

Many years' experience in the galvanizing business enable me to indorse the above statement in all particulars. JNO. C LEFFERTS, No. 100 Beekman Street.

New York, January, 1864.

No. 2, $5 50; No. 1, $6; No. A, $8. Manufactured and sold, wholesale and retail, by THE PUTNAM MAN. Co., No. 13 Platt Street, New York, and Cleveland, Ohio.

UNIVERSAL CLOTHES WRINGER,

"A child can readily wring out a tub full of clothes in a few minutes. It is in reality a clothes saver, a time saver, and a strength saver. The saving of garments alone will pay a large percentage on its cost. We think the machine much more than pays for itself every year in the saving of garments. There are several kinds nearly alike in general construction, but we consider it important that the Wringer be fitted with Cogs, otherwise a mass of garments may clog the rollers, and the rollers upon the crank shaft slip and tear the clothes, or the rubber break loose from the shaft. Our own is one of the first make, and it is as good as new after nearly four years' constant use."

Every Wringer with Cog Wheels is Warranted in Every Particular.

SEWING MACHINES.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINES.—Our Letter A Family Sewing Machine is fast gaining a world-wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the best and cheapest and most beautiful of all family sewing machines yet offered to the public. No other family sewing machine has so many useful appliances for hemming, binding, felling, tucking, gathering, guaging, braiding, embroidering, cording, etc. No other family sewing machine has so much capacity for so great a variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our family sewing machine most reliable and most durable and, most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see, at a glance, how to use the Letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our family sewing machines are finished in chaste and exquisite sty

The folding case of the family machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substanstial table to sustain the work. While some of the cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the more costly and superior manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the family machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty. It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The branch offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, etc., of the very best quality

Sewing Machines.

These Machines make the lock-stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread or loop-stitch machines do will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather, without changing the feed, needle, or tension, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood, and if any part is broken by accident it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

Please call and examine, or send for circular.

THE CONSERVER.

A Protest from our Representative.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
WASHINGTON, May 2, 1864.

Hon. Thaddeus Stephens, Chairman Committee of Ways and Means, H. R., Washington, D. C.:

SIR: On the 27th ult. there was referred to the committee of ways and means a letter from the secretary of the interior transmitting estimates of amounts required to carry out the stipulations of the Chippewa treaty of March, 1863.

Although the Indians referred to live altogether in the district which I have the honor to represent in the House, and although the appropriations asked for are very large, I have never been notified that such steps were being taken or such appropriations asked for, and it was only by accident that my attention was called to the same.

I feel that I would be false to the plainest dictates of duty, if I did not, regardless of the consequences to myself, interpose an earnest protest against the appropriations asked for. It is proposed, at this time, when the nation is struggling for its life, and when every dollar of needless expenditure should be carefully avoided, to pay $157,930 for what your committee have already estimated would be worth $7,000, being a difference of $150,330.

Some of these items are overcharges of the grossest kind. Take the first:

"For breaking and clearing and grubbing three hundred acres of land for Mississippi Indians, per fourth article treaty 1863, $50 per acre $15,000."

Why grubbing? Is it pretended that three hundred acres of prairie land cannot be found in that region but that land must be "cleared and grubbed?"

The price asked is $50 per acre for "breaking, clearing, and grubbing." In the most densley settled parts of Minnesota the most valuable farm land can be bought, broken, fenced, and with buildings on it for $25 per acre—one half what is here asked should be given for breaking, clearing, and grubbing alone.

There can be no difficulty in finding abundance of prairie land, and it can be "broken" for $3 per acre: making for the three hundred acres $900; a difference of $14,100.

The next item which I particularly notice is this:

I am at a loss to understand this, and suppose it to be a misprint. Surely the government is not about to build railroads for these Indians? If it means the construction of a wagon road the amount seems to me to be enormous, and I think it will be so considered by any frontier people.

"For removing agency to new location. $25,000."

What can this refer to? If it means the bodily removal of the buildings of the present agency to the new agency it is an unnecessary absurdity. If it means the removal of the agent and his family, books, chairs, and tables, it is a gross fraud. If it means the construction of new buildings at the new agency, it is an enormous overcharge. The sum of $25,000 would build a palace, rather than an agency.

"Transportation and subsistence to their new homes, 2,000 Indians at $10 per head. $20,000."

How do Indians travel? With their ponies carrying their tents and luggage, the women on foot carrying their infants on their backs, and the men and half-grown children on foot. In this way they will make journeys of hundreds of miles. The average distance which they are to be removed is, I am informed, but about one hundred and fifty miles. Is it proposed to furnish stages and ambulances for them? Certainly not. They will make the journey in the same manner in which they have traveled from time immemorial, and the United States, out of its depleted treasury, asked to pay $20,000 to the men who superintend this movement.

The next and last item is as follows:

"Subsistence for 2,000 Indians for six months at fifteen cents per head each day $54,000."

It is hard to analyze this item, as it is impossible to say what kind and amount of food will be furnished them, but the sum charged is very large, and I have no doubt the same number of Indians, part of them being children, could be supported for six months for one half that sum.

I would, therefore, ask that every item of this account should be closely scanned, and not one dollar appropriated that is not absolutely just and right. Such claims, while they take from the treasury that which is not due, benefit neither the state nor the Indians. I have the honor to be truly and respectfully yours,

IGNATUS DONNELLY

A PUZZLING QUESTION.—"You may go into an assembly," writes an author of Human Nature, "where there are two hundred women, one hundred and ninety-nine you pass with as much indifference as one hundred and ninety-nine pullets, but the two hundredth irresistably draws you to her. There are one hundred handsomer and ninety-nine cleverer ones present, but she alone has the magnet. Is it her manner that charms you? Is it her voice that strikes on one of those thousand and one chords of your nervous system and makes it vibrate as sound does glass? Or do her eyes affect you, so that you have no time to reflect and no opportunity for your head to digest the portion they have put in it? Or is it animal magnetism, or what the plague is it?"

School Hours.

They are now agitating in Philadelphia a change in the hours of the public schools, so as to conform them to that of many private schools—to wit, from 9 A. M., to 2 P. M., instead of from 9 to 12 and then from 1 to 4, or from 2 to 5, as at present. We have very little doubt that this change at no distant day will be made. Its introduction into private schools is only of late origin, yet nearly all of them have adopted it. It only reduces the time of actual confinement one hour, and then leaves the larger portion of the afternoon for recreation, exercise, or amusement. Under the old theory, which looked upon school teachers as mainly useful because they take charge of the scholars so many hours in the day, this would have little to recommend it. Those, however, who have endeavored to keep alive the attention of children, will undoubtedly agree that five hours are quite as much as can be usefully employed.

It is more important to us that our children live and thrive, and become lusty boys and girls, than that they should be indifferently educated. In the mere matter of education, more will be gained by allowing children plenty of time for observation and exercise. The boy should have time to play with his kite, to attend to cricket, to skate, to swim, and row. The girl should have hours when the doll could be dressed, and guests received, and playfellows entertained at little tea parties. Then the evening should be reserved for home intercourse, and domestic recreation. The lessons of school, however, in nearly all cases, interfere with such wishes. At nine o'clock they must be in school. From twelve to two is little enough time for dinner. At five o'clock it is almost dark, and from five to nine, or perhaps ten all the duties and amusements of the day must be attended to. No child can do this without violating the first precept of his existence. The reform purposed would obviate this. School might be dismissed at two, and the afternoon could be given to the duties and pleasures of the day. This would give five hours for study; and no human being, under the age of puberty, can give more without doing the mind and body an injustice.—Tyrone Herald.

Education in the South.

The state election ordered in Louisianaby Gen. Banks for Feb. 22d included a superintendent of public instruction.

Gen. Butler has established public schools in his department in Eastern Virginia, after the Massachusetts plan, and a daughter of John Brown is "teaching freedmen" at Fortress Monroe.

In Western Virginia a public school system has been provided for, and the appointment of a state geologist is urged.

The legislature of Kentucky are paying much attention to education,—which would seem to be needed from the following "notiss," posted at a school house near Frankfort: "No swearin, cussin, or running about luse, or hollerin in this scull."

In Washington, 3000 children are under public instruction, by 54 teachers, and an effort is on foot to provide instruction for some 6000 colored children.

In New Orleans the public schools are vastly improved, English alone is now taught, and the colored children are found to learn quite as fast as the white.

WEDDINGS.—Those interesting events are thus classified by a cotemporary:—

A "honey wedding" is when you start in wedded life. A "wooden wedding" comes on the tenth anniversary, when five little ones make everything look—to some folks. A "silver wedding" comes on the twenty-fifth anniversary, when the "old man's pile begins to swell, and his hair grows silvery." A "gold wedding" comes on the fiftieth anniversary of the match, when riches become solid gold, and the golden days of enjoyment are past. A "diamond wedding" must come on the seventy-fifth anniversary, for no one runs up the hundredth in this climate; then all is sparkling—in the future; and that is about the last of it on earth.

BABY.—A problem which is propounded by the world to be solved by time. Typographically speaking a short article, with a heading in small caps Graphically speaking, a morsel of humanity, which is generally the admiration of one sex and the aggravation of the other. Philosophically speaking moral lessons in long clothes, set before us to remind the greatest of what they have once been, and to worry the irritable old bachelor with what he has a great dislike to come.

It should go upon record that the objection in the House to the effort by Mr. Garfield, from the military committee, to enable the committee in the field to mete prompt punishment to the guerrillas who are murdering our wounded soldiers, came from Messrs. Ross, of Illinois, and F. Wood, of New York, on the Democratic side.

The range of employment for women is certainly increasing A barber down in Bangor employs women as assistants, and it is reported that they prove very dextrous and efficient. If the innovation should spread it will head off the beard movement.

A country editor received a remittance, with a request to send his paper as long as the money lasted. He indulged in a bit of a spree, got broke, and respectfully announced to his subscriber that according to his own terms, his subscription was out.

PUBLICATIONS.

1864. PROSPECTUS. 1864.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

A daily, tri-weekly, and weekly newspaper, devoted to News, Commerce, Politics, Agriculture, Science, and Literature. No Submission to Traitors. "The Union Must and Shall be Preserved."

This well known and popular journal is noted for avowing its sentiments with candor, fearlessness, and independence. It aims to be right rather than popular, and takes the responsibility of telling the truth regardless of the offense that may be given to prejudice and ignorance.

The principles and objects which the Chicago Tribune espouses are: The Cause of Freedom. Justice and Humanity. Perpetuity of the Union. Obedience to the Constitution and Supremacy of the Laws. A Denial of the Right o a Rebels to hold any Loyal Person in Slavery, and an Affirmance that Rebels have no Rights under the Constitution until they first obey it. And the prosecution of the war against treason until the authority of the government is established over the whole union. There must be no faltering—no steps backwards. Failure will now entail dishonor and misery, rendering life and property insecure, and leaving the country a prey to anarchy, rapine, and murder. Too much priceless blood and treasure have been sacrificed to stop now. The cheapest and straightest road to enduring peace is straight forward. If it cost our forefathers seven years of fearful struggle to found the republic, it is surely worth as great an effort on the part of this generation to preserve it.

We have no abiding faith that the ensuing year will witness the complete overthrow of the rebel confederacy. During the past year great victories have been won, and a territory larger than France or Germany has been wrested from the rebels and restored to the union. One more campaign by sea and land "will close forever the fountains of sedition and civil war"

A First Class Newspaper.

But the Chicago Tribune, while fearless in the expression of its opinions and patriotic in its endeavors, aims at being a first class newspaper. It brings the news to the people of the Northwest several days sooner than the papers of the seaboard.

The contents of the Weekly Tribune embrace:

1st.—A complete current history of the progress of the war, with the general news of the day.

2d.—Copious telegraphic dispatches and special correspondence, containing the latest news, from all parts, down to the hour of going to press.

3d.—Reports of meetings, wheer political, religious, agricultural, educational, or miscellaneous.

5th.—Market reports, embracing every article the farmer or dealer can expect to find quoted in a newspaper. The Tribune has achieved the highest reputation as a commercial paper.

6th.—Carefully prepared agricultural and horticultural articles by "Rural" and other able writers on the farm and garden.

TERMS—PAYABLE IN ADVANCE.

In consequence of the high price of white paper and the great increase of the wages of printers, and the enhanced cost of everything connected with printing, the following are the lowest terms at which the Tribune can be afforded. There will be no deviation from these rates:

Weekly, single subscribers,	$ 2 00
" to clubs of 4 copies,	7 00
" to clubs of 6 copies,	10 00
" to clubs of 12 copies,	18 00
" to clubs of 21 copies,	30 00
Tri-Weekly, single subscribers,	5 00
" six months,	3 00
" to clubs of 4 copies	18 00
" to clubs of 8 copies	34 00

Daily Tribune one year nine dollars
Daily Tribune six months five dollars.
Daily Tribune three months two dollars.

Remittances for clubs must be made at one time, but additions may be made at any time at club rates, after a club has been raised.

PREMIUMS FOR CLUBS.

For a club of 12 copies to one address, with $18, a free copy of the weekly.

For a club of 22 copies to one address, with $33, a free copy of tri-weekly for six months.

For a club of 40 copies to one address, with $80, a free copy of the tri-weekly one year or daily six months.

SEWING MACHINES.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINES.—Our Letter A Family Sewing Machine is fast gaining a world-wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the best and cheapest and most beautiful of all family sewing machines yet offered to the public. No other family sewing machine has so many useful appliances for hemming, binding, felling, tucking, gathering, guaging, braiding, embroidering, cording, etc. No other family sewing machine has so much capacity for so great a variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our family sewing machine most reliable and most durable and, most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see, at a glance, how to use the Letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our family sewing machines are finished in chaste and exquisite sty

The folding case of the family machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substanstial table to sustain the work. While ome of the cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the more costly and superior manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the family machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty. It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The branch offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, etc., of the very best quality

Sewing Machines.

These Machines make the lock-stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread or loop-stitch machines do will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, tc., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather, without changing the feed, needle, or tension, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood, and if any part is broken by accident it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

Please call and examine, or send for circular.

THE CONSERVER.

A Protest from our Representative.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
WASHINGTON, May 2, 1864.

Hon. Thaddeus Stephens, Chairman Committee of Ways and Means, H. R., Washington, D. C.:

SIR: On the 27th ult. there was referred to the committee of ways and means a letter from the secretary of the interior transmitting estimates of amounts required to carry out the stipulations of the Chippewa treaty of March, 1863.

Although the Indians referred to live altogether in the district which I have the honor to represent in the House, and although the appropriations asked for are very large, I have never been notified that such steps were being taken or such appropriations asked for, and it was only by accident that my attention was called to the same.

I feel that I would be false to the plainest dictates of duty, if I did not, regardless of the consequences to myself, interpose an earnest protest against the appropriations asked for. It is proposed, at this time, when the nation is struggling for its life, and when every dollar of needless expenditure should be carefully avoided, to pay $157,930 for what your committee have already estimated would be worth $7,600, being a difference of $150,330

Some of these items are overcharges of the grossest kind. Take the first:

"For breaking and clearing and grubbing three hundred acres of land for Mississippi Indians, per fourth article treaty 1863, $50 per acre $15,000."

Why grubbing? Is it pretended that three hundred acres of prairie land cannot be found in that region but that land must be "cleared and grubbed?"

The price asked is $50 per acre for "breaking, clearing, and grubbing." In the most densley settled parts of Minnesota the most valuable farm land can be bought, broken, fenced, and with buildings on it for $25 per acre—one half what is here asked should be given for breaking, clearing, and grubbing alone.

There can be no difficulty in finding abundance of prairie land, and it can be "broken" for $3 per acre; making for the three hundred acres $900; a difference of $14,100.

The next item which I particularly notice is this:

I am at a loss to understand this, and suppose it to be a misprint. Surely the government is not about to build railroads for these Indians? If it means the construction of a wagon road the amount seems to me to be enormous, and I think it will be so considered by any frontier people.

"For removing agency to new location. $25,000."

What can this refer to? If it means the bodily removal of the buildings of the present agency to the new agency it is an unnecessary absurdity. If it means the removal of the agent and his family, books, chairs, and tables, it is a gross fraud. If it means the construction of new buildings at the new agency, it is an enormous overcharge. The sum of $25,000 would build a palace, rather than an agency.

"Transportation and subsistence to their new homes, 2,000 Indians at $10 per head. $20,000."

How do Indians travel? With their ponies carrying their tents and luggage, the women on foot carrying their infants on their backs, and the men and half-grown children on foot. In this way they will make journeys of hundreds of miles. The average distance which they are to be removed is, I am informed, but about one hundred and fifty miles. Is it proposed to furnish stages and ambulances for them? Certainly not. They will make the journey in the same manner in which they have traveled from time immemorial, and the United States, out of its depleted treasury, asked to pay $20,000 to the men who superintend this movement.

The next and last item is as follows:

"Subsistence for 2,000 Indians for six months at fifteen cents per head each day $54,000."

It is hard to analyze this item, as it is impossible to say what kind and amount of food will be furnished them, but the sum charged is very large, and I have no doubt the same number of Indians, part of them being children, could be supported for six months for one half that sum.

I would, therefore, ask that every item of this account should be closely scanned, and not one dollar appropriated that is not absolutely just and right. Such claims, while they take from the treasury that which is not due, benefit neither the state nor the Indians. I have the honor to be truly and respectfully yours,

IGNATUS DONNELLY

A PUZZLING QUESTION.—"You may go into an assembly," writes an author of Human Nature, "where there are two hundred women, one hundred and ninety-nine you pass with as much indifference as one hundred and ninety-nine pullets, but the two hundredth irresistably draws you to her. There are one hundred handsomer and ninety-nine cleverer ones present, but she alone has the magnet. Is it her manner that charms you? Is it her voice that strikes on one of those thousand and one chords of your nature and makes it vibrate as sound does glass? Or do her eyes affect you, so that you fix your head to digest the portion they are looking at? Or is it animal magnetism, or what the plague is it?"

School Hours.

They are now agitating in Philadelphia a change in the hours of the public schools, so as to conform them to that of many private schools—to wit, from 9 A. M., to 2 P. M., instead of from 9 to 12 and then from 1 to 4, or from 2 to 5, as at present. We have very little doubt that this change at no distant day will be made. Its introduction into private schools is only of late origin, yet nearly all of them have adopted it. It only reduces the time of actual confinement one hour, and then leaves the larger portion of the afternoon for recreation, exercise, or amusement. Under the old theory, which looked upon school teachers as mainly useful because they take charge of the scholars so many hours in the day, this would have little to recommend it. Those, however, who have endeavored to keep alive the attention of children, will undoubtedly agree that five hours are quite as much as can be usefully employed.

It is more important to us that our children live and thrive, and become lusty boys and girls, than that they should be indifferently educated. In the mere matter of education, more will be gained by allowing children plenty of time for observation and exercise. The boy should have time to play with his kite, to attend to cricket, to skate, to swim, and row. The girl should have hours when the doll could be dressed, and guests received, and playfellows entertained at little tea parties. Then the evening should be reserved for home intercourse, and domestic recreation. The lessons of school, however, in nearly all cases, interfere with such wishes. At nine o'clock they must be in school. From twelve to two is little enough time for dinner. At five o'clock it is almost dark, and from five to nine, or perhaps ten all the duties and amusements of the day must be attended to. No child can do this without violating the first precept of his existence. The reform purposed would obviate this. School might be dismissed at two, and the afternoon could be given to the duties and pleasures of the day. This would give five hours for study; and no human being, under the age of puberty, can give more without doing the mind and body an injustice.—Tyrone Herald.

Education in the South.

The state election ordered in Louisiana by Gen. Banks for Feb. 22d included a superintendent of public instruction.

Gen. Butler has established public schools in his department in Eastern Virginia, after the Massachusetts plan, and a daughter of John Brown is "teaching freedmen" at Fortress Monroe.

In Western Virginia a public school system has been provided for, and the appointment of a state geologist is urged.

The legislature of Kentucky are paying much attention to education,—which would seem to be needed from the following "notiss," posted at a school house near Frankfort: "No swearin, cussin, or running about luse, or hollerin in this scull."

In Washington, 3000 children are under public instruction, by 54 teachers, and an effort is on foot to provide instruction for some 6000 colored children.

In New Orleans the public schools are vastly improved, English alone is now taught, and the colored children are found to learn quite as fast as the white.

WEDDINGS.—Those interesting events are thus classified by a cotemporary:—

A "honey wedding" is when you start in wedded life. A "wooden wedding" comes on the tenth anniversary, when five little ones make everything look—to some folks. A "silver wedding" comes on the twenty-fifth anniversary, when the "old man's pile begins to swell, and his hair grows silvery." A "gold wedding" comes on the fiftieth anniversary of the match, when riches become solid gold, and the golden days of enjoyment are past. A "diamond wedding" must come on the seventy-fifth anniversary, for no one runs up the hundredth in this climate; then all is sparkling—in the future; and that is about the last of it on earth.

BABY.—A problem which is propounded by the world to be solved by time. Typographically speaking a short article, with a heading in small caps Graphically speaking, a morsel of humanity, which is generally the admiration of one sex and the aggravation of the other. Philosophically speaking moral lessons in long clothes, set before us to remind the greatest of what they have one been, and to worry the irritable old bachelor with what he has a great dislike to come.

It should go upon record that the objection in the House to the effort by Mr. Garfield, from the military committee, to enable the committee in the field to mete prompt punishment to the guerrillas who are murdering our wounded soldiers, came from Messrs. Ross, of Illinois, and F. Wood, of New York, on the Democratic side.

The range of employment for women is certainly increasing A barber down in Bangor employs women as assistants, and it is reported that they prove very dextrous and efficient. If the innovation should spread it will head off the beard movement.

A country editor received a remittance, with a request to send his paper as long as the money lasted. He indulged in a bit of a spree, got broke, and respectfully announced to his subscriber that according to his own figures, his subscription was out.

PATENT MEDICINES

DR. SWAIN'S
Bourbon Bitters,

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant, and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon Free from grain oil, with flowers, buds, and barks of the highest medical virtue. Has received the endorsement of more than two hundred eminent physicians, who have recommended its use by weak and delicate females, aged persons, and young children, in all cases of dispepsia, loss of appetite, jaundice, diarrhea, sour stomach, fetid breath, fever and ague, weak lungs, debility from whatever cause and in all those cases which in their incipient stages require only a generous diet, and an invigorating stimulant.

Being now used to the exclusion of all other bitters in more than fifty and millions of private families; and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stamp tax by the United States government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

Army Hospitals,

These bitters are alike delicious to the sense of smell and taste, ministering to health through the medium of a well pleased palate; giving bloom to the cheek of the invalid and restoring broken health and declining years to the vigor and elasticity of youth.

PUBLICATIONS.

1864. PROSPECTUS. 1864.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

No Submission to Traitors. "The Union Must and Shall be Preserved."

This well known and popular journal is noted for avowing its sentiments with candor, fearlessness, and independence. It aims to be right rather than popular, and takes the responsibility of telling the truth regardless of the offense that may be given to prejudice and ignorance.

The principles and objects which the Chicago Tribune espouses are: The Cause of Freedom. Justice and Humanity. Perpetuity of the Union. Obedience to the Constitution and Supremacy of the Laws. A Denial of the Right to a Rebels to hold any Loyal Person in Slavery, and an Affirmance that Rebels have no Rights under the Constitution until they first obey it. And the prosecution of the war against treason until the authority of the government is established over the whole union. There must be no faltering—no steps backwards. Failure will now entail dishonor and misery, rendering life and property insecure, and leaving the country a prey to anarchy, rapine, and murder. Too much priceless blood and treasure have been sacrificed to stop now. The cheapest and straightest road to enduring peace is straight forward. If it cost our forefathers seven years of fearful struggle to found the republic, it is surely worth as great an effort on the part of this generation to preserve it.

We have no abiding faith that the ensuing year will witness the complete overthrow of the rebel confederacy. During the past year great victories have been won, and a territory larger than France or Germany has been wrested from the rebels and restored to the union. One more campaign by sea and land "will close forever the fountains of sedition and civil war"

A First Class Newspaper.

But the Chicago Tribune, while fearless in the expression of its opinions and patriotic in its endeavors, aims at being a first class newspaper. It brings the news to the people of the Northwest several days sooner than the papers of the seaboard.

The contents of the Weekly Tribune embrace:

1st.—A complete current history of the progress of the war, with the general news of the day.
2d.—Copious telegraphic dispatches and special correspondence, containing the latest news, from all parts, down to the hour of going to press.
3d.—Reports of meetings, wheer political, religious, agricultural, educational, or miscellaneous.
4th.—Proceedings of congress and state legislatures, important speeches and documents.
5th.—Market reports, embracing every article the farmer or dealer can expect to find quoted in a newspaper. The Tribune has achieved the highest reputation as a commercial paper.
6th.—Carefully prepared agricultural and horticultural articles by "Rural" and other able writers on the farm and garden.
7th.—Poetry, tales, anecdotes and gossip, reviews and pleasant miscellany.

TERMS—PAYABLE IN ADVANCE.

In consequence of the high price of white paper and the great increase of the wages of printers, and the enhanced cost of everything connected with printing, the following are the lowest terms at which the Tribune can be afforded. There will be no deviation from these rates:

Weekly, single subscribers,	$ 2 00
" to clubs of 4 copies,	7 00
" to clubs of 6 copies,	10 00
" to clubs of 12 copies,	18 00
" to clubs of 21 copies,	30 00
Tri-Weekly, single subscribers,	5 00
" six months,	3 00
" to clubs of 4 copies	18 00
" to clubs of 8 copies	34 00

Daily Tribune one year nine dollars.
Daily Tribune six months five dollars.
Daily Tribune three months two dollars.

Remittances for clubs must be made at one time, but additions may be made at any time at club rates, after a club has been raised.

PREMIUMS FOR CLUBS.

For a club of 12 copies to one address, with $18, a free copy of the weekly.

For a club of 22 copies to one address, with $33, a free copy of tri-weekly for six months.

For a club of 40 copies to one address, with $80, a free copy of the tri-weekly one year or daily six months.

Money by draft, express, or in registered letters may be sent at our risk.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINES. Our Letter A Family Sewing Machine is fast gaining a world-wide reputation. It is beyond doubt the best and cheapest and most beautiful of all family sewing machines yet offered to the public. No other family sewing machine has so many useful appliances for hemming, binding, felling, tucking, gathering, guaging, braiding, embroidering, cording, etc. No other family sewing machine has so much capacity for so great a variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our family sewing machine most reliable and most durable and, most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see, at a glance, how to use the Letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our family sewing machines are finished in chaste and exquisite sty

The folding case of the family machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substanstial table to sustain the work. While ome of the cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the more costly and superior manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the family machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty. It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The branch offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, etc., of the very best quality

Sewing Machines.

These Machines make the lock-stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread or loop-stitch machines do will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, tc., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather, without changing the feed, needle, or tension, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood, and if any part is broken by accident it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

A Pitiable Lie.

The last North-Western Democrat persists in saying that the city council has issued bonds to soldiers, who were not entitled to them, notwithstanding we last week charged him with misstating facts, and we now submit a plain statement showing clearly that the council acted in accordance with a previous resolution of the board, and are fully justifiable in issuing the bonds in question.

The bonds issued which has awakened the keen sensibilities of the editor of the Democrat, were three in number and issued to Isaac Colburn, James Hayes, and George W. Bradbury.

Isaac Colburn enlisted with Capt. T. M. Smith, in Company F 2d Minn. Cavalry, on 20th day of December, 1863. James Hayes enlisted in the same company, on the 10th day of November 1863.

The following is the resolution of the city council passed on the 29th day of Februabry last, and by virtue of which they were both entitled to the bounty therein granted;

Resolved, That we hereby instruct the mayor to issue the bonds of the city of Hastings to the amount of $100 to each volunteer including veterans who are credited to the city of Hastings, and who have enlisted since the 25th day of December, 1863, and who may enlist to make a sufficient number to fill the quota of the city of Hastings, under the last call, and that all bonds issued over the amount of $5.000 be made payable one half in eighteen months from date, and one half in two years, and bearing interest at ten per cent per annum, said bonds to be issued only to volunteers who have not previously received bounties from the city of Hastings.

George W. Bradbury was a private in Company H First Minn. Volunteers. Previous to enlistment he had made it his home with Mr. Oliver his brother-in-law, who resides at Nininger. A few days previous to entering the service he had worked for Messrs. North & Carll of this city, at the same time making his home in Nininger, and while in the service sent his vote there regarding that as the place of his residence. He was not claimed by either Hastings or Nininger, and his name appeared on the list of unclaimed volunteers which was published by the Adjutant General of the state. At the time the list was published, the Minnesota First was in this state on a furlough, and the city of Hastings was paying bounties to volunteers.

Mr. Bradbury says he was informed by citizens of Hastings, that inasmuch as he was not claimed by any other town, he could elect to what place he would be credited and that if he would choose to be credited to Hastings he would be entitled to a bounty, with this assurance he elected to be so credited, and Hastings received credit for his enlistment by virtue of that election when in fact he was a resident of Nininger at the time of his enlistment.

At the time the council ordered the bonds, in question issued, they had before them the certificate of the Adjutant General that Colburn, Hays, and Bradbury, were credited to Hastings, and letters from Capt. Smith stating the time that Hayes and Colburn enlisted, and Mr. Bradbury was before the council in person.

It will be seen that Hastings was paying a bounty at the time of Bradbury's election to be credited to this city, and that we received credit for one more volunteer in consequence of such election, and the council believing his claim to be just and right, and that he was as much entitled to the bounty offered as any others, unhesitatingly issued the bond to him.

Now under this state of facts will any one deny the right of these three men to the bounty offered by the city council in accordance with the resolution above stated?

Will the editor of the Democrat have the manhood to retract his unjust insinuations against the members of the city council, or will he prefer to stand before this community convicted of wilful misrepresentation? We shall see.

The city council needs no defence from us. It is composed of honorable high minded and intelligent gentleman, who stand high in public estimation, and deservedly so and whose watchful care of the interests of this city should entitle them to the gratitude of its citizens, and the low malignant insinuations of the Democrat fall harmless and unnoticed at their feet.

Milwaukee, May 25, 1864.

The transition from river to rail, never very agreeable, was not heightened by the exchange of the Northern Belle, Capt. Jno. Cochrane, and the gentlemanly clerks Barron and Watson, for a lumbering mail train on the La Crosse Railroad. Low water had produced its natural effect, and eight hours on Kaposia Bar did not tend to improve close connections. Consequently, instead of taking the morning express for Milwaukee, we found ourselves between Prescott and Red Wing, arriving here at 10 A. M. to-day. We can safely state, from experience, that freight trains off the track will delay one from one to three hours.

Passengers on the river will discover, among other improvements, the abolishment of the old porterage system, and are no longer insulted by duns for the inevitable quarter. Why this change was not effected long ago we have no means of ascertaining. Probably more annoyance has been produced from this source alone than from any other to which travelers are subject.

We do not regret our missing the morning train, for it gave us an opportunity, long desired, of looking in upon things about town. Of course we called at the Sentinel office. Found them in a splendid new built block, built expressly for their use, and everything in good style. They are now working four editions daily, and are constantly full of job work. We were politely shown about the premises, including the composing room occupied by the girls, some nine in number, under charge of a very ladylike foreman, and had a chat with the editors. Sorry we had not time to call upon the other offices.

Lieut. Gov. Sherwood and C. W. Thompson, esq., of St. Paul, were on the train, en route for Washington.

The Copperhead Snag in Missouri.

The Copperheads of Missouri have run against the inevitable rock which a party must strike which undertake to steer on both sides of a great principle. It is comparatively easy to avoid treacherous Sylla and stormy Charybdis by sailing between the two. But to sail on both sides of either, is a task which only the democracy of modern times have attempted. The question before the country is war or peace. There is no intermediate course—no warlike peace, or peaceful war, at all events not in any sufficiently tangible shape for a platform. Many of the copperheads want to run a war and peace ticket that shall mean both, either or neither—an exhibition as accommodating as that of Daniel in the lion's den, in which you may consider Daniel to be the lions or the lions as Daniel, whichever you choose —you pay your money and you takes your choice. The party tried to start the McClellan peace ticket in Missouri but unlike McClellan himself it would not run.

The copperheads of Missouri argued the case in this way. If McClellan has been a good general, why put him on a peace ticket. He ought to have been a war man, for the man who will fight in a war which he does not believe in is false to his own convictions. On the other hand, if he be not a good general, he is nothing, and why encumber our ticket with him? We are for peace, and we want a candidate who means peace. A military man on a peace ticket, like a Quaker on a war ticket, would be too much for our faculties. We can't comprehend it. Sensible copperheads, those.

The 6th Annual Editorial Convention of the State of Wisconsin, meets at Madison on Wednesday, the 15th day of June, 1864. Hon. C. Webb will deliver the annual address, and Marie Mignonette, of LaCrosse will furnish the poem.

The June number of the Atlantic Monthly is once more on our table it is full—as usual—of well written articles, from the well known authors. We commend it to the people in general.

Rain and Terrific Wind Storm.

"About 8 o'clock on Sunday morning a light shower, not enough to lay the dust, but accompanied by a few peals of thunder, passed over our city. During the day the clouds gathered again in the south-south west and, at about 5 o'clock in the evening preceded by a few moments of the pattering of big rain drops, a tornado swept down the river valley and over the city, carrying with it dense clouds of dust. In a few moments the fury of the storm had gone by, and a steady rain lasting an hour or more followed. The tornado seems to have bounded through the city, striking in full force at not more than one or two points in its course. Its force at these points was so great as to twist and break stout oak trees, and to pick up and carry long distances all loose articles on the ground. Fortunately, it did not, in its full force, strike any buildings, though several suffered damage from it.

A frame building on Third Street, next to Martin's picture gallery, occupied by a negro family, none of whom fortunately, were at home was thrown by the storm. The roof, covered with tin, when the wind first struck the building, was lifted up several feet and then slowly settled down upon the flattened ruins. A family residing in an adjoining tenement suddenly found themselves next to out doors by the wind's taking out completely one side of their building.

The sidewalk above and in front of the old curiosity shop, opposite Putnam's grocery on Third Street, was completely torn up by the wind. The sidewalk on Third Street just above the bridge square, was also turned over and broken.

Several fine native oaks beyond Trout Brook, where the full force of the storm seems to have struck the earth, one nearly eighteen inches through was twisted and broken down by the whirlwind.

A little boy on lower Seventh street was blown across the street and against a fence but not badly bruised.

A number of chimneys and fences in different parts of the city were blown down. In one instance, on Third Street, two capstones of a wall, each weighing over four hundred pounds, were blown over on to the roof, a foot and a half fall, without breaking through.

On the White Bear road a buggy containing two men was turned upside down by the storm. At the lake a number of the largest forest trees were blown down."

The Bogus Proclamation.

New York, May 24.—Gov. Seymour's letter to District Attorney Hall, in relation to the seizure of the World and Journal of Commerce, says:

"It is charged that these acts of violence were done without due legal process, and without due sanction of state or national law. If this be true, the offenders must be punished. If the owners of the above named journals have violated state or national laws, they must be proceeded against and punished by those laws. Any action against them outside of legal proceedings is criminal.

"In making your inquiries, and in prosecuting the parties implicated you will call upon the Sheriff of the county and heads of the police department for any needed force and assistance. The failure to give this by any official under my control will be deemed sufficient cause for his removal."

Condition of our Wounded.

Secretary Stanton, in a dispatch to Gen. Dix, dated Washington, May 13, gives the following gratifying assurance with regard to the condition of our soldiers wounded in the recent battles: The Acting Surgeon General reports that of fiue hundred patients from the recent battle-field, admitted in the hospitals not one of them will require any surgical operations, and that in his opinion, two-thirds of the whole number wounded will be fit for service in thirty days.

PENMANSHIP.—We notice that Prof. A. J. Shaw is teaching penmanship in Hastings, and is meeting with good success. That's just what he deserves; but keep your left eye on him, Todd, or he'll carry off some one of your Hastings' belles.—Mankato Union

We have just received a new visitor to our sanctum—the first number of the American Artisan, a weekly journal published at No. 212 Broadway, New York by Brown, Coombs & Co., and devoted to the interests of artisans, manufacturers, inventors, patentees, et id genus omne. It is quite a handsome looking sheet of eight pages, excellent in its typography, and artistically illustrated with original engravings and descriptions of new machinery, etc., both American and foreign. If the publishers fulfill all the promises set forth in their prospectus the subscribers of the American Artisan will find at the end of the year that the small investment of $2 has yielded them a prodigiously profitable return in the shape of a volume of 416 pages, containing an immense quantity of facts and figures relating to an almost endless variety of subjects connected with the arts and sciences; among these we may mention Histories of famous inventions and discoveries, essays on scientific subjects, interesting letters from working men in all parts of the world, instructions in various arts and trade, reliable receipts for use in the field, the workshop and the household, wonderful experiments in chemistry, hints to millers and millwrights, news items for manufacturers practical rules for mechanics and advice to farmers, illustrated details of curious and ingenious mechanical movements and other useful lessons for young artisans, the official list of claims of all patents issued weekly from the United States Patent Office, reports of law cases relating to patents, the whole forming an encyclopedia of general information on a variety of topics connected with the industrial arts, the progress of invention, etc.

The first number of the American Artisan is dated May 11, 1864, and we hope a large majority of our townsmen—especially the mechanics and farmers—will early embrace the present opportunity of becoming subscribers from the above date.

The Illustrated News is a beautiful pictorial, it is composed of songs, literature, and portraits of different men and places, it is also interesting to the ladies', as it has the latest fashions, and patterns for the same. Terms $4 per year. Address Wm. Jennings Demorest. No 39 Beekman Street, N. Y.

QUERY.—Should custard pie, as a desert, be considered suitable for the "upper crust?"

State News.

The people of Winona, have decided that on and after the day of 1st June next they will receive Greenbacks only, as currency.—Wabashaw Herald.

A LARGE WOLF.—Mr. Philip Hodap killed recently in the timber about a mile north-east of town, a timber wolf, which measured four feet in length, and two feet eight inches high.—Mankato Record.

IDAHO.—Several teams have passed through town this week, bound for Idaho. There appears to be quite a large emigration to that country this spring, notwithstanding the dangers of being massacred by the Indians.—Ib.

FISH.—Are still abundant as ever.—Several fishing parties have taken away large quantities during the past week, many of them a full wagon load, all this without any apparent diminuation in supply.—Albert Lea Standard.

Still they come. There has been a continual stream of emigrant teams passing through our town for the past three weeks. As many as eight and ten a day have passed through with the intention of locating in this section of the state.—Free Homestead.

The rapid settlement of this county is indicated by the fact that on the road from this place to Freeborn, on which three years ago there was hardly a settler, now the claims are mostly taken. Houses are in sight of the traveler the entire distance.—Ib.

There have been two deaths from Small Pox in the Hospital at this place since our last issue. One death occurred on Saturday morning, and the other Monday evening. Both men belonged to Co. H. 2d Cavalry. A pest-house has been established in the outskirts of Kasota, where all the recent cases of Small Pox and Verioloid have been removed.—St. Peter Statesman.

EMIGRANTS FROM KENTUCKEY.—Eighty emigrants from Pike County the extreme eastern county of Kentuckey, came up on the Muscatine yesterday, from St. Louis, and went up the Minnesota on the Ariel, bound for Mankato. A large proportion of the party were children, there being but two or three young men among them. They have all experienced the hardships and cruelties of civil war, of which we up here have read and heard, but hope never to understand as these poor people now do. We hope they will succeed in establishing pleasant homes in our state, recovering from their losses and sufferings by war.—Pioneer

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Baptist Sociable will meet this week, on Friday evening, at the house of Mrs. J. B. Tozer.

NOTICE.—The fourth anniversary of the St. Croix Valley Baptist Association will be held in the Baptist church in Hudson Wis, on Wednesday and Thursday the 8th and 9th days of June 1864. Commencing on Wednesday at 10½ o'clock A. M.

GOOD PROSPECTS.—Unless appearances are very deceiving, the business of our merchants must be thriving, as we daily see large numbers of persons from the country in the city making purchases.

IMPROVEMENT.—A good substantial awning has recently been put up in front of Exchange Block which will add much to the comfort and convenience of those who occupy the stores as well as their customers.

LOGS.—We are glad to learn that a recent rise of water in the Saint Croix River is bringing down a large quantity of pine saw logs which will find their way to this place to be manufactured into boards.

Mr. COWLES hopes to be able to start his saw mill this week, and to furnish all kinds of lumber for building purposes at once.

TO PATRONS.—During the absence of the editor, who will be gone for some weeks, we hope the patrons of the CONSERVER will observe the great improvements which will be made in the reading matter of the paper, and will also make all due allowance for short comings.

Now is the time to subscribe!

RIVER MATTERS.—The large boats are once more arriving at our levee, on account of low water they have stopped at Prescott, for a few days past there connecting with smaller boats to St. Paul. We apprehend there will be no trouble in a few weeks, as the river is rising at the rate of about 1½ inches per day.

WHEAT.—Large quantities of wheat have been delivered in this city within the past week, and Hastings has presented a lively appearance.

Scores of teams are daily to be seen on our streets, and the merchants, mechanics and all who have commodities to dispose of have no difficulty in finding purchasers

A CARD.—The undersigned hereby acknowledges the receipt from the ÆTNA INSURANCE COMPANY, through ELI ROBINSON, Agt., of $3,890, being his entire loss on Wheat sunk in the barge Fort Snelling. He desires further to render his testimony to the honorable manner in which the loss was adjusted, as until after the loss he had no evidence of insurance except the word of the agent—to whom he recommends those deisring reliable insurance.

SAMUEL ROGERS.

MYSTERIOUS.—A few days since a young man of rather prepossessing appearance, disappeared from this city under circumstances well calculated to alarm his friends, and as nothing has been heard from him since his departure, it is a source of much anxiety to his relatives as to his present whereabouts. He appeared for some time before he left to be laboring under a degree of mental aberation, and was heard to say in disconnected sentences "glorious old Mississippi, La Crosse, Chicago queen of the West, Northern Indiana, Lake Shore, New York, etc."

Some think from certain mysterious "passes" which he was understood to possess, that he may have wandered off to the city of New York, and other eastern places. If such should be the case, it is to be hoped that he may accidently find his way to "Minnesota Head Quarters," on Broadway, and that Mr. Worstell or Mr Prince may take care of the young man until his friends can hear from him.

The young man alluded to is the editor of the CONSERVER. Any information concerning him may be addressed to this office.

A Pitiable Lie.

The last North-Western Democrat persists in saying that the city council has issued bonds to soldiers, who were not entitled to them, notwithstanding we last week charged him with misstating facts, and we now submit a plain statement showing clearly that the council acted in accordance with a previous resolution of the board, and are fully justifiable in issuing the bonds in question.

The bonds issued which has awakened the keen sensibilities of the editor of the Democrat, were three in number and issued to Isaac Colburn, James Hayes, and George W. Bradbury.

Isaac Colburn enlisted with Capt. T. M. Smith, in Company F 2d Minn. Cavalry, on 20th day of December, 1863. James Hayes enlisted in the same company, on the 10th day of November 1863.

The following is the resolution of the city council passed on the 29th day of Februabry last, and by virtue of which they were both entitled to the bounty therein granted;

Resolved, That we hereby instruct the mayor to issue the bonds of the city of Hastings to the amount of $100 to each volunteer including veterans who are credited to the city of Hastings, and who have enlisted since the 25th day of December, 1863, and who may enlist to make a sufficient number to fill the quota of the city of Hastings, under the last call, and that all bonds issued over the amount of $5.000 be made payable one half in eighteen months from date, and one half in two years, and bearing interest at ten per cent per annum, said bonds to be issued only to volunteers who have not previously received bounties from the city of Hastings.

George W. Bradbury was a private in Company H First Minn. Volunteers. Previous to enlistment he had made it his home with Mr. Oliver his brother-in-law, who resides at Nininger. A few days previous to entering the service he had worked for Messrs. North & Carll of this city, at the same time making his home in Nininger, and while in the service sent his vote there regarding that as the place of his residence. He was not claimed by either Hastings or Nininger, and his name appeared on the list of unclaimed volunteers which was published by the Adjutant General of the state. At the time the list was published, the Minnesota First was in this state on a furlough, and the city of Hastings was paying bounties to volunteers.

Mr. Bradbury says he was informed by citizens of Hastings, that inasmuch as he was not claimed by any other town, he could elect to what place he would be credited and that if he would choose to be credited to Hastings he would be entitled to a bounty, with this assurance he elected to be so credited, and Hastings received credit for his enlistment by virtue of that election when in fact he was a resident of Nininger at the time of his enlistment.

At the time the council ordered the bonds, in question issued, they had before them the certificate of the Adjutant General that Colburn, Hays, and Bradbury, were credited to Hastings, and letters from Capt. Smith stating that Hayes and Colburn enlisted, and Mr. Bradbury was before the council in person.

It will be seen that Hastings was paying a bounty at the time of Bradbury's election to be credited to this city, and that we received credit for one more volunteer in consequence of such election, and the council believing his claim to be just and right, and that he was as much entitled to the bounty offered as any others, unhesitatingly issued the bond to him.

Now under this state of facts will any one deny the right of these three men to the bounty offered by the city council in accordance with the resolution above stated?

Will the editor of the Democrat have the manhood to retract his unjust insinuations against the members of the city council, or will he prefer to stand before this community convicted of wilful misrepresentation? We shall see.

The city council needs no defence from us. It is composed of honorable high minded and intelligent gentleman, who stand high in public estimation, and deservedly so and whose watchful care of the interests of this city should entitle them to the gratitude of its citizens, and the low malignant insinuations of the Democrat fall harmless and unoticed at their feet.

Milwaukee, May 25, 1864.

The transition from river to rail, never very agreeable, was not heightened by the exchange of the Northern Belle, Capt. Jno. Cochrane, and the gentlemanly clerks Barron and Watson, for a lumbering mail train on the La Crosse Railroad. Low water had produced its natural effect, and eight hours on Kaposia Bar did not tend to improve close connections. Consequently, instead of taking the morning ezpress for Milwaukee, we found ourselves between Prescott and Red Wing, arriving here at 10 A. M. to-day. We can safely state, from experience, that freight trains off the track will delay one from one to three hours.

Passengers on the river will discover, among other improvements, the abolishment of the old porterage system, and are no longer insulted by duns for the inevitable quarter. Why this change was not effected long ago we have no means of ascertaining. Probably more annoyance has been produced from this source alone than from any other to which travelers are subject.

We do not regret our missing the morning train, for it gave us an opportunity, long desired, of looking in upon things about town. Of course we called at the Sentinel office. Found them in a splendid new built block, built expressly for their use, and everthing in good style. They are now working four editions daily, and are constantly full of job work. We were politely shown about the premises, including the composing room occupied by the girls, some nine in number, under change of a very ladylike foreman, and had a chat with the editors. Sorry we had not time to call upon the other offices.

Lieut. Gov. Sherwood and C. W. Thompson, esq., of St. Paul. were on the train, en route for Washington.

The Copperhead Snag in Missouri.

The Copperheads of Missouri have run against the inevitable rock which a party must strike which undertake to steer on both sides of a great principle It is comparatively easy to avoid treacherous Sylla and stormy Charybdis by sailing between the two. But to sail on both sides of either, is a task which only the democracy of modern times have attempted. The question before the country is war or peace. There is no intermediate course—no warlike peace, or peaceful war, at all events not in any sufficiently tangible shape for a platform. Many of the copperheads want to run a war and peace ticket that shall mean both either or neither—an exhibition as accommodating as that of Daniel in the lion's den, in which you may consider Daniel to be the lions or the lions as Daniel, whichever you choose—you pay your money and you takes your choice. The party tried to start the McClellan peace ticket in Missouri but unlike McClellan himself it would not run.

The copperheads of Missouri argued the case in this way. If McClellan has been a good general, why put him on a peace ticket. He ought to have been a war man, for the man who will fight in a war which he does not believe in is false to his own convictions. On the other hand, if he be not a good general, he is nothing, and why encumber our ticket with him? We are for peace, and we want a candidate who means peace. A military man on a peace ticket, like a Quaker on a war ticket, would be too much for our faculties. We can't comprehend it. Sensible copperheads, those.

The 6th Annual Editorial Convention of the State of Wisconsin, meets at Madison on Wednesday, the 15th day of June, 1864. Hon. C. Webb will deliver the annual address, and Mario Mignonette, of LaCrosse will furnish the poem.

The June number of the Atlantic Monthly is once more on our table it is full—as usual—of well written articles, from the well known authors. We commend it to the people in general.

Rain and Terrific Wind Storm.

"About 8 o'clock on Sunday morning a light shower, not enough to lay the dust, but accompanied by a few peals of thunder, passed over our city. During the day the clouds gathered again in the south-south west and, at about 5 o'clock in the evening preceded by a few moments of the pattering of big rain drops, a tornado swept down the river valley and over the city, carrying with it dense clouds of dust. In a few moments the fury of the storm had gone by, and a steady rain lasting an hour or more followed. The tornado seems to have bounded through the city, striking in full force at not more than one or two points in its course. Its force at these points was so great as to twist and break stout oak trees, and to pick up and carry long distances all loose articles on the ground. Fortunately, it did not, in its full force, strike any buildings, though several suffered damage from it.

A frame building on Third Street, next to Martin's picture gallery, occupied by a negro family, none of whom fortunately, were at home was thrown by the storm. The roof, covered with tin, when the wind first struck the building, was lifted up several feet and then slowly settled down upon the flattened ruins. A family residing in an adjoining tenement suddenly found themselves next to out doors by the wind's taking out completely one side of their building.

The sidewalk above and in front of the old curiosity shop, opposite Putnam's grocery on Third Street, was completely torn up by the wind. The sidewalk on Third Street just above the bridge square, was also turned over and broken.

A part of the Cathedral roof on the south-west corner was torn off. A small frame stable, near by was lifted bedily up, carried across the street and piled in fragments against another building.

A fine shade tree (ash) six inches through, on Sixth Street, near Jackson, was twisted off by the whirlwind.

Several fine native oaks beyond Trout Brook, where the full force of the storm seems to have struck the earth, one nearly eighteen inches through was twisted and broken down by the whirlwind.

A little boy on lower Seventh street was blown across the street and against a fence but not badly bruised.

A number of chimneys and fences in different parts of the city were blown down. In one instance, on Third Street, two capstones of a wall, each weighing over four hundred pounds, were blown over on to the roof, a foot and a half fall, without breaking through.

On the White Bear road a buggy containing two men was turned upside down by the storm. At the lake a number of the largest forest trees were blown down."

The Bogus Proclamation.

New York, May 24.—Gov. Seymour's letter to District Attorney Hall, in relation to the seizure of the World and Journal of Commerce, says:

"It is charged that these acts of violence were done without due legal process, and without due sanction of state or national law. If this be true, the offenders must be punished. If the owners of the above named journals have violated state or national laws, they must be proceeded against and punished by those laws. Any action against them outside of legal proceedings is criminal.

"In making your inquiries, and in prosecuting the parties implicated you will call upon the Sheriff of the county and heads of the police department for any needed force and assistance. The failure to give this by any official under my control will be deemed sufficient cause for his removal."

Condition of our Wounded.

Secretary Stanton, in a dispatch to Gen. Dix, dated Washington, May 13, gives the following gratifying assurance with regard to the condition of our soldiers wounded in the recent battles: The Acting Surgeon General reports that of five hundred patients from the recent battle-field, admitted in the hospitals not one of them will require any surgical operations, and that in his opinion, two-thirds of the whole number wounded will be fit for service in thirty days.

PENMANSHIP.—We notice that Prof. A. J. Shaw is teaching penmanship in Hastings, and is meeting with good success. That's just what he deserves; but keep your left eye on him, Todd, or he'll be sure to cut you out with the Hastings' belles.—Mankato Union

Very good advice, Bro. Slocum. We shall most assuredly look sharp, with both eyes, after the gentleman. He can't claim the right of discovery here.

We have just received a new visitor to our sanctum—the first number of the American Artisan, a weekly journal published at No. 212 Broadway, New York by Brown, Coombs & Co., and devoted to the interests of artisans, manufacturers, inventors, patentees, et id genus omne. It is quite a handsome looking sheet of eight pages, excellent in its typography, and artistically illustrated with original engravings and descriptions of new machinery, etc., both American and foreign. If the publishers fulfill all the promises set forth in their prospectus the subscribers of the American Artisan will find at the end of the year that the small investment of $2 has yielded them a prodigiously profitable return in the shape of a volume of 416 pages, containing an immense quantity of facts and figures relating to an almost endless variety of subjects connected with the arts and sciences; among these we may mention Histories of famous inventions and discoveries, essays on scientific subjects, interesting letters from working men in all parts of the world, instructions in various arts and trade, reliable receipts for use in the field, the workshop and the household, wonderful experiments in chemistry, hints to millers and millwrights, news items for manufacturers practical rules for mechanics and advice to farmers, illustrated details of curious and ingenous mechanical movements and other useful lessons for young artisans, the official list of claims of all patents issued weekly from the United States Patent Office, reports of law cases relating to patents, the whole forming an encyclopedia of general information on a variety of topics connected with the industrial arts, the progress of invention, etc.

The first number of the American Artisan is dated May 11, 1864, and we hope a large majority of our townsmen—especially the mechanics and farmers—will early embrace the present opportunity of becoming subscribers from the above date.

The Illustrated News is a beautiful pictorial, it is composed of songs, literature, and portraits of different men and places, it is also interesting to the ladies', as it has the latest fashions, and patterns for the same. Terms $4 per year. Address Wm. Jennings Demorest, No 39 Beekman Street, N. Y.

QUERY.—Should custard pie, as a desert, be considered suitable for the "upper crust?"

State News.

The people of Winona, have decided that on and after the day of 1st June next they will receive Greenbacks only, as currency.—Wabashaw Herald.

A LARGE WOLF.—Mr. Philip Hodap killed recently in the timber about a mile north-east of town, a timber wolf, which measured four feet in length, and two feet eight inches high.—Mankato Record.

IDAHO.—Several teams have passed through town this week, bound for Idaho. There appears to be quite a large emigration to that country this spring, notwithstanding the dangers of being massacred by the Indians.—Ib.

FISH.—Are still abundant as ever.—Several fishing parties have taken away large quantities during the past week, and any of them a full wagon load, all this without any apparent diminution in supply.—Albert Lea Standard.

Still they come. There has been a continual stream of emigrant teams passing through our town for the past three weeks. As many as eight and ten a day have passed through with the intention of locating in this section of the state.—Free Homestead.

The rapid settlement of this county is indicated by the fact that on the road from this place to Freeborn, on which three years ago there was hardly a settler, now the claims are mostly taken. Houses are in sight of the traveler the entire distance.—Ib.

There have been two deaths from Small Pox in the Hospital at this place since our last issue. One death occurred on Saturday morning, and the other Monday evening. Both men belonged to Co. H. 2d Cavalry. A pest-house has been established in the outskirts of Kasota, where all the recent cases of Small Pox and Varioloid have been removed.—St. Peter Statesman.

EMIGRANTS FROM KENTUCKEY.—Eighty emigrants from Pike County the extreme eastern county of Kentuckey, came up on the Muscatine yesterday from St. Louis, and went up the Minnesota on the Ariel, bound for Mankato. A large proportion of the party were children, there being but two or three young men among them. They have all experienced the hardships and cruelties of civil war, of which we up here have read and heard, but hope never to understand as these poor people now do. We hope they will succeed in establishing pleasant homes in our state, recovering from their losses and sufferings by war.—Pioneer

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Baptist Sociable will meet this week, on Friday evening, at the house of Mrs. J. B. Tozer.

NOTICE.—The fourth anniversary of the St. Croix Valley Baptist Association will be held in the Baptist church in Hudson Wis, on Wednesday and Thursday the 8th and 9th days of June 1864. Commencing on Wednesday at 10½ o'clock A. M.

GOOD PROSPECTS.—Unless appearances are very deceiving, the business of our merchants must be thriving, as we daily see large numbers of persons from the country in the city making purchases.

IMPROVEMENT.—A good substantial awning has recently been put up in front of Exchange Block which will add much to the comfort and convenience of those who occupy the stores as well as their customers.

LOGS.—We are glad to learn that a recent rise of water in the Saint Croix River is bringing down a large quantity of pine saw logs which will find their way to this place to be manufactured into boards.

Mr. COWLES hopes to be able to start his saw mill this week, and to furnish all kinds of lumber for build-purposes at once.

TO PATRONS.—During the absence of the editor, who will be gone for some weeks, we hope the patrons of the CONSERVER will observe the great improvements which will be made in the reading matter of the paper, and will also make all due allowance for short comings.

Now is the time to subscribe!

RIVER MATTERS.—The large boats are once more arriving at our levee, on account of low water they have stopped at Prescott, for a few days past there connecting with smaller boats to St. Paul. We apprehend there will be no trouble in a few weeks, as the river is rising at the rate of about 1½ inches per day.

WHEAT.—Large quantities of wheat have been delivered in this city within the past week, and Hastings has presented a lively appearance.

Scores of teams are daily to be seen on our streets, and the merchants, mechanics and all who have commodities to dispose of have no difficulty in finding purchasers

At the present time wheat is selling for about 90 cents.

A CARD.—The undersigned hereby acknowledges the receipt from the ÆTNA INSURANCE COMPANY, through ELI ROBINSON, Agt., of $3,890, being his entire loss on Wheat sunk in the barge Fort Snelling. He desires further to render his testimony to the honorable manner in which the loss was adjusted, as until after the loss he had no evidence of insurance except the word of the agent—to whom he recommends those desiring reliable insurance.

SAMUEL ROGERS.

MYSTERIOUS.—A few days since a young man of rather prepossessing appearance, disappeared from this city under circumstances well calculated to alarm his friends, and as nothing has been heard from him since his departure, it is a source of much anxiety to his relatives as to his present whereabouts. He appeared for some time before he left to be laboring under a degree of mental aberation, and was heard to say in disconnected sentences "glorious old Mississippi, La Crosse, Chicago queen of the West, Northern Indiana, Lake Shore, New York, etc." Some think from certain mysterious "passes" which he was understood to possess, that he may have wandered off to the city of New York, and other eastern places. If such should be the case, it is to be hoped that he may eventually find his way to "Minnesota Head Quarters," on Broadway, and that Mr. Worstell or Mr Prince may take care of the young man until his friends can hear from him.

The young man alluded to is the editor of the CONSERVER. Any information concerning him may be addressed to this office.

The Last Sensation.

One day last week we published the advertisement of a man in want of rubbish; this advertisement made one column in our paper. It was a rather loud call for all books, blanks, newspapers, and manuscripts—in short, for everything that is or can be paper. Seven cents per pound were offered for this old stuff.

That column has created a great sensation in society and out of it. It has filled the quietest households with the spirit of speculation and uproar. No greater excitement was created in Bagded by the announcement that a certain merchant desired to take old lamps in exchange for new ones. Every old garret in town is suddenly found to teem with valuables, and our staid matrons are as eager as gold hunters in Eldorado or Wall Street. All old ward-robes, closets, garrison, pantries, cubboards, drawers, trunks, and pigeonholders are ransacked and purged ruthlessly, and, since the truth must be told, even the bookshelves are not sacred. Yes, within the past seven days more than fifty per cent of the bookcases have been weeded. They have been freed of all pattent office reports and a similar tomes classed as "Pub. Doc;" infinite travels have come to untimely end, and the excellence of voluminous authors has been much in question. It has calmly debated whether or no Bancraft's History was worth more than seven cents a pound. And if this price continues we tremble for Appleton's Cyclopedia—it is so very heavy. We have heard that an immense number of tragedies have finally found a purchaser, and that countless authors have gotten innumerable novels off their hands. Bohemia has begun to pay its board, and radiant. At the door of a certain servant, recently deceased, three hundred dollars were paid for two tons of old paper—memoranda and scraps. Perhaps, like the transaction of the Bagdad merchants, it is a plot to get hold of the projects, plans and ideas of some lately departed genius.

We hope that this excitement may continue and go through the whole country, as it has gone through this city. If it should, it will bring out an immense amount of the material whereof paper is made, and will be of great public benefit in bringing down the price of that necessary article.

WOMAN.—Who ever heard of a woman taking life as it ought to be taken? Instead of supporting it as an unavoidable nuisance only redeemable by its bravity, she goes through it as if she were a pageant or a procession. She dresses for it, and simpers and gesticulates. She pushes her neighbor and struggles for a good place in the dismal march; she elbows, writhes, tramples, and prances to the end of making the most of misery. She gets up early, and sets up late, and is loud and restless, and noisy and unpitying. She drags her husband on to the wood sack, or pushes him into parliament. She drives him full blast at the dear, lazy machinery of government, and knocks and buffets him about the wheels and cranks, screws and pulleys, until somebody, for quiet's sake, makes him something that she wanted him to be made. That's why incompetent men sometimes sit in high places, and interpose their poor muddled intellects between the things to be done and the helpless innocense of well-placed incapacity. The square man in the round holes are pushed in by their wives. To call them (woman) the weaker sex—the noisier, the more self assirting sex. They want freedom of oppinion, variety of occupation do they? Let them have it. Let them be lawyers, doctors, preachers, soldiers, legislators—anything they like—but let them be quiet, if they can. —Lady Audley's Secret.

We are of those who love religion; who wish to express it in our daily life; and, loving it as we do, we cannot push it to one side as a dark and solemn thing, fit only to receive our tears of repentance, and before which we must walk with long drawn faces. We see in it the glory, the sunshine of life. When it springs within us, it does not consign us to a life of trembling suspense, passed on the edge of the tomb; but our souls, hitherto stumbling among the tombs, groping in din caverns of the earth, rise into the sunshine of God's love. This is the true life, and no one can truly say he lives, unless, throwing aside his grave-cloths, he walks forth in this light. We hold that those who live in earnest, must of necessity be religious, and that their religion will carry them above all sorrow and care. Therefore we do not like the fashionable sentimentalism which throws shadows upon religion. We like soberness and reverence, but also cheerfulness, triumph, joy, and gladness.—Oneida Circular.

Popping the Question.

We have heard of many cases of "popping" under very singular circumstances—the eccentrict, the abrupt, the business like, the silly, and hundred other styles. Of the eccentric we would cite the case of a well known merchant, who one day dining at a friend's house, sat next a lady who possessed rare charms of conversation. The merchant did not possess this faculty in a very rare degree, but he could do that which is next best. he could appreciate, and appreciation which he endeavored to show by the following mode of action;

"Do you like toast, Mrs B—?"

"Buttered toast?"

"Yes."

"That is strange; so do I. Let us get married."

There cannot be any doubt but the lady was taken slightly aback, a fact that did not prevent the marriage from coming off in a month afterwards, nor the accession of the lady to one of the finest establishments in the city.

As a specimen of the abrupt, we shall cite the case of a gentleman who hak retired from business at the age of forty and built him a beautiful house, determined to enjoy lite to the utmost. One day a friend was dining with him, and said half-jokingly,

"You have everything here that heart can desire but a wife."

"That is true. I must think of it," said he; and then relapsed into silence for a few minutes, at the end of which time he arose, begged to be excused for a short time, and then left the room. He seized his hat and went instantly to his neighbor's and was shown into a parlor with the information that neither the master nor the mistress were at home. He told the servant that he wanted neither, and requested that the housekeeper be sent to him. She came, and the gentlemen thus addressed her:

"Sarah, I have known you for many years and have just been told that I wanted a wife. You are the only woman I know of that I should be willing to entrust my happiness with, and if you agree, we will be instantly married. What is your answer."

Sarah knew the man that addressed her, and knew that his offer was a serious and wellweighed as though considered for a year; and she answered him in the same spirit.

"I agree."

"Will you be ready in an hour."

"I will."

"I shall return for you at that time."

Which he did, the gentlemen who suggested the idea accompanying him to the clergyman's. Many years have passed since then, and neither party has had any cause to regret the abrupt proposal and acceptance.

Of the business style we may cite a case related to us, which we know for a true one. A young man who had succeeded to the ill kept and badly cultivated though really valuable farm of an uncle, saw at glance that two things were necessary to enable him to succeed; the first being a wife to take charge of the woman's departments, and the second a few thousand dollars to stock it with. He could not help thinking to himself that, possibly, these two great aids to his happiness and prosperity might be had together, and yet without attempting to put his matrimonial and financial ideas into practice, he allowed them to haunt him continually.

With this upon his mind our farmer started upon a horseback journey to a distant part of the country, and upon his retuan made an acquaintance upon the road, in the person of an old gentleman who was jogging the same way. The companions dined together at a wayside inn, and fraternized pleasantly, during which the young man opened his heart to the elder, telling him all his plans and aspirations, when the old gentleman addressed the younger:

"I rather like you my friend, and your honest way of telling your story, and if you will come and see me, I shall be glad. I have three daughters all as good girls as ever lived. Now, perhaps, one may be the very one you are looking for; if so, I will do my best toward making the balance of the matter agreeable. Ride over and see me to-morrow, take dinner and stay in the afternoon, which will give you a fair chance to see them and judge."

The young man instantly agreed to the proposal, making only one condition that the young ladies should not be informed of the nature of his errand. This was agreed to and they separated.

The next day at the time appointed, the young man dismounted at the door of the house of his new made friend, and was heartily welcomed. The hour before dinner was consumed in looking over the farm, the young man in admiring its keeping, and the old one in approving of the sensible and practical remarks of the younger, when the meal was announced, and the three young ladies and their mother were introduced. They were all as the old gentleman had said fine girls, but the younger, rosy-cheeked, blue-eyed, and laughing-face, charmed the young farmer especially. The dinner over they once more walked out for a chat.

"They are all nice girls, very nice," said the young man thoughtfully.

"And which of them do you like best," was the next question.

"The youngest, Kate, she is charming, and if I am to be your son-in-law you must give me Kate!"

"This will never do to take the youngest and by all odds the prettiest," said the old gentleman seriously.

"I must have her or none," was the response spoken decidedly.

"How much money did you say you wanted?"

"Five thousand dollars will put my farm in excellent order, and make it worth twenty thousand to-morrow. I must have five thousand dollars."

"I'll give you the sum with either of the other girls," said the old man, positively, "but I will only give you three thousand with Kate."

"Then I may as well go to my home—five thousand I must have—I have set my mind upon it."

"And I have just as strongly determined to do only what I have said," was the old gentleman's reply; so I suppose the matter is at an end. However, we will be good friends, and you must sometimes run over and see me.

Thus ended the conference and they parted. The young man mounted his horse, and rode down toward the road, but just as he was about opening the gate, stooping from his saddle, the laughing faced Kate sprang through the shrubbery to save him the trouble.

"Can't you accept my father's terms?"

"Yes, by George I will, if you say so?" was the instantaneous response.

"Then come over to-morrow morning before ten o'clock and tell him so," and the girl vanished like a fairy among the leaves.

The young man rode slowly home but he was on hand the next morning, according to bidding, and married the fair Kate in two months after.

"I Would I were a Boy Again."

It is amusing to see the various styles of children that regularly gather in this quarter of the fair. There can be no question but that the whole assemblage has experienced infancy at some time or other; but there are hundreds to be seen squeezing their way through the throng who are much nearer their second childhood than their first. If all who enter here are to be regaarded as children it is all right of course, but it makes it rather annoying to the genuine boy or girl, who in the push for peg tops, hoops, or dolls, has to combat an influx of long bearded boys, as old as his father, accompanied by bevies of innocent prattling girls of sweet forty-six. Tall gentlemen find youngsters taking short cuts between their legs, while sometimes to obtain a coveted position a crew of five or six lively chaps are obliged to bear down suddenly upon a statuesque old gent and move him on as if he were a barrel of flour or a roll of oil cloth that temporarily was obstructing the passage. The thing is done with due celerity, and then the old gent generally collars the peaceable little lad of six, who, with all the innocence of Oliver Twist, is discovered standing near by. Explanations are seldom heard on such occasisns, and the insatiate bald head insists, amid the laughter of the bystanders, that the expostulating innocent within his grasp has shoved him violently for a distance of about ten feet. Then he begins to cool off, and soon to laugh about it, and the children discover him rapidly changing into a beaming Pickwick or a kindly voice Cheesible Brother, who produces a roll of bank notes from a wallet as fat as his own cheeks, and proceeds to treat a happy half score of little men and women to ice-cream and mixed candies. And the curly headed boy whom he had laid hold of in his momentary ire, gets two plates of cream and maybe a dollar along with his confectionary. The last we see of the touchy but jolly old gentleman is as he shakes his stick at the "little rascals," and promises to pay them all off well some fine day, And he waddles away chuckling and mumbling. No doubt he is a bachelor, who knows more of stocks than he does of babes, and wishes his knowledge had been reversed. Poor old gentleman. After all he is as much a child as the rest of them. His heart's as unwrinkled as are theirs. What a little difference is there between seventy and seven.—Sanitary Fair.

REVENGE.—Banish all malignant and revengeful thoughts. A spirit of revenge is a spirit of the devil; than which nothing makes a man more like him, and nothing can be more opposite to the temper which Christianity was designed to promote. If your revenge be not satisfied it will torment you now, if it be, it will give you greater hereafter. None is a greater self-tormentor than a malicious and revengeful man, who turns the poison of his own temper in upon himself. The Christian precept on this case is "Let not the sun go down upon your wrath;" and this precept Plutarch tells us the Pythagoreans practiced in a literal sense: Who, if at any time in a passion, they broke out into opprobrious language, before the sunset gave one another their hands, and with them a discharge from all injuries; and so with a mutual conciliation parted friends.

A physician has discovered that the nightmare in nine cases out of ten is produced by owing a bill for a newspaper, and that the best cure is to pay up.

AGRICULTURAL.

How To Choose A Cow.

There is always some risk in buying a cow, of whose previous character and history we know nothing, for there are no infallible signs of excellence. A rough, scrawny, coarse, ill-shapen cow is often a noble milker. Yet there are a few points generally agreed upon by experienced farmers, which it is well to consider before purchasing. A small boned head and light horns are better than large. Long legs make too wide a gop betwixt udder and milk pail, and long-legged cows are seldom quiet feeders, but wander about too much. A slender rather than a thick neck, a straight back, wide ribs and broad brisket, are to be sought for. The body of the cow should be large in proportion to the head, neck, and legs, though not excessively large; and the hind quarters if large out of proportion indicate good milking qualities. Medium sized cows, all things considered, prove the best milkers for the amount of feed they consume. The color of the hair has probably nothing to do with the milking qualities, and good looks should be regarded but little in purchasing dairy animals. As to the color of the skin, a bright yellow approaching that of gold coins, creamy color within the ears—this and good rich milk are very apt to go together; and withal a soft flexible hide, loose over the ribs and rump, is also to be sought. The udder should be large, soft, and full of veins, which ramify over it, with full-sized milk veins stretching forward along the belly. and the teats be large and not crowded together. Test the cows disposition and inquire about it. Irritable and nervous cows are unpleasant to handle, and almost always scanty milkers.—Something can be ascestained from the looks and motions. Large, mild eyes, easy quiet motions when driven, and gentleness when handled, indicate good nature. What butchers term "good handling" is an important quality in a milch cow, for it indicates not only good milking properties, but easy fattening, when service in the dairy is over.—Am. Agriculturist.

—COUGHING HORSES—CAUSE AND CURE.—It is well known that feeding horses on clover hay often makes them cough, but the why and wherefore may not be so generally known. From observation I have become fully satisfied that the manner of feeding hay to horses is the cause. The usual custom is to let them draw it through a rack, thus stripping off the fine dust which adheres to the stalk which being drawn into the lungs in respiration produces the cough. The cure consists in removing the cause—that is, the racks—and allowing the animals to take their food the natural way. I have removed all of mine, and now feed my horses on the barn floor having a breast work sufficiently high for them to eat over. In this way they can be fed hay without raising a dust they get none under their feet and the labor of cleaning out mangers is saved. Whatever is left is easily pushed out with a rake into the yard for the cattle. The dust on the hay will do the horses no harm it taken into the stomach. Since making the improvement above mentioned in feeding apparatus I am not troubled with coughing horses. There is no patent on my invention; my brethren can use it freely.—Correspondent Country Gentleman.

Hints.

There are many people who have the reputation, and perhaps justly of being good farmers, who are frequently dilatory in getting to work at the commencement of the season. That is to say, they do not take advantage of every opportunity to prepare for the opetation that are to follow one after another. The winter blasts often disarrange out-houses, gates, fences, etc.; the mowing fields are to be cleared of stones, brush, stumps, where practicable and all obstructions to the scythe or the mowing-machine. The wheat field may need pasturing or rolling. The orchard may need harrowing and top-dressing.—The manure may require piling in oblong squares or placed under cover. Leaves from the woods, now lying compactly from the winter's snows and storms and easily gathered, should be hauled into the stable-yards, pig pens, etc., and manufactured into manure.

"Take a round stick of hard wood about 1½ inches in diameter, and one foot long; tie a string to each end, put the stick in the mouth of the animal and tie the strings together back of the horns, so as to hold the stick firmly in the mouth.—The animal will be immediately relieved, and will be as well as ever in the space of five minutes

The following is dedicated to the lovers of good dried beef: Take beef from any part of the qurrter you choose, and chop as you would for sausage, season to taste and put in three-inch cloth sacks and hang it up to dry. In this way you can work up all the bits and ends, or even the whole beef, into first-rate dried beef.

PREVENTIVE OF THE POTATO ROT.—Sow unleached ashes over the field once a week for six weeks, commencing soon after the second hoeing. Apply two or three bushels to the acre, using care to dust the tops well. It has never been known to fail where faithfully tested.

The pleasures of the world are deceitful; they promise more than they give. They trouble us in seeking them and they make us despair in losing them.

FINKLE & LYON'S

Sewing Machines.

These Machines make the lock-stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread or loop-stitch machines do will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, tc., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather, without changing the feed, needle, or tension, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood, and if any part is broken by accident it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.

Please call and examine, or send for circular.

Spring.

A greenness light and tender
Reclothes each field and plain—
It is the new year's gladness
Returning once again.

It is the spring so welcome
After chill winter's sway,
Bidding each sorrow vanish,

For oh! I look on thee!
So is my winter over

A Fu Remarks by Josh Billings.

Moral swashuns consist in asking a man tu do what he ought tu do without asking, and then begging his pardon if he refuses tu do it.

I have finally kum tu the kunklursion that a good reliable set uv bowels, is worth more tu a man than anny quantity uv branes.

I have often bin told that the best wa is tu take a "bull by the horns," but I think in many instances, I should prefer the "tail holt."

Tha tell me that femails are so scarce in the far western kuntuky, that a great menny married wimmin are already engaged to their secund and thur husbands.

"Madam," said a polite traveler to a tasty old landlady, "if I see proper to help myself to this milk, is there any impropriety in it?" "I don't know what you mean; but if you mean to insinuate that there is anything nasty in this milk, I'll give you to understand you've struck the wrong house. There ain't the first hair in it, for as soon as Dorothy Ann told me the cat was daowned in the milk, I went right straight and strained it over."

"I wonder where those clouds are going!" sighed Flora pensively, as she pointed with her thin, delicate finger, to the heavy funeral masses that floated lazily in the sky.

"I think they are going to thunder!" said her brother.

"That," interposed Mr. Ames, with a peculiar sniff of the nose, "That looks as if you were out of soap."

"Pray, Miss Sophy, what are you making?" said a gentleman to a young lady who was at work upon a garment of straight up-and down description in white cotton. "Sophy cover, sir," was the demure reply.

—An able physiologist has written that one-fifth of the human body is composed of phosophorus, Punch remarks that this most likely accounts for the number of matches made.

A lady of a certain age says the reason an old maid is generally so devoted to her cat is, that, not having a husband, she naturally takes to the next most treacherous animal.

A married monster said that he lately dreamed that he had an angel by his side, and upon waking up found that it was nobody but his wife.

A grave friend of our tells us that he and wife always go to bed quarreling. "And yet," said he, with all our differences, we never fall out."

D. D. Merrill, St. Paul, Minn

This work is invaluable to any one who has any intention of going to these mines, or any desire to see the various routes, and advantages of the

MINNESOTA ROUTE,

Over the "Great Salt Lake" ram's horn!

The map shows plainly the topography of the country from Lake Michigan to the Pacific Coast, compiled from the latest government surveys, and is correct in all distances, location, and elevation of the country upon the line of the various routes—is full of general information, and will sell largely in every community.

The fact that these are among the richest mines of the Rocky Mountains, and that they are the easiest of access, will induce many who are to seek their fortunes in the far west to find their way to these fields.

Many things conspire to make a very large demand for this Map and Guide Book. 52–tf

Annual Taxes for 1864.

The attention of tax-payers is hereby called to the provisions of the United States Excise Law relative to the assessment of annual taxes.

By the sixth section of the act of July 1, 1862, it is made the duty of all persons, partnerships, firms, associations, or corporations, made liable to any annual duty, license, or tax, on or before the 1st Monday of May in each year, to make a list or return to the assistant assessor of the district where so located of the amount of annual income, the articles or objects charged with a special tax, and the business or occupation liable to pay any license.

Every person who shall fail to make such return by the day specified will be liable to be assessed by the assessor according to the best information which he can obtain; and in such case the assessor is required to add fifty per centum to the amount of the items of said list.

Every person who shall deliver to an assessor any false or fraudulent list or statement, with intent to evade the valuation or enumeration required by law, is subject to a fine of five hundred dollars: and in such case the list will be made out by the assessor or assistant assessor, and from the valuation and enumeration so made there can be no appeal.

Payment of the annual taxes, except those for licenses, will not be demanded until the 30th day of June.

The appropriate blanks on which to make return and all necessary information will be furnished by ELI ROBINSON, assistant assessor for the 3d Division, to whom the returns should be delivered on or before the first Monday of May, at his office in Hastings.

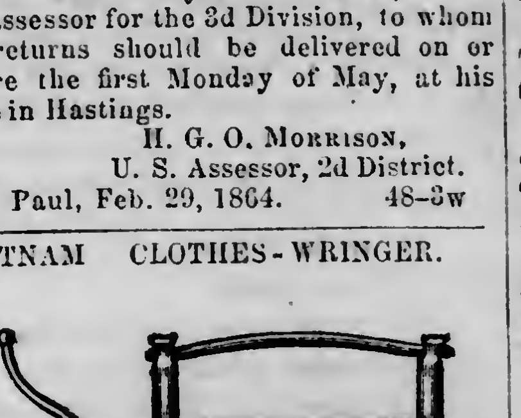
PUTNAM CLOTHES-WRINGER.



The Only Reliable Self-Adjusting Wringer.

The frame being of iron, thoroughl galvanized, all danger from rust is removed, and the liability to shrink, swell, split, etc., so unavoidable in wooden machines, is prevented. No thumbscrews or complicated fastenings to wear out or get out of repair; it can be fastened firmly to the tub in a single second. Warranted with or without cog wheels.

Instead of believing the statements of parties interested in the sale of other Wringers, try it and judge for yourself. Test it thoroughly with any and all others, and, if not entirely successful, return it. It will wring anything from a thread to a bed quilt without alteration.

Patented in the United States, England, Canada, and Australia. Agents wanted in every town. Energetic men can make from $3 to $10 per day.

Putnam Manufacturing Co., Gentleman:

I know from practical experience that iron well galvanized with zinc will not oxidize or rust one particle. I can safely say, after three years' experience in the manufacture of chain for chain pumps and water drawers, in which I have tested the affinity of iron and zinc, that if the process be conducted properly it is a perfect weld of the two.

Nearly one year ago my family commenced using one of your wringers. It now performs all of its functions as well as it did the first time it was used, and has become an indispensable article with us. I have closely observed several other kinds of clothes-wringers, the modus operandi being different, trying to produce the same results as the Putnam Wringer, but in my judgment they have failed. The Putnam Wringer is as near perfect as possible, and I can cheerfully recommend it to be the best in use. Respectfully yours, JNO. W. WHEELER, Cleveland, O.

Many years' experience in the galvanizing business enable me to indorse the above statement in all particulars. JNO. C. LEFFERTS, No. 100 Beekman Street.

New York, January, 1864.

No. 2, $5 50; No. 1, $6; No. A, $8. Manufactured and sold, wholesale and retail, by THE PUTNAM MAN. Co., No. 13 Platt Street, New York, and Cleveland, Ohio.

"A child can readily wring out a tub full of clothes in a few minutes. It is in reality a clothes saver, a time saver, and a strength saver. The saving of garments alone will pay a large percentage on its cost. We think the machine much more than pays for itself every year in the saving of garments. There are several kinds nearly alike in general construction, but we consider it important that the Wringer be fitted with Cogs, otherwise a mass of garments may clog the rollers, and the rollers upon the crank shaft slip and tear the clothes, or the rubber break loose from the shaft. Our own is one of the first make, and it is as good as new after nearly four years' constant use."

Every Wringer with Cog Wheels is Warranted in Every Particular.

Dead.

Half-mast the flag. Muffle the drums. Turn the bayonets to the ground. Whistle the fife slowly.—Hang a cloud over the sun. Let the Spring birds cease their warble. Sedwick is dead, Wadsworth is dead and Hays and Webb, and others equal to these in courage and brave daring, though, it may be, not equal to these in eminence and renown, and while we write perchance others of the brave and the renowned are falling and are dying.

A loving sorrow is impatient, and tenderly chides the beautiful audacity of galantry that made the brow of the brave Sedgwick so conspicuous a mark for the rebel bullet. But bear him, to the rear, and to his home, and to his bereaved hearthstone, and to the church yard, and lower him away from our straining eyes in all reverant affection. He will sleep well with the greatful eyes of his countrmen upon his grave, and following his spirit to the sky. Farewell!

Wadsworth—how manly he looked even in citizen's plain attire, and how noble and commanding in the saddle, and how inspiring when his cheek mantled, his eye red, his eye fired, his sword gleamed, and his fierce horse carried him into the thickness and madness of the fight. He was faithful and industrious in the dry routine of military duty, always at his work from the rising to the setting of the sun, and he was eager, resolute, and burning with high metele, when the order came for the advance, and when the bugle sounded the charge.

The crimson has gone from the cheek, the fire from the eye, the commanding air from the manly form; the gleam of the sword is hid away in the sheath, the proud horse follows the hearse with bowed head, and Wadsworth, the gentleman and nobleman, and intrepid soldier is laid away among the choicest sons of the Empire State. Farewell!

Younger and less faithful in their spheres, and no less indomitable and intrepid in the hour of fire and blood are these other two, Hays and Webb. They were schooled in their profession.

They were the educated children of the Republic. And they did not learn the science of battle at the feet of their Government only to use it against their Government. They did not, like those who confronted them in the armies of the insurgents, stab the nation to the heart with the sword which the nation had taught them the use of. They were among those from West Point who did not bow the knee to the black Baal of human slavery, or take up arms in his defence. They fell in the spring of the year of their life. They fell with hard earned laurels upon them. They were faithful or they would not have been on the spot that they fell upon; they bore themselves as true knights of the flag or they would not have fallen where they did. Farewell!

Day by day the roll-call of the dead fills up. The name on the sad scroll multiply. Bereavements are added to bereavements. Afflicted hearts accumulate. But the martyrdom goes on that the Republic may go on. The noble heroes fall that the noble cause may not. The frightful war is for a [illegible] peace. The dead have died that the living may live.—The dead will be cherished by the living; the living will take example of the dead.—Chicago Eve. Journal.

THE AMERICAN YOUNG LADY.—I said that all the young ladies can talk. A flow of sharp, shrewd, intelligent talk is the shining attainment of all American ladies, and from the school girl upwards. All the school girls themselves talk with an ease and volubility that would astonish the superintendents of the ladies colleges at home. There is no hesitation, no blushing, no stammering, no twiddling of the fingers, no plucking at boquets, or nervous unkemming of haukerchiefs. The vapid inanities that pass between partners at the English ball would be scouted. To be shy is to be unpatriotic. The American young lady goes straight to the point. How is your health? How long have you been in the country? Do you like it? Have you had a good time? What do you think of the actions in the present struggle? Are you not struck with admiration at the deeds of valor performed by the nation's armies? Have you read Longfellow's Wayside Inn? When is Tennyson's Boadicea to appear? Was not England convulsed with enthusiasm at the appearance of Rev. Ward Beecher! Don't you think the room wants oxygen? Are not the monitors triumphs of mechanical construction? Have you been to Niagara? These are few of the queries she rattled out. You are at first delighted, then amazed, and at last puzzled: for the intelligent and well dressed young lady continually addresses you as "sir," and every now and then she asks you a question so naive, so artlessly ignorant, that you pause to inquire of yourself whether she can be more than six years old.—Sala.

Work for Those who stay at Home.

So far as the operations against the rebels are concerned, we believe there is no reason to fear of their success; but those who remain at home must take care that our soldiers are not disturbed and the plans of our generals disarranged this year, as they were last, by a fire in the rear. There have been mutterings and hints of riot and insurrection during the past winter; the Knights of the Golden Circle are still active in the Northwest; they held a convention not long since; and Reverend Dr. Breckinridge asserted publicly, only a few weeks ago, that a plot had been formed in Kentuckey to hand that state over to the rebels. Since last July there is no longer any doubt that there are men in the free states desperate enough to attempt a diverson in favor of the rebels; and the more hardly pushed Davis is, the more ready will his allies and agents at the North be to help him out of a tight place.

To show what can be done in this direction if loyal citizens are not prepared to put down at once, and without help from the army, every demonstration against the laws in the free states, we need only recite the plain results of the July riots. When these disturbances broke out it became necessary to call home from the Potomac army about fifteen thousand men. The army, thus weakened after the severe losses of the battle of Gettysburg, was not strong enough to attack Lee with a certainty of success; and it is now well known that in case General Meade had attacked and been beaten fresh insurrections would at once have broken out in different places. Lee, therefore, secured his retreat by the help of the New York rioters.

But this was not all Meade's army, weakened by the heavy detachments sent north to keep order there, was unable to pursue the campaign in Virginia; Lee who knew this through the newspapers, presently ventured to send Longstreet to Chattanooga. Longstreet's troops enabled Bragg to deliver the battle of Chickamauga, the result of which was to stop Rosecrans, and drive him back to Chattanooga. Had it not been for the heavy reinforcements Bragg received from Lee, Rosecrans would have beaten him, and would have closed the campaign at Atlanta in September last, instead of which we have to fight another series of battles to gain that point.

These were the results of the disturbancer in this and other states. The opportune "fire in the rear," of rebel agents and sympathizers in the free states deranged all the well-laid plans of last summer, and secured to the rebels the winter to strengthen their armies by a new conscription, and accumulate new material of war. Now, we cannot afford to suffer any such diversion during next summer; nothing must be allowed to interfere with the plans of General Grant. If we are to have riotous outbreaks, we who stay at home must be ready to vindicate the laws and maintain order. Not a soldier can be spared from any of the armies, for our Generals must have force enough to make victory sure. We entreat true men every-where to think of this; and to prepare themselves to do their duty in any emergency which may arise. There will be no disturbances now or for some time to come, but when our armies are in mid career, when the enemy is hard pressed and likely to be beaten.

In the great body of the people of the North, the farmers, merchants and workingmen, we have the most perfect confidence; the elections and a thousand other signs show that there is an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the prosecution of the war; and the most earnest party differences that exist relate to the conduct of the war, rather than to the merits of the war itself. But there are scattered through the cities and large towns a great number of rebel emissaries; it is estimated that in this city alone there are no less than twenty thousand of this class, who have been furnisded with more or less money by the rebel chiefs to do mischief. They are unscrupulous and reckless, and work upon every bad element which exists in Northern society, inflaming passions and prejudices, and exciting the jealousies of the ignorant, in order to produce divisions.

Why these men, who may be easily known are permitted to remain here, when the laws of war give the government ample power to expel them, it is for that to say; but while they are here, it is our duty to be on our guard in every way against their machinations. —N. Y. Evening Post.

NEVER JUDGE TO HASTILY.—Gen. Heintzleman, who is quiet but frank and detetmined in his manner of intercourse has said many good and pungent things regarding the service since this war commenced. We think the best that we have heard him is said to have occurred not long since. A party of gentlemen were discussing the merits and demerits of Gen. McClellan. He had his admirers in the group who contended that he had shown himself a brave and capable officer, while, on the other hand, his merits were treated lightly and his demerits shown to be the greater of the two. "Why so?" inquired one—"Gen. McClellan has shown courage and strategy as a General. His army fought well on the Peninsula." "No!" responded the other, "he lacks courage." During this colloquy Gen. Heintzleman had been an attentive but quiet listener. Turning to the gentleman who was berating the courage of McClellan—he said in his peculiar nasal tone—"How do you know, sir, that he hasn't courage? Never judge too hastily sir, of a man's courage—Gen. McClellan has never been under fire, and you can't tell whether a man is brave or not, until he passes that ordeal." The argument was closed.—Buffalo Express.

DR. SWAIN'S

Bourbon Bitters,

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant, and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon Free from grain oil, with flowers, buds, and barks of the highest medical virtue. Has received the endorsement of more than two hundred eminent physicians, who have recommended its use by weak and delicate females aged persons, and young children, in all cases of dispepsia, loss of appetite, jaundice, diarrhea, sour stomach, fetid breath, fever and ague, weak lungs debility from whatever cause and in all those cases which in their incipient stages require only a generous diet, and an invigorating stimulant.

Being now used to the exclusion of all other bitters in more than fifty and millions of private families; and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stam tax by the United States government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

Army Hospitals,

These bitters are alike delicious to the sense of smell and taste, ministering to health through the medium of a well pleased palate: giving bloom to the cheek of the invalid and restoring broken health and declining years to the vigor and elasticity of youth.

PUBLICATIONS.

1864. PROSPECTUS. 1864.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

No Submission to Traitors. "The Union Must and Shall be Preserved."

This well known and popular journal is noted for avowing its sentiments with candor, fearlessness, and independence. It aims to be right rather than popular, and takes the responsibility of telling the truth regardless of the offense that may be given to prejudice and ignorance.

The principles and objects which the Chicago Tribune espouses are: The Cause of Freedom Justice and Humanity. Perpetuity of the Union. Obedience to the Constitution and Supremacy of the Laws. A Denial of the Right to a Rebels to hold any Loyal Person in Slavery, and an Affirmance that Rebels have no Rights under the Constitution until they first obey it And the prosecution of the war against treason until the authority of the government is established over the whole union. There must be no faltering—no steps backwards. Failure will now entail dishonor and misery, rendering life and property insecure, and leaving the country a prey to anarchy, rapine, and murder. Too much priceless blood and treasure have been sacrificed to stop now. The cheapest and straightest road to enduring peace is straight forward. If it cost our forefathers seven years of fearful struggle to found the republic, it is surely worth as great an effort on the part of this generation to preserve it.

We have no abiding faith that the ensuing year will witness the complete overthrow of the rebel confederacy. During the past year great victories have been won, and a territory larger than France or Germany has been wrested from the rebels and restored to the union. One more campaign by sea and land "will close forever the fountains of sedition and civil war"

A First Class Newspaper.

But the Chicago Tribune, while fearless in the expression of its opinions and patriotic in its endeavors, aims at being a first class newspaper. It brings the news to the people of the Northwest several days sooner than the papers of the seaboard.

The contents of the Weekly Tribune embrace:

1st.—A complete current history of the progress of the war, with the general news of the day.
2d.—Copious telegraphic dispatches and special correspondence, containing the latest news, from all parts, down to the hour of going to press.
3d.—Reports of meetings, wheer political, religious, agricultural, educational, or miscellaneous.
5th.—Market reports embracing every article the farmer or dealer can expect to find quoted in a newspaper. The Tribune has achieved the highest reputation as a commercial paper.
6th.—Carefully prepared agricultural and horticultural articles by "Rural" and other able writers on the farm and garden.

TERMS—PAYABLE IN ADVANCE.

In consequence of the high price of white paper and the great increase of the wages of printers, and the enhanced cost of everything connected with printing, the following are the lowest terms at which the Tribune can be afforded. There will be no deviation from these rates:

Weekly, single subscribers,	$ 2 00
" to clubs of 4 copies,	7 00
" to clubs of 6 copies,	10 00
" to clubs of 12 copies,	18 00
" to clubs of 21 copies,	30 00
Tri-Weekly, single subscribers,	5 00
" six months,	3 00
" to clubs of 4 copies	18 00
" to clubs of 8 copies	34 00

Daily Tribune one year nine dollars
Daily Tribune six months five dollars.
Daily Tribune three months two dollars.

Remittances for clubs must be made at one time, but additions may be made at any time at club rates, after a club has been raised

PREMIUMS FOR CLUBS.

For a club of 12 copies to one address, with $18, a free copy of the weekly.
For a club of 22 copies to one address with $33 a free copy of tri weekly for six months.
For a club of 40 copies to one address, with $80, a free copy of the tri-weekly one year or daily six months.

SEWING MACHINES.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINES.—Our Letter A Family Sewing Machine is fast gaining a world-wide reputation It is beyond doubt the best and cheapest and most beautiful of all family sewing machines yet offered to the public. No other family sewing machine has so many useful appliances for hemming, binding, felling, tucking, gathering, guaging, braiding, embroidering, cording, etc. No other family sewing machine has so much capacity for so great a variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our family sewing machine most reliable and most durable and, most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see, at a glance, how to use the Letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our family sewing machines are finished in chaste and exquisite sty

The folding case of the family machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substanstial table to sustain the work. sWhile ome of the cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the more costly and superior manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the family machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty. It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The branch offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, etc., of the very best quality

FINKLE & LYON'S

Sewing Machines.

These Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread or loop-stitch machines do will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, tc., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather, without changing the feed, needle, or tension, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood, and if any part is broken by accident it is readily replaced.

Dead.

Half-mast the flag. Muffle the drums. Turn the bayonets to the ground. Whistle the fife slowly.—Hang a cloud over the sun. Let the Spring birds cease their warble. Sedwick is dead, Wadsworth is dead and Hays and Webb, and others equal to these in courage and brave daring, though, it may be, not equal to these in eminence and renown, and while we write perchance others of the brave and the renowned are falling and are dying.

A loving sorrow is impatient, and tenderly chides the beautiful audacity of galantry that made the brow of the brave Sedgwick so conspicuous a mark for the rebel bullet. But bear him, to the rear, and to his home, and to his bereaved hearthstone, and to the church yard, and lower him away from our straining eyes in all reverant affection. He will sleep well with the greatful eyes of his countrmen upon his grave, and following his spirit to the sky. Farewell!

Wadsworth—how manly he looked even in citizen's plain attire, and how noble and commanding in the saddle, and how inspiring when his cheek mantled, his eye red, his eye fired, his sword gleamed, and his fierce horse carried him into the thickness and madness of the fight. He was faithful and industrious in the dry routine of military duty, always at his work from the rising to the setting of the sun, and he was eager, resolute, and burning with high mettle, when the order came for the advance, and when the bugle sounded the charge.

The crimson has gone from the cheek, the fire from the eye, the commanding air from the manly form; the gleam of the sword is hid away in the sheath, the proud horse follows the hearse with bowed head, and Wadsworth, the gentleman and nobleman, and intrepid soldier is laid away among the choicest sons of the Empire State. Farewell!

Younger and less faithful in their spheres, and no less indomitable and intrepid in the hour of fire and blood are these other two, Hays and Webb. They were schooled in their profession.

They were the educated children of the Republic. And they did not learn the science of battle at the feet of their Government only to use it against their Government. They did not, like those who confronted them in the armies of the insurgents, stab the nation to the heart with the sword which the nation had taught them the use of. They were among those from West Point who did not bow the knee to the black Baal of human slavery, or take up arms in his defence. They fell in the spring of the year of their life. They fell with hard earned laurels upon them. They were faithful or they would not have been on the spot that they fell upon; they bore themselves as true knights of the flag or they would not have fallen where they did. Farewell!

Forms of the hero hearted ones, farewell! Spirit of your fidelity and valor remain and fill the forms that remain!

Day by day the roll-call of the dead fills up. The name on the sad scroll multiply. Bereavements are added to bereavements. Afflicted hearts accumulate. But the martyrdom goes on that the Republic may go on. The noble heroes fall that the noble cause may not. The frightful war is for a stable peace. The dead have died that the living may live.—The dead will be cherished by the living; the living will take example of the dead.—Chicago Eve. Journal.

The American Young Lady.—I said that all the young ladies can talk. A flow of sharp, shrewd, intelligent talk is the shining attainment of all American ladies, and from the school girl upwards. All the school girls themselves talk with an ease and volubility that would astonish the superintendents of the ladies colleges at home. There is no hesitation, no blushing, no stammering, no twiddling of the fingers, no plucking at boquets, or nervous unhemming of hankerchiefs. The vapid inanities that pass between partners at the English ball would be scouted. To be shy is to be unpatriotic. The American young lady goes straight to the point. How is your health? How long have you been in the country? Do you like it? Have you had a good time? What do you think of the actions in the present struggle? Are you not struck with admiration at the deeds of valor performed by the nation's armies? Have you read Longfellow's Wayside Inn? When is Tennyson's Boadicea to appear? Was not England convulsed with enthusiasm at the appearance of Rev. Ward Beecher! Don't you think the room wants oxygen? Are not the monitors triumphs of mechanical construction? Have you been to Niagara? These are few of the queries she rattled out. You are at first delighted, then amazed, and at last puzzled: for the intelligent and well dressed young lady continually addresses you as "sir," and every now and then she asks you a question so naive, so artlessly ignorant, that you pause to inquire of yourself whether she can be more than six years old.—Sala.

Work for Those who stay at Home.

So far as the operations against the rebels are concerned, we believe there is no reason to fear of their success; but those who remain at home must take care that our soldiers are not disturbed and the plans of our generals disarranged this year, as they were last, by a fire in the rear. There have been mutterings and hints of riot and insurrection during the past winter; the Knights of the Golden Circle are still active in the Northwest; they held a convention not long since; and Reverend Dr. Breckinridge asserted publicly, only a few weeks ago, that a plot had been formed in Kentuckey to hand that state over to the rebels. Since last July there is no longer any doubt that there are men in the free states desperate enough to attempt a diversion in favor of the rebels; and the more hardly pushed Davis is, the more ready will his allies and agents at the North be to help him out of a tight place.

To show what can be done in this direction if loyal citizens are not prepared to put down at once, and without help from the army, every demonstration against the laws in the free states, we need only recite the plain results of the July riots. When these disturbances broke out it became necessary to call home from the Potomac army about fifteen thousand men. The army, thus weakened after the severe losses of the battle of Gettysburg, was not strong enough to attack Lee with a certainty of success; and it is now well known that in case General Meade had attacked and been beaten fresh insurrections would at once have broken out in different places. Lee, therefore, secured his retreat by the help of the New York rioters.

But this was not all Meade's army, weakened by the heavy detachments sent north to keep order there, was unable to pursue the campaign in Virginia; Lee who knew this through the newspapers, presently ventured to send Longstreet to Chattanooga. Longstreet's troops enabled Bragg to deliver the battle of Chickamauga, the result of which was to stop Rosecrans, and drive him back to Chattanooga. Had it not been for the heavy reinforcements Bragg received from Lee, Rosecrans would have beaten him, and would have closed the campaign at Atlanta in September last, instead of which we have to fight another series of battles to gain that point.

These were the results of the disturbancer in this and other states. The opportune "fire in the rear," of rebel agents and sympathizers in the free states deranged all the well-laid plans of last summer, and secured to the rebels the winter to strengthen their armies by a new conscription, and accumulate new material of war. Now, we cannot afford to suffer any such diversion during next summer; nothing must be allowed to interfere with the plans of General Grant. If we are to have riotous outbreaks, we who stay at home must be ready to vindicate the laws and maintain order. Not a soldier can be spared from any of the armies, for our Generals must have force enough to make victory sure. We entreat true men every-where to think of this; and to prepare themselves to do their duty in any emergency which may arise. There will be no disturbances now or for some time to come, but when our armies are in mid career, when the enemy is hard pressed and likely to be beaten.

In the great body of the people of the North, the farmers, merchants and workingmen, we have the most perfect confidence; the elections and a thousand other signs show that there is an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the prosecution of the war; and the most earnest party differences that exist relate to the conduct of the war, rather than to the merits of the war itself. But there are scattered through the cities and large towns a great number of rebel emissaries; it is estimated that in this city alone there are no less than twenty thousand of this class, who have been furnished with more or less money by the rebel chiefs to do mischief. They are unscrupulous and reckless, and work upon every bad element which exists in Northern society, inflaming passions and prejudices, and exciting the jealousies of the ignorant, in order to produce divisions.

Why these men, who may be easily known are permitted to remain here, when the laws of war give the government ample power to expel them, it is for that to say; but while they are here, it is our duty to be on our guard in every way against their machinations. —N. Y. Evening Post.

Never Judge to Hastily.—Gen. Heintzleman, who is quiet but frank and detetmined in his manner of intercourse has said many good and pungent things regarding the service since this war commenced. We think the best that we have heard him is said to have occurred not long since. A party of gentlemen were discussing the merits and demerits of Gen. McClellan. He had his admirers in the group who contended that he had shown himself a brave and capable officer, while, on the other hand, his merits were treated lightly and his demerits shown to be the greater of the two. "Why so?" inquired one—"Gen. McClellan has shown courage and strategy as a General. His army fought well on the Peninsula." "No!" responded the other, "he lacks courage." During this colloquy Gen. Heintzleman had been an attentive but quiet listener. Turning to the gentleman who was berating the courage of McClellan—he said in his peculiar nasal tone—"How do you know, sir, that he hasn't courage? Never judge too hastily sir, of a man's courage—Gen. McClellan has never been under fire, and you can't tell whether a man is brave or not, until he passes that ordeal." The argument was closed.—Buffalo Express.

DR. SWAIN'S

Bourbon Bitters,

A healthy tonic, gentle stimulant, and unequalled morning appetizer. Prepared in ripe old Bourbon Free from grain oil, with flowers, buds, and barks of the highest medical virtue. Has received the endorsement of more than two hundred eminent physicians, who have recommended its use by weak and delicate females, aged persons, and young children, in all cases of dispepsia, loss of appetite, jaundice, diarrhœa, sour stomach, fetid breath, fever and ague, weak lungs debility from whatever cause and in all those cases which in their incipient stages require only a generous diet, and an invigorating stimulant.

Being now used to the exclusion of all other bitters in more than fifty and millions of private families; and is the only popular medicine which has been especially exempted from stam; tax by the United States government, on the ground of its having been adopted as a standard remedy by the medical profession.

These bitters are alike delicious to the sense of smell and taste, ministering to health through the medium of a well pleased palate: giving bloom to the cheek of the invalid and restoring broken health and declining years to the vigor and elasticity of youth.

PUBLICATIONS.

1864. PROSPECTUS. 1864.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

A daily, tri weekly, and weekly newspaper, devoted to News, Commerce, Politics, Agriculture, Science, and Literature. No Submission to Traitors. "The Union Must and Shall be Preserved."

This well known and popular journal is noted for avowing its sentiments with candor, fearlessness, and independence. It aims to be right rather than popular, and takes the responsibility of telling the truth regardless of the offense that may be given to prejudice and ignorance.

The principles and objects which the Chicago Tribune espouses are: The Cause of Freedom Justice and Humanity. Perpetuity of the Union. Obedience to the Constitution and Supremacy of the Laws. A Denial of the Right to a Rebels to hold any Loyal Person in Slavery, and an Affirmance that Rebels have no Rights under the Constitution until they first obey it. And the prosecution of the war against treason until the authority of the government is established over the whole union. There must be no faltering—no steps backwards. Failure will now entail dishonor and misery, rendering life and property insecure, and leaving the country a prey to anarchy, rapine, and murder. Too much priceless blood and treasure have been sacrificed to stop now. The cheapest and straightest road to enduring peace is straight forward. If it cost our forefathers seven years of fearful struggle to found the republic, it is surely worth as great an effort on the part of this generation to preserve it.

We have no abiding faith that the ensuing year will witness the complete overthrow of the rebel confederacy. During the past year great victories have been won, and a territory larger than France or Germany has been wrested from the rebels and restored to the union. One more campaign by sea and land "will close forever the fountains of sedition and civil war"

A First Class Newspaper.

But the Chicago Tribune, while fearless in the expression of its opinions and patriotic in its endevors, aims at being a first class newspaper. It brings the news to the people of the Northwest several days sooner than the papers of the seaboard.

The contents of the Weekly Tribune embrace:

1st.—A complete current history of the progress of the war, with the general news of the day.

2d.—Copious telegraphic dispatches and special correspondence, containing the latest news, from all parts, down to the hour of going to press.

3d.—Reports of meetings, wheer political, religious, agricultural, educational, or miscellaneous.

5th.—Market reports, embracing every article the farmer or dealer can expect to find quoted in a newspaper. The Tribune has achieved the highest reputation as a commercial paper.

6th.—Carefully prepared agricultural and horticultural articles by "Rural" and other able writers on the farm and garden.

TERMS—PAYABLE IN ADVANCE.

In consequence of the high price of white paper and the great increase of the wages of printers, and the enhanced cost of everything connected with printing, the following are the lowest terms at which the Tribune can be afforded. There will be no deviation from these rates:

Weekly, single subscribers,	$ 2 00
" to clubs of 4 copies,	7 00
" to clubs of 6 copies,	10 00
" to clubs of 12 copies,	18 00

SEWING MACHINES.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINES.—Our Letter A Family Sewing Machine is fast gaining a world-wide reputation It is beyond doubt the best and cheapest and most beautiful of all family sewing machines yet offered to the public. No other family sewing machine has so many useful appliances for hemming, binding, felling, tucking, gathering, guaging, braiding, embroidering, cording, etc. No other family sewing machine has so much capacity for so great a variety of work. It will sew all kinds of cloth, and with all kinds of thread. Great and recent improvements make our family sewing machine most reliable and most durable and, most certain in action at all rates of speed. It makes the interlocked stitch, which is the best stitch known. Any one, even of the most ordinary capacity, can see, at a glance, how to use the Letter A Family Sewing Machine. Our family sewing machines are finished in chaste and exquisite sty

The folding case of the family machine is a piece of cunning workmanship of the most useful kind. It protects the machine when not in use, and when about to be operated may be opened as a spacious and substanstial table to sustain the work. While ome of the cases, made out of the choicest woods, are finished in the simplest and chastest manner possible, others are adorned and embellished in the more costly and superior manner.

It is absolutely necessary to see the family machine in operation, so as to judge of its great capacity and beauty. It is fast becoming as popular for family sewing as our manufacturing machines are for manufacturing purposes.

The branch offices are well supplied with silk, twist, thread, needles, oil, etc., of the very best quality

Sewing Machines.

These Machines make the lock stitch alike on both sides, and use less than half the thread and silk that the single or double thread or loop-stitch machines do will Hem, Fell, Gather, Cord, Braid, Bind, &c., and are better adapted than any other Sewing Machine in use to the frequent changes and great variety of sewing required in a family, for they will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Marseilles without stopping, and make every stitch perfect, or from the finest gauze to the heaviest-beaver cloth, or even the stoutest harness leather, without changing the feed, needle, or tension, or making any adjustment of Machine whatever!

They are simple in construction, and easily understood, and if any part is broken by accident it is readily replaced.

These are peculiar facts, and will go far to determine the choice of any intelligent buyer.
